Ky Pledges More Viet Troops

Action Follows U.S.'s

By Associated Press

With U.S. forces steadily increasing in South Vietnam, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky pledged Saturday a buildup in the Vietnamese army until victory is achieved.

There now are about 500,000 in the Vietnamese armed forces, including regional troops in the provinces. President Johnson has announced U.S. forces will be increased to 125,000 men. There are about 80,000 American military personnel in South Vietnam now.

In an interview with a Vietnamese newspaper, Ky said increases in the armed forces would be made in the near future but, for security reasons, gave no figures.

"Every spot in this country may be the battlefield," he warned.

In one phase of the American operations, a Hawaiian conference of military leaders Monday will follow up weekend talks by President Johnson with his chief advisers on the Vietnam war.

The President at his ranch home talked by phone with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk and summoned Arthur J. Goldberg U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, for an on-the-scene session.

The diplomatic portions of these talks presumably centered on the peace-seeking aspects of the U.S. approach which are going forward simultaneously with reinforcement of American power in the Southeast Asian theater of war.

But his discussions with McNamara presumably turned largely on implementation of the 50,000-man increase in U.S. forces.

Meanwhile, preparations are underway for the meeting in Hawaii of three top military officials.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of American forces in Vietnam, will meet with Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. U.S.G. Sharp, over-all commander of the Pacific, at Sharp's Hawaiian headquarters, a Pentagon announcement said.

U.S. and Vietnamese planes dumped 20 tons of bombs Saturday night on a North Vietnamese ammunition dump, inflicting heavy damage, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The four American F101 jets and 10 Vietnamese propeller-driven Skyraiders left the buildings at Xom Rung, 75 miles northwest of the border either destroyed or extensively damaged, the spokesman said.

The raid highlighted an evening of steady air activity against North Vietnam.

On Friday night, two U.S. Navy A6 Intruders from the 7th Fleet carrier Independence struck the Thann Hoa power plant about 80 miles south of Hanoi, a military spokesman reported.

Hruska Scores President

'Seriousness Of Vietnam Is Minimized'

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said President Johnson seems to be trying to minimize the seriousness of the Viet Nam situation "by refusing to deal with the real seriousness of it."

Of Johnson's news conference statements on the crisis, Hruska commented: "The people of the nation are entitled to know and should have been told in greater detail what is really involved . . .

"They're entitled to know why the call-up of the reserves and National Guard was discussed for a while and then later dropped."

In Des Moines, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., and Sen. Jack Miller, R-Ia., advocated use of Nationalist Chinese troops for combat against the Vietnam Communists.

Hruska said "there is general agreement that a military decision would be quite difficult to reach in Vietnam and "it is not likely that there can be a clear-cut victory" or much progress in that direction for a long time.

Although he was critical of Johnson in some respects, Hruska said one result of the President's speech was that those urging withdrawal from Viet Nam "are probably going to be hard put to sustain that position now."

Hruska asked these questions:

"If America withdraws from Vietnam, to what point will it be? Will we abandon Thailand and Cambodia also? Will we abandon the Philippines? Will we refuse to help defend New Zealand and Australia if they are attacked, or even Japan in time?"

He said, however, that "there seems to be good ground for expressing disappointment in the President's failure to be more specific, more candid, and more complete in his answers about the day's questions. We know that the situation is much more serious."

Steel Talks Recess for Weekend

Tough Month Of Parleys Due

By Associated Press

Basic steel contract talks were in weekend recess Saturday while both sides planned their strategy for the tough bargaining that lies ahead before a Sept. 1 strike deadline.

The United Steelworkers Union told the industry Friday that it would serve 30 days strike notice effective Sunday.

Union President I. W. Abel, and chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper said there was no firm schedule for top level talks.

However, both men indicated that negotiations on the company-by-company and subcommittee level were nearing completion and that the 10-member union-industry team that decides wages and other key provisions in the new contract would begin daily talks soon, possibly this week.

The top level team has been meeting once or twice weekly for the past two months, mainly to review progress at lower levels. Abel and Cooper indicated that the two sides are about nine cents apart with the industry offering wage and benefit increases of nine cents an hour and the union demanding 18 cents.

Three Months Ago

This is virtually the same position they were in three monts ago when an interim contract averted a May 1 strike.

Demonstrators Hurt at Americus

Compiled From Press Wires

Five Negroes were injured when white men attacked demonstrators in Americus, Ga., Saturday shortly before uneral services for a white man shot down on a street corner Wednesday night.

About 500 persons attended he services for Andrew A. Whatley, 21, in the First Baptist Church. The minister said Americus is a community as divided as "a room full of unruly children."

Whatley, a Marine Corps enlistee of one week, was killed by shots fired from a passing car. Two Negroes have been charged with murder.

Shortly after the funeral, Negro and white demonstrators marched to the Sumter County courthouse. They were escorted by state troopers

Earlier in the day, five Negroes were struck, one by a snub-nosed revolver, as about 30 white men broke up a demonstration by an equal number of Negroes.

One of the five, Denny LeNow, 21, a civil rights worker from Wisconsin, was treated for head cuts caused by the pistol blow.

At Greensboro, Ala. negroes called a halt to demonstrations Saturday to concentrate on getting large numbers of demonstrators out of jail. More than 475 Negroes have been arrested

The Rev. A. T. Days, a leader and one of several Negroes released in bond from jail, said no further demonstrations were planned for the remainder of the week.

He said the Rev. Andrew Young, a top aide to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is expected to arrive in Greensboro Sunday night.

Monday will be registration day throughout Alabama. Days said no plans for voter registration demonstrations have been organized.

At Chicago, participation in civil rights demonstrations has caused some Chicago religious agencies to lose money and members, spokesmen report.

One agency, the Catholic Interracial Council, had picked up supporters when it joined the march in Selma, Ala., then lost them when demonstrations moved to Chicago, said John A McDermott, executive director.

Sister Mary William, superior of Marillac House, a west side settlement house for needy children, said about $40,000 in expected funds has been lost since six nuns were arrested marching to protest alleged de facto segregation in Chicago schools.

About 200 Negroes marched on the Bogalusa, La. city hall Saturday, the first march to be held since a New Orleans judge ordered better police protection for the civil rights workers.

Nation Crazy in Jubilation VJ Day, Just 20 Years Ago

By TOM HENSHAW, AP

The President of the United States glanced at the clock in the White House offices. It was 7p.m., eastern war time, Aug. 14, 1945, the hour apointed by Allied agreement. With a calmness he did not feel, Harry S. Truman began reading the announcement that would change the lives of 140 million Americans.

"I have received this afternoon a message from the Japanese government . . . " he read as newsmen followed his words in their copies of the text. "I deem this . . . full acceptance of the Potsdam Declaration, which specifies the unconditional surrender of Japan."

When he finished, the President of the United States broke out his broadest grin and the American people broke out unqualified emotions that had been stored away for more than 3½ years.

Quiet on Fronts

World War II, which began for America on Dec. 7, 1941 in a rain of Japanese bombs on Pearl Harbor and eventually cost 405,399 American dead, 670,846 American wounded and 350 billion American dollars, was over on all fronts at last.

The magnitude of the celebration that followed was best measured in New York's Times Square. By 10 p.m., three hours after the Truman announcement, two million people jammed the 24-block area, screaming, cheering, blowing horns, embracing and throwing hats, paper, streamers and flags into the air. Next day, New York street cleaners swept up 4,863 tons of paper.

In San Francisco, where police were instructed to "let the people do anything within reason and keep property damage down," the celebrating got out of hand and touched off three days of "peace riots." Eleven people were killed and more than 1,000 were wounded and the bill for broken windows on Market Street alone totalled $25,000.

It was a time to cheer, a time to throw things, even a time to break windows, for, on Aug. 14, 1945, whatever lay in the uncertain future was bound to be better than that which lay in the past.

What was it like, the year 1945, the year that meant so much to so many: For those who never knew and for those who don't remember, it was like this:

You just didn't walk into the local market and slap

Reapportion Bill Vote Soon

Foes Claim They Can Kill Measure

Washington (UPI) — Opponents were confident Saturday that they have the votes to defeat a proposed constitutional amendment on state legislative reapportionment in a Senate showdown this week.

The dispute over the controversial proposal to override the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling is a major barrier to congressional adjournment.

The opponents claimed a nose count shows from 34 to 37 senators ready to vote against the amendment sponsored by Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. That would be enough to defeat the measure which requires approval of two-thirds of those voting.

The amendment would permit a state, by referendum vote, to apportion one house of its legislature on the basis of such factors as geography and political subdivisions along with population. The Supreme Court rulings require apportionment of both legislative houses on the basis of population alone.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield announced Friday that he and Dirksen had agreed to bring the amendment and proposals for amending it to a vote next Wednesday. Dirksen has proposed that it be substituted for a pending minor bill designating Aug. 31-Sept. 6 as American Legion Baseball Week.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who is convinced the measure will be defeated, said some of the other opponents wanted to canvas for further votes and blocked an immediate agreement on the Wednesday voting deadline. Mansfield said he would try again on Monday. Proxmire said he hoped it can be arranged.

Mansfield has stated that he hopes Congress will be ready to go home by Labor Day. The administration's farm bill and a bill to repeal the so-called right-to-work laws in 19 states would be the major question-marks if the reapportionment amendment is defeated.

The right-to-work repealer, which would erase section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, has been the topic of cloakroom talk of a possible filibuster.

The teller pushed his alarm button and the couple fled. But a moment later the girl dashed back into the bank, grabbed her change from the counter, and rushed out again.

Freedom Democratic Party Urges Negroes to Become Draft Dodgers

Jackson, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's selective service director said Saturday he has asked the Justice Department to look into an appeal circulated by a militant civil rights group calling on Negro mothers to urge their sons to be draft dodgers.

Col. James L. Davis, the head of the draft in Mississippi, said he had forwarded the printed appeal to the U.S. attorney's office here.

"I'm shocked," said Davis, adding that similar incidents had resulted in convictions. He declined to elaborate.

"Negroes should not honor the draft here in Mississippi," said a newsletter printed by the Freedom Democratic Party, a largely Negro group.

Lawrence Guyot, executive secretary of the party, hurried back to Jackson from the Mississippi Gulf coast Saturday after the newsletter had been publicized Friday. He said the party's executive committee neither condemned nor condoned the appeal.

Guyet said the newsletter was an official organ of the party.

State leaders of the National Assn. for the advancement of Colored People condemned the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party for their statement.

"In times of peril," the NAACP said, "it is the duty of every American to give unstinted support to the fight for freedom abroad and step up the pace for the fight for democracy at home."

The NAACP statement was issued by State Secretary Charles Evers of Jackson and State President Aaron Henry of Clarksdale.

Ranier Selig, a party worker from Chicago, said Saturday he had instructed nearly 50 students in McComb about "the evils of the bomb and what we can do to stop this war in Vietnam."

Selig said the anti-military feeling had been "sort of in the air for quite a while, but only when we put it in writing did it catch on."

The party newsletter — which also called for Negroes in Vietnam to go on hunger strikes — drew sharp criticism from Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich.

Diggs, a Negro who supported the Freedom Democrats' challenge of regular party seating at the 1964 Democratic national convention, said the plea was "ridiculous and completely irresponsible."

"In event of any confrontation or conflict with outside groups," Diggs said about the draft disobedience protest, "any bombs sent here will not be labeled for any particular segment of society. They will be labeled for all of us."

Committee Works on Klan Control Measure

Washington (AP) — The House committee on un-American activities is trying to prepare a detailed record on the Ku Klux Klan, a record the committee hopes will form the basis for federal law to control the Klan.

As a result, the committee now is rounding out a fourth month of preliminary investigation of the various Klan groups with no firm idea yet when it will hold open hearings.

Staff investigators have been engaged in field work since April and prospective witnesses have been brought to Washington to be questioned in secret. Pervading the operation is an air of secrecy suggestive of a CIA or FBI operation.

Besides the usual reason — no investigator wants to tip his hand before his case is complete — there is a special one. It's fear on the part of witnesses.

Several witnesses, it was learned, have told the committee or its investigators they fear reprisals. Committee sources are reluctant to discuss the investigation with outsiders lest they contribute, however indirectly, to such reprisals.

'Fertility' Doctor's Wife Childless After 31 Years

By GAY PAULEY

Graesoe, Sweden (UPI) — Dr. Carl A. Gemzell, the physician-scientist who helped develop hormone treatments for infertility, said Saturday there was hope for a few barren women. But he cautioned, "we are not the great white hope for the childless."

Gemzell shot into the headlines this week when two previously infertile women, one in Sweden and one in New Zealand, gave birth to quintuplets after they had received hormone treatments by the method worked out by Gemzell.

Gemzell is a man of many sides. At one moment he discusses the new hopes for the women who want children but have remained infertile. In the next he is the relaxed country squire, lord of eight slightly ragged acres, who discusses the art of chopping wood.

Though prominent in the field of obstetrics and gynecology there is irony for the doctor and his wife, Lisa, in the births reported so prominently. Married for 31 years, they are childless.

Gemzell is physician teacher, administrator and writer in his chosen field, biological chemistry. Since 1961, he has headed the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Uppsala University, Scandinavia's oldest university.

He is also the affable host who in soiled duck trousers and tan pullover sweater announced, "I make an excellent martini" — and does.

And, with all the fame, he remains a man of modesty and one who wants the record straight once and for all on what he and his team of physicians can do to help barren women produce. The women he can help are a small percentage, he said.

CAPEL HOTO

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Gemzell relax at Graeso Island summer home.

"We are not the great white hope for all the childless," said Dr. Gemzell.

The hormone injections are not given to women with a normal menstrual cycle who remain childless.

Gemzell said his patients are those women who for one reason or another, perhaps surgery for a tumor, have lost the important pituitary gland, or the gland is malfunctioning and does not produce the hormones which are a factor in reproduction. The patients are women who do not menstruate but on medical check are found to have normal ovaries which can respond to homonal treatment.

Gemzell stressed that of the childless of this world perhaps this group of women is "five or 10%" of the female population.

"I do not see our methods as being the solution for all," he said.

"Tell them," he added, "please no more letters."

He said he gets hundreds from all parts of the world.

"It seems to be universal," said Gemzel, "that a woman desires children. She will do anything . . . spend a fortune. As physicians, we have to keep apart the thought of the world's overpopulation, and the inidividual problem, the woman's longing for a child."

Cost would hardly be a barrier at Gemzell's Uppsala clinic — for the injections alone, that is. He said the whole series cost $30 to $40 and the actual fee is paid for by grants. But, he added, "it is not inexpensive" for a husband and wife to travel to Uppsala — yes, the husband also must be on hand —and stay for the two weeks necessary.

Negotiation Progresses

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—An important step forward was reported Saturday in the painfully long and delicate negotiations to end the Dominican rebellion.

Well-informed sources said that an understanding finally had been reached opening the way for a meeting of ministry men from the rebel and junta camps.

It would be the first-face-to-face bargaining by representatives from each side. But disagreements within each camp could still prevent the talks from taking place.

These sources said the junta military men apparently softened their earlier position. Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, president of the rebel regime, had named 10 second-level officers—captains, lieutenants and majors—to start the bargaining.

Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, the head of the junta's armed forces, had rejected the idea of sending second-level officers. He insisted on meeting top-rank with Caamano.

It is now reported that both sides expressed a willingness to send a limited number of lower-grade officers to the bargaining table, perhaps two or three. Later, as the talks progress, higher officers might also participate.

Nebraska As Outstanding Example

Nebraska's planning of lakes along the Interstate Highway got favorable notice in Washington recently.

* * *

Federal Highway Administrator Rex Whitton told the National Highway Conference that there is need to recognize that "social responsibilities of highways transcend the basic function of transporting people and goods."

Then he reviewed the Nebraska planning with special praise for the string of lakes along Interstate 80 through the Platte Valley. The cooperation between the Department of Roads and the Nebraska Game Commission has made this possible.

The commitments of both the Department of Roads and the Game Commission are so heavy that local communities would do well to join in helping with development of the roadway lakes. This could take the form of plantings, camping facilities, bath houses and restrooms, all, of course, under state supervision.

There is no better way to stop tourists than to provide temptations along the Interstate. Nebraska must live down its reputation of being a "state en route to recreation spots."

This will take the effort of all Nebraskans and especially the communities strategically located. The state has furnished the opportunity and now it is up to communities to help build up recreation areas and reap some tourist business.

Nature also is playing its part in beautifying I-80. Favorable weather has resulted in a remarkable growth of the tree plantings along the right-of-way. Given a few years the trees will do much to dispel the idea that Nebraska is a treeless, monotonous plains area.

* * *

With the drouth in the northeastern part of the nation, Nebraska should start building its image as an oasis—a land of lakes, running water, open spaces and trees. The remarks by Highway Administrator Whitton should provide a good start for such an image.

The Republican Tax Position

It is possible that the Republican party in Nebraska has turned over all its policy-making authority to its representatives in Douglas County.

* * *

But if this is not the case, other members of the GOP across the state should note well the position in which their Douglas County chairman, Robert Hasebroock, is placing the party.

* * *

In his zeal to avoid a tax system based on earnings rather than property ownership, Hasebroock, an Omaha banker, has abandoned any pretext of impartiality on the income tax issue.

More than that, he did it in the name of the Republican party of Nebraska.

Criticizing the state Democratic party for not being gung-ho to circulate referendum petitions, Hasebroock declared:

"The Republican party is making no pretenses. I say, let's bury a Nebraska income tax once and for all."

It should be of great interest to many Republicans over the state to learn that their party is dedicated to "burying a Nebraska income tax once and for all."

This is not the position of the party's state platform; and it is not the position of a great many rank and file members of the party or of a number of party leaders in other counties.

At the moment it apparently is the position only of the party's leader in the state's largest and richest county.

* * *

Unless other party officials let the public know differently, however, Hasebroock will be successful in representing this as the position of Republicans all over the state.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND'S Opinion

The Soviet Tactic

Washington—In Moscow the Soviets told Ambassador Averell Harriman they really wanted to negotiate on disarmament. In Geneva, at the reopening of the 17-nation disarmament conference, the Soviets put the price of any agreement so high as to suggest that they wanted everything their way, including a chunk of the moon — or nothing.

Drummond

Semyon Tsarapkin, the chief Russian delegate, began by immediately demanding that as conditions of any disarmament the U.S. get out of Europe, NATO be dismantled, and that we sign an unenforceable commitment never to use under any circumstances at any time for any purpose a nuclear weapon.

The reaction to Harriman's word from Moscow was: "Soviets brighten hopes for disarmament." The reaction to Tsarapkin's word from Geneva was: "Soviets dim hopes for disarmament." Neither reaction is justified.

Tsarapkin is not deviating from the unvarying Communist negotiating tactic. Whether it be the Austrian treaty or the limited test ban or the Korean truce, the tactic is always the same: demand the totally unacceptable as a device to get the Western nations to give more than they deem safe — rather than get nowhere. When the Soviets can see what we are prepared to accept, they don't just double their demands; they quadruple them and then blame the U.S. for being "inflexible."

That is Tsarapkin's opening gambit. It should cause no dismay. It is standard operating procedure. It does not mean that the Soviets are disinterested in expanding the test ban or reducing the danger of nuclear proliferation or putting some damper on the arms race. It does mean that they are interested in getting these things not just on their own merits, as beneficial in themselves to both sides — but in getting a lot more for nothing.

The U.S. response ought to be to stand on what we believe wise and prudent and not throw things away either from impatience or overeagerness.

After resisting, for nearly a year, the U.S. proposal to resume the disarmament conference, why did Moscow suddenly acquiesce? It did not want to increase the resentment of the neutral nations by continuing to refuse to reopen the talks. It saw a chance to have another go at killing a proposed NATO nuclear force by trying to extract from the NATO nations its abandonment in return for a nonproliferation treaty.

* * *

Moscow may also want a beginning toward disarmament for its own sake, even when it finds it cannot get extra dividends. Finally, there is the view that the Soviets want to keep in contact with the U.S. at as many points as possible while their support for North Vietnam seriously strains American-Soviet relations.

* * *

There can be a beginning on disarmament only if both sides want to negotiate on disarmament — not on fringe benefits.

ART BUCHWALD'S Opinion

Sleep, It Is a Gentle Thing

Washington — A recent experiment at Duke University Medical Center revealed that women are more easily aroused by noises than are men. It was discovered that at every level of sleep a higher percentage of healthy women than men were awakened by noises. At the deepest level of sleep, the ratio was almost 3 to 1.

Buchwald

I am not at all surprised at the results. As a matter of fact I have been doing some experiments of my own on the question of sleep and I have discovered that it is much harder for a man to go to sleep than it is for a woman, particularly if they are both in the same room.

Over a period of a month I asked male friends to keep a log of the time they turned out the lights and the time they actually got to sleep. The average time between the two was two hours. Just one of the games is a game called something like this:

HE: Good night.

SHE: Good night.

(Three minutes go by.)

SHE: Are you awake?

HE: Whaah nummmum. Yeah, I'm awake.

HE: Good idea. Good night.

SHE: What did George mean tonight when he said he didn't believe in mixed divorces?

HE: I don't know what he meant. I'll ask him tomorrow. Good night.

SHE: I don't like jokes about divorce.

HE: Nobody does.

SHE (puts out cigarette): Good night.

SHE (sits up in bed): Here's a thought. I wonder if the kids put their bicycle

HE: They probably did. Even if they didn't, nobody will steal them.

SHE: That's easy enough for you to say. But if you were around the house all day long you wouldn't be so calm about it.

HE: Calm about what?

* * *

SHE: Everything. You never ask me what's happening around here or how I'm doing or what I feel. All you do is come home, go to bed, turn off the light, and say, "Good night."

* * *

HE: It's 12:30 in the morning. What do you want me to say?

SHE: Say anything you want. Just don't ignore me.

HE: I'm not ignoring you. I'm trying to get some sleep.

(Ten minutes go by.)

SHE: Are you asleep?

HE: No, now I'm not.

SHE: I'm sorry I got mad at you.

HE: That's all right. No harm done.

SHE: I just want to ask one question and then I'll be quiet.

HE: Anything.

The Power of Faith

By Woods Ishmael

Each Wednesday morning in the Arthur Vandenburg room of the United States Senate building about 25 senators gather for what has come to be known as the Senate Prayer Breakfast.

The morning this artist-writer attended a talk by one of the senators on the faiths of past presidents, it was scholarly and inspiring. The fellowship before and during breakfast was genuine. After the talk, we stood and heard a benedictory prayer. Yes, it is imperative to separate church and state but our survival is contingent on the continuation of faith and nation.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

Farmers have long known that the University of Nebraska's Ag College was a source of valuable information. Henry F. Klosterman, David City farmer and businessman, says in the July issue of Nebraska on the March: "Looking back some 20 years I believe I could not point out a single year when I did not put to work some idea or practice worked out at the Ag College."

* * *

"All of them," he says, "resulted in either profit or savings and usually in amounts much greater than I must expect to pay out in costs of producing this information, namely the part of my tax dollar that goes to support the University of Nebraska."

Off-Campus Benefits

* * *

Some of the areas where he found the Ag College research and experiments helpful were in deep well irrigation, field shelling and artificial drying of corn, re-evaluation of forage crops, minimum tillage system, breeding grain sorghum hybrids, disease control in animals.

* * *

He says, "Many livestock farmers, together with their bankers, have from $50,000 to $500,000 invested in beef on the hoof. The risk in this is already great before assessing a possible loss from disease.

"Thanks to research we do afford a large measure of protection by vaccinations and have used some pointers in handling cattle that are under shipping and other influences endangering health."

Klosterman

A big University no longer confines its teaching to the classrooms. It reaches out into the community with dedication and generosity.

Farmers are given daily crop information. Last week they got warnings from the Ag College that next year's wheat crop could be endangered by mosaic, a virus disease, if the volunteer wheat in hailed areas is not destroyed. Who can guess how much this warning could save the farmers and the state?

* * *

Nor are the farmers the only ones who look to the Ag College for advice. The Backyard Farmer, a feature of KUON-TV, has great appeal. A panel of three fields questions about lawns, trees, roses, tomato plants or anything the "city farmer" grows.

* * *

This is an entertaining program even for an apartment dweller without a lawn or tomato plant. It is amazing what can happen to a lawn or a tomato plant and how much people care.

* * *

Perhaps not everyone gets as direct a financial benefit from the University as do Henry Klosterman and thousands of Nebraska farmers. But indirectly all Nebraskans benefit financially and culturally from "beyond the campus" education offered to the state.

Half Minute Inspiration

What do you plan to do with free time that is completely your own? Do you let it come and go without any thought of using it to accomplish work left unfinished, or that you really want to do, but haven't found time for? The Bible says: "As your days, so shall your strength be!" Make the spare time of each day a time when you do something that is different than the ordinary, something that gives you a feeling of satisfaction from having done something that makes life better.

Letters To Editor

FORUM OF READERS' OPINION: Unsigned letters are not printed. Letters are most effective if brief and signed with writer's full name. One Man, One Vote

Lincoln—In reply to columnist Roscoe Drummond (Sunday Journal and Star, July 25):

There are indeed gross inequities of representation as a result of our burgeoning cities and failure of states to adjust accordingly. This does not justify one man, one vote.

We never had one man, one vote. We were never intended to have it.

These passages from the Federalist Papers are pertinent to the issue:

"Government is instituted no less for the protection of the property, than of the persons, or individuals" (No. 54). "Nothing can be more fallacious than to found our political calculation on arithmetical principles" (No. 55).

What we should do, if Drummond & Co. are right, is amend the Constitution to grant equal votes to all. This is precisely what Sen. Dirksen is trying to do. In this instance, the liberals are happy to rely on the infallibility of nine non-elected justices.

Another favorite liberal cliche is that the states are sovereign but the counties are not. The truth is that the states are intended to be under national control in certain explicitly circumscribed areas and sovereign in all others. (10th Amendment).

One of the areas in which they were sovereign was that of voter qualification and districting and the general makeup of their own governments.

We are faced with a large group of activists dedicated to subverting the Constitution and replacing rule by law with rule by men.

Defense Shelters

Lincoln — Due to the severity of the national problem and in the interest of Lincoln public welfare I would like to request that in the near future a list of Lincoln's civil defense shelters be published. If this is completely impossible could you denote a source of this information where interested parties could receive such?

My husband and I have resided here for 3½ years and have found Lincoln a very pleasant place to live. We also have enjoyed your paper during this time and are looking forward to the Lincoln Journal and the Lincoln Star for the duration of our stay here.

MRS. RONALD PARDECK

A list of the more than 140 civil defense shelters in Lincoln may be obtained by writing: Director, Lancaster County Civil Defense, Lancaster County Court House.

The CD office said 98,480 stocked spaces—food, water and room for two weeks—are currently available for emergency use.

Personal Views Of The News

Few are the people who have never heard of the TVA, the Tennessee Valley Authority. But unfortunately, about all some people know of it is that former Sen. Barry Goldwater proposed that it be sold.

* * *

The people of the valley, however, would put up quite a fight before they would permit the selling of TVA. The reason for this is explained, in part, in an address to TVA Chambers of Commerce by Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

* * *

Giving the people of TVA a little of their own history, Ellis said:

"I didn't know, for example, that the accumulated flood damages prevented by TVA dams have amounted to nearly $300 million since its beginning—about 60 percent in excess of the money invested in flood control.

* * *

"I didn't realize that the Tennessee River, which is now navigable the entire 650 miles from Paducah to Knoxville, previously had limiting channel depths of from four feet to one and one-half feet in places. This makes it less surprising that the benefits have exceeded the costs of navigational facilities by about three to one. And that you folks have thereby succeeded in attracting nearly a billion dollars worth of private industrial development in waterfront plants and terminals on the Tennessee since 1933.

"I might have guessed at the fact that the income of the average resident in the Tennessee Valley has increased from 45 percent of the national average in 1933 to 70 percent today, and that the number of manufacturing employes has tripled in that time . . .

"Domestic rates for electricity in the TVA area are today about 40 percent of the national average; not coincidentally, the average use per consumer is about two and one-half times the national average. What this meant in 1963 was that TVA consumers paid slightly less than $100 for the year of electrical service, while the average U. S. consumer paid slightly more than $100 for that year. However, the TVA consumer was able to use two and one-half times as much electricity for less than the average U. S. price."

There should be no difficulty in seeing the lesson taught in those words. In harnessing the resources of water in the Tennessee Valley, the people of that valley have reaped a huge return. They have seen the destruction and habilities of past years turned into economic advancement and tremendous opportunities.

* * *

This has been accomplished in the valley because the people there worked together to capitalize on the assets that were a part of their area. They were willing to invest of their time and money, with the help of the federal government, of course, to the end that the future would take on a new and vibrant meaning.

* * *

There were those on the national scene as well as those of the Tennessee Valley area who objected to the TVA for various reasons. Some would have preferred a holding action simply to conserve the minimum economic and social level that existed. But the valley has been transformed due to other more far-sighted people who realized that a future worth having has to be molded and is not something you just sit around and wait for.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

The Pierce County Leader questions "By what wild stretch of the imagination can the Legislature justify spending their time and efforts in trying to become a price-fixing body?"

Attacking fair trade bills passed probably "below-cost" selling of cigarets and dairy products, the Leader points out that nowhere in the state constitution "can a word be found where it is a duty of the Legislature to regulate retail prices.

"Sure they have been doing it before and now they may have gone a step too far."

The Falls City Journal says of the measure "to protect unsuspecting citizens against cheap bargains in cigarets" passed by the paternalistic senators:

"Anyone with an ounce of brains will see readily that this legislation is solely for the protection of the general public, or is it?"

Partisan Setup

The Dakota County Star (South Sioux City) and the Ashland Gazette both editorially advocated Nebraska's Legislature be set up on a partisan basis.

A partisan legislature would be "healthy for Nebraska political parties . . . and would improve, streamline and strengthen its function," the Star says.

The Ashland Gazette feels that "By trying to run a state without parties in its Legislature the great 38 year Nebraska has flown in the face of all political science theory and 200 years of political practice."

Area Trade Schools

The Grand Island Independent and the Hastings Tribune, editorially supported LB581, enabling legislation for creation of vocational schools by groups of counties to keep control and support at the local level.

Writes the Tribune: "Nebraska lawmakers can strike a truly strong blow in behalf of the young people and the taxpayers of the state as well if they will give their approval to LB581 . . ."

The Independent noted that according to every survey, one is needed in the Tri City area of Kearney-Hastings and Grand Island.

The Legislature Thursday voted 36-8, for passage of LB581.

King Constantine Defies Opponents

Athens, Greece, (AP) — King Constantine's government Saturday night defied its opponents and, with his renewed support, obtained agreement for another attempt at a parliamentary confidence vote debate.

The 25-year-old king gave no indication of retreating in the tense and confused Greek political crisis, the gravest since the Communist civil war shook Greece between 1947 and 1949.

He met at his palace with the premier of his 16-day old government, George Athanasiadis Novas, and with the speaker of Greece's parliament, Emmanuel Baklatzis, a follower of ousted Premier George Papandreou.

Athanasiadis Novas arrived first and left last, remaining in the palace while the king met privately for 45 minutes with Baklatzis. Baklatzis ordered parliament indefinitely suspended Friday night during an uproarious session.

The speaker noted no quorum was present, with opponents of the government boycotting the session, and said the lack of a quorum indicated "disapproval of the government."

After seeing the king, Baklatzis retreated. He said he agreed to a resumption of parliament Monday under his chairmanship.

Reds Want Contact

Geneva (UPI) — Russia will steer clear of any Vietnam peace move while the U.S. military buildup continues, but wants to keep its channels to Washington open, officials at the disarmament conference said Saturday.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin was expected to give the first official outline of the Soviet plans to the conference in the coming week.

In Moscow Saturday, the government newspaper Izvestia said the Americans will pay with thousands of lives for escalating the conflict in Vietnam. The Soviets called again for the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

But Communist China, in broadcasts heard in Tokyo, accused the Russians of "Betrayal, capitulation, split"—and of selling out the Vietnamese in the interests of coexistence with the West.

Car Theft For Church

Amarillo, Tex. (AP) — The Right Rev. Msgr. Archibald Monroe Bottoms, who said he had an obsession for trading automobiles, was placed on a two-year probation after pleading guilty to car theft.

The 48-year-old Roman Catholic priest, who as chancellor was the second highest ranking prelate in the Amarillo diocese, admitted stealing a 1964 automobile from an Amarillo used car lot, hiding it in his garage for several months, then selling it.

Turnabout on Poll Tax Repeal Clears Way for Vote Bill

Washington (UPI) — A behind-the-scenes retreat by civil rights leaders has cleared the way for final congressional approval of President Johnson's Negro voting rights bill next week.

A turnabout on state poll tax repeal broke what could have been a lengthy and damaging deadlock in a House-Senate conference committee which drafted compromise legislation. As a result, the bill is expected to pass both chambers by Wednesday.

The House, responding to the demands of civil rights organizations and many of its own members, had approved a measure that would have outlawed poll taxes still used in state and local elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

The Senate, harkening to Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach's appeal to steer clear of constitutional problems, wrote in a court challenge of such levies.

Both houses attached their differing provisions to the administration's main proposal to strike down, without previous court approval, literacy tests and other anti-voting devices, and provide for federal officials to register Negroes to vote in seven southern states. This part of the bill is by all standards the strongest voting rights legislation Congress has approved since the post Civil War reconstruction.

Tito Seeks Viet Talks

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia is expected to write President Johnson and Premier Alexei Kosygin of the Soviet Union in a bid to help end the Vietnam crisis, it was reliably learned Saturday.

A foreign diplomatic source said that President Tito will also get in touch with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and request that he explore with Red Chinese and North Vietnam leaders the minimum terms for getting them to a conference table. According to the source this action was agreed upon during talks between President Tito and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India here last week.

The source said that because of the Indian-Chinese conflict it was considered that Shastri should not be involved in this diplomatic action and that Nasser, who is on good terms with the Chinese, has better chances to succeed.

Highways Are Costly Ways

Washington (AP) — Highway costs are now 23.5% higher than in 1955, after a new jump of 3.5%.

Cost $80,000 And 'Unusable'

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Aerospace officials and police seek the return of an $80,000 gyroscope which bounced off a truck that was hauling it along Pacific Coast Highway.

Officials at General Dynamics Corp. Convair division say the instrument would be of use only to someone who has an Atlas missile — and no missing missiles have been reported since the gyro disappeared Wednesday.

Charles: To Run Or Not?

De Gaulle Is Still in Air

Paris UPI – French President Charles de Gaulle's thoughts turn longingly these days to the cool woods surrounding his country home.

De Gaulle is a lonely man with a terrible problem.

It is in the quiet of his study and the woods and fields of his country home at Colombey Les Deux Eglises 120 miles east of Paris that he likes to do his thinking.

De Gaulle's most nagging problem is simply this:

At the age of 75 can he and should he run for a second seven-year term as President next December?

Many Frenchmen claim to have the answer — to have it from someone very highly placed. Yet the trouble is no two such sure tips ever agree.

True Answer

Perhaps the true answer is that De Gaulle himself does not know yet and that he may not make up his mind finally and irrevocably until mid October or early November.

But this year it is certain he will use this vacation month at Colombey not only to rest and recharge his batteries but also to try to come to some kind of decision.

De Gaulle will be 75 on Nov. 22. That means he would be 82 at the end of a second term. He is known to have a dread of hanging on in office with diminished physical or mental faculties.

Over and above considerations of age and health there are very strong temptations for De Gaulle to call it quits in December.

Madame Yvonne de Gaulle, who is about 10 years his junior is known to have been urging the general to quit while he still can expect to enjoy some years of rest and literary work.

De Gaulle who enjoys teasing his listeners, sometimes has seemed to indicate he might succumb to the temptation particularly if he was ensured of a successor like Prime Minister Georges Pompidou who could be trusted to carry on his work and policies.

Temptation to Stay

Yet there are great temptations to De Gaulle to stay in office. Chief among these are that many of his pet policies still are far from realization.

Among these are his ambitions that France should assume leadership of the non-committed nations and should open up new cordial relations with the Communist bloc countries.

De Gaulle also sees deep uncertainty in the future in many major foreign policy fields.

The European Common Market is in a state of acute crisis. The North Atlantic (NATO) Alliance is in one too. In 1969 when the Atlantic treaty expires it is up for renewal.

The fledgling French nuclear striking force is another. De Gaulle considers it key to the independence he prizes so highly for France will hardly be an effective deterrent before 1970.

De Gaulle also wants to sound the local political opinion before finally coming to a decision.

Under the French voting system he must win more than 50% of the popular vote or face a run-off ballot. Those who know De Gaulle and know he prides himself on being the representative of the whole French nation doubt he would be a candidate again if he saw any risk of having to face a run-off.

Quandary Man

Nation Went Wild VJ Day

your money down on the counter at" walk out with a selection of choice steaks. It wasn't the money, either. In August, 1945, sirloin steak was selling for 32 cents a pound in Chicago. But a pound of steak also cost eight red points—and that represented almost five days ration of meat, butter and cheese. Hamburger went for four points a pound, center cut pork chops for 12 and creamery butter for 16.

Gas Rations Slim

If you still had an automobile in running condition (the last new civilian cars came off the production line in early 1942) you could buy six gallons of gasline in August upon presentation of coupon A16. If you were one of the lucky ones whose auto was deemed essential for travel, you could get five gallons on each B and C coupon that was valid.

Black markets flourished in everything that was rationed and a visit to the black marketeer was as commonplace in 1945 as a trip to the bootlegger in 1930. A Washington restaurateur testified that the black market in the nation's capital was selling steak for $1.50 a pound, turkey for $1 a pound, oysters for $5 a gallon and tomatoes for $9 a bushel. On the San Francisco black market, gasoline coupons went for $1.50 a piece and gasoline without coupons for 65 cents a gallon.

More than 10 million servicemen, to whom rationing was meaningless, were counting points, too—discharge points.

Army and Marine Corps reserves, who signed up for "the duration plus six," got one point for each months of service, another for each month served overseas, 12 for each dependent and five for each medal and battle star. Those who could muster 85 points were on their way to becoming civilians. The Navy gave ½ points for each year of age, ½ point for each month of service and 10 points for all dependents. Enlisted men needed 44, officers 49.

For civilians, it was actually difficult to be out of work. Unemployment stood at 670,000 compared to more than eight million in 1940. And pay was good, particularly in war plants, where a worker could haul down more than $100 a week what with wages, guaranteed overtime and bonuses. More women (nearly 20 million) were working than ever before and enough were holding down jobs traditionally reserved for men to inspire the popular song, "Rosie the Riviter."

Unions Chafe

On the other hand, organized labor chafed under wage controls and "no strike" pledges and workers had been "frozen" in their jobs since May, 1943. They could not change employment without clearance from the War Manpower Commission. Nor could employers hire extra hands without permission.

Comedians and soap operas were the favorite fare among those whose radios still worked. New sets were unobtainable. In the evening, according to the Hooper audience analysis ratings, most Americans were tuned in to Bob Hope, Fibber McGee and Molly, and Red Skelton. During the day, housewives were following "When a Girl Marries" and "Portia Faces Life" and "Ma Perkins." Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, and Tom Mix were popular with the younger set.

In all of the United States, in August, 1945, there were exactly six commercial television stations—three in New York City and one each in Philadelphia, Chicago and schenectady, N.Y. There weren't very many viewers, either, not with the price of sets starting at $400.

The latest in motion pictures: "Anchors Away," starring that shy young crooner, Frank Sinatra, with Kathryn Grayson and Gene Kelly; and "Christmas in Connecticut," with Barbara Stanwyk, Dennis Morgan and Sidney Greenstreet, who was taking a breather from his usual role of the Japanese general who nibbled grapes while prisoners were tortured. The leading box office attractions, according to Motion Picture Herald: Bing Crosby, Van Johnson, Greer Garson and Betty Grable, the top pin-up girl of the day.

The runaway hit record (78 RPM) was the ballad "Till the End of Time," which was on the hit parade for 19 weeks, but the most memorable songs were the nonsense ditties, "Rum and Coca Cola," as sung by the Andrews Sisters, and "Ac-cent-tchu-ate the Positive," rendered in the nasal twang of its author, Johnny Mercer.

Baseball Embarrassed

Baseball fans were embarrassed at the sad state into which their favorite sport had fallen. With most of its prewar stars scattered around the world in uniforms of blue, green and olive drab, the national pasttime was truly scraping the bottom of the bat bag for players.

The quality of baseball, vintage 1945, was as bad as this: When the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs staggered through to pennants and Chicago sportswriter Warren Brown was asked to predict the World Series winner, he thought a moment, finally said: "Frankly, I don't think either of them can win."

But all that would be over soon. The stars of baseball—the DiMaggios, the Fellers, the Williamses — would be back to pick up their careers. The war plants would be turning tanks into cars, swords into plowshares. And a man would be able to drive into a gasoline station and say, "Fill 'er up!" and if the attendant didn't say, "Yes, sir!" then to hell with him. There was another station down the block.

What if there were a few dark clouds on the post-war horizon?

What if there were predictions of eight million unemployed in the next six months as war production ground to a halt and discharged service men became job-hunting civilians?

It was more in keeping with the spirit of the times to listen to Fred Vinson, director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, when he said: "The American people are in the pleasant predicament of having to learn to live 50% better than they have ever lived before."

And what if some people were starting to question the morality of the atomic bombs that had been dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki? Hadn't they ended the war and saved untold thousands of American lives that would have been lost in the invasion of the Japanese homeland? "The Japs are suffering from atomic ache," the joke went. And it was in the spirit of 1945 to laugh.

You Speak Phoenician?

To aid American and foreign newspaper correspondents who are journeying to the "Judith" location in Israel, a handy-dandy glossary of functional Hebrew expressions has been compiled.

Despite the fact that some of the greetings are familiar to those who have a passing knowledge of the language, it has been discovered that those who know Hedrew — not idiomatic Yiddish — are as scarce as experts in Phoenician.

Some of the leading Jewish organizations have been contacted with fruitless results.

Legislature (Good or Bad) Still Facing Some Momentous Decisions

By DICK HERMAN

Seventeen minutes after it was convened on a now barely-remembered January day, the 1965 Nebraska Unicameral confirmed advance hunches:

THIS was no ordinary Legislature!

How could it be when one of 22 freshman senators, especially one from Omaha would amazingly rise and suggest to the august Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney that the veteran presiding officer didn't know what he was doing?

Someday, someday soon, the 75th Nebraska Legislature is going to call it quits.

Best or Worst?

Around its 49 pairs of ears then will ring curses as the worst Legislature in the state's history (Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha) and accolades as probably the most responsible, the most imaginative, the best (Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.)

Before that August sine die adjournment, mighty decisions wait to be made.

Should the long-guarded state-owned school lands be sold?

Ought the intangible property tax base be broadened?

Is there enough strength to pass another reapportionment act, or is an appeal of the last one to the U.S. Supreme Court in order?

Should the Duis Amendment to the constitution be modified, guaranteeing some state dollar aid to public education from a sales or income tax?

Conceding these to be profound questions, the record of the Diamond Jubilee Legislature already is one long in length, sparkling in resolution.

After seven full months senators have passed 512 new laws, failed to approve six others on final reading, killed 273 measures in committee or on the floor and watched an additional 63 be withdrawn.

Political scientists agree judements on the quality of a legislature should of be founded on the number of laws enacted — great or small — but what those laws do.

Far Reaching

Some of the more far-reaching laws growing out of the 1965 Nebraska Legislature will —Replace the state's property tax on Jan. 1, 1967, with a mildly-progressive flat-rate personal and corporate income tax (A repeal referendum drive to void the income tax is now under way.)

- Consolidate the major public power generating and transmission districts into a wholesale grid system, outside the metropolitan Omaha area

- Put the state's money-lending industry on a solid constitutional and statutory basis, with credit rates lower than those in force before the "time-sales crisis" erupted two years ago

- Centralize the state's accounting budget control, purchasing and fiscal services in a new Dept. of Administrative Services directly controlled by the governor

Cause beer drinkers, cigaret smokers, motor vehicle drivers and house owners to pay more sales taxes. New tax rates: Beer from 6c to 8c per gallon, cigarets from 6c to 8c per pack, gasoline - from 7c to 7½c per gallon racing — from 3 to 4

—Require in excess of $30 million more in tax revenue from property owners in 1965-67.

- Allow construction of a new state office building and independent Transportation Commission headquarters and nearly $24 million in capital improvements by the Depts. of Welfare, Institutions, Education and Military, the University of Nebraska, the state colleges and the Capitol Mall Commission.

Demand an extra $500,000 yearly from corporations in the form of license occupation taxes, but cutting the property tax load on motor vehicle dealers and employe benefit trust funds.

Raise ceiling for counties to consolidate school districts to merge

- Provide cash to complete the state educational television network, pave more roads into recreational areas, help expand state and local parks

Permit an expansion of vocational-training opportunities through a new state school at Sidney and area trade schools which get some state aid

- Allow junior colleges to become branches of the University of Nebraska

Ft. Robinson Has 'Fighting Chance'

Governor to Urge Freeman To Halt 'Misuse' of Land

The Harrison priest who heads the newly-formed Fort Robinson Assn. is confident today the group's goal to preserve and restore the historic Nebraska area has a fighting chance now.

This faith was bolstered by Gov. Frank Morrison's promise Saturday to the Rev. Robert O'Neill of Harrison that something will be done to halt the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture cattle research's "misuse" of Robinson land.

Gov. Morrison will implement this action with Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who will be his house guest next weekend. He is coming to Nebraska to attend Wilber's annual Czech celebration next Sunday.

The Harrison priest said he couldn't understand the cattle research staff's recent action, calling it "the most contemptible thing I've ever experienced."

He referred to these developments:

The moving of 40 bulls to a tree-lined creek area, newly-fenced, which is adjacent to a state-leased treeless camping site.

The fencing of another feed lot near what were residences in the fort's earlier days.

'Tragic Misuse'

The governor called all this "misuse of taxpayers' money in view of the move to the new Clay Center cattle research center, and a tragic misuse of natural resources."

Father O'Neill said the association's immediate interest was the cooperation of the cattle research center staff to begin work on land area and building restoration.

"This is something that can be accomplished in the year or two it will take the center to move to Clay Center," he said.

How this work can progress and completion of the group's articles of incorporation will be taken up at a 2:30 p.m. meeting at Fort Robinson today, according to Father O'Neill.

Wide Interest

He said the association membership goes far beyond the area or state. Out of state visitors to the fort interested in its preservation have become and are becoming members.

Back in Lincoln Saturday the governor is still puzzled why the research center is expanding.

"Appropriations to build facilities at Clay Center are under consideration by Congress and the Hastings area land is much better for the research program," the governor commented.

Fort Robinson, he said, has far too much in historical, recreational and scientific potentials to be misused by any group.

Neihardt To Talk at Bancroft

Bancroft — Nebraska Poet Laureate John G. Neihardt will return today for dedication of a marker here commemorating this Cuming County town as his birthplace.

Neihardt, now of Columbia, Mo., will speak at 2:30 p.m. at the marker site, just east of town on Hwy. 51.

The rebuilt Indian prayer garden at his old study here will be open to visitors after the ceremony.

Other speakers will be Dr. J. R. Johnson, a Wayne State College professor and chairman of the Nebraska Historical Marking Society, and Mrs. Rosalie Boughn of Walthill

Mrs. Boughn is the niece of Princess Bright Eyes of the Omaha Indian tribe, who provided Neihardt with facts and legends about the tribe.

Jobs Open On Patrol

30 Troopers To Be Hired

Col. Dan J. Casey, chief of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, said the Patrol will begin taking applications immediately for 30 new trooper jobs that were authorized last week by the Legislature.

Casey said the Patrol has on hand several hundred applications, but that it might need as many as 1,000 to find 30 men who meet all qualifications.

Many of the would-be troopers will be washed out during education and background screening and physical examinations.

Of the estimated 300 applicants that reach Camp Ashland for the six-week training program conducted by the Patrol, only about 10% will be graduated, Casey said

"They don't know who is hired until graduation day," he said, adding that life at the camp is demanding.

"They go to work at 4:30 a.m. and keep going until 10:30 p.m. for six days a week," Casey said. "On Sunday morning, we let them sleep until six."

For this, he said, the trainees get $2.50 a day under the present pay scale.

The 30 men who are hired will be required to accompany a senior trooper for six months before they get their own assignments, Casey said.

He said the Camp Ashland training probably won't be completed until spring.

Gas Tax Yields Over $4 Million

State gasoline taxes of $4,195,685 were collected during July, the Division of Motor Fuels has reported

Corresponding collections on special fuels were $271,940 and on aircraft fuels, $60,807

The division said 1965 tax collection to July 26 totalled $27,960,013, representing an increase of $1,255,411 over the comparable 1964 period.

Plant Makes Process Change

Fullerton — The Farmers Co-op Creamery here has stopped processing farm-separated cream into butter, plant manager E. L. Yetter said.

This change, he said, will improve plant efficiency by making it an entirely whole milk processing plant.

For 50 years the creamery has manufactured butter from farm separated cream. In 1958 the plant began purchasing whole milk.

Adelson Dies at Age of 55

Prominent Grocer Here

Leon A. Adelson, 55, of 6129 Everett, owner of Leon's Food Mart, died Saturday in Lincoln after a long illness.

A lifetime resident of Lincoln, Mr. Adelson served in 1961 as president of the Lincoln Food Retailers Assn.

Mr. Adelson

He had been a grocer since 1934

Mr. Adelson was a member of Shrine, Scottish Rite Masons, Elks, American Legion, South Street Temple and Hillcrest Country Club.

Survivors include his widow, Helene, and two sisters, Mrs. David Shire of Lincoln and Mrs. Abe Davidson of Kansas City, Mo.

Tributes Are Paid

McGlasson Rites Held

Patients, some in wheel chairs, were among hundreds of friends sitting and standing on the Lincoln Veterans Hospital lawn Saturday for the funeral of the late Genie McGlasson.

The Lincoln pioneer in volunteer work with hospital veterans died Wednesday, within days of her 88th birthday Aug. 10.

One of these ripples was her origination of the Legion Poppy Day observance.

Participating in the memorial service were Dr. J. Melvin Boykin, hospital director, Salvation Army Major Charles Duskin, and the Revs. Thomas Holoman and Loren Pretty Burial followed in Wyuka Cemetery.

Phase of Elks Youth Program to National

For the third time in six years Lincoln Elks Lodge 60 placed first in the national Elks larger lodge competition for having the best youth program.

Exalted ruler Jack Jensen accepted the trophy in Miami at the Grand Lodge convention on behalf of last year's exalted ruler, Vince Collura, and the Lincoln lodge.

The entry, which defeated entries from all other states, was a 93-lb. brochure which illustrated youth-accented programs ranging from granting of scholarships to sponsoring sport activities.

The Lincoln lodge also won the national title in 1959-60 and 1962-63, in addition to winning first in state competition every year since 1955 except for 1961-62.

The larger lodge competition is for lodges with more than 1,000 membership.

Crash Kills 5

Salem, Ohio (AP) — An automobile carrying a Beaver Falls, Pa., family homeward from a Sunday school picnic ran off Ohio 14 about three miles west of the Ohio-Pennsylvania line and struck a tree. Five persons were killed and two injured.

Rustlers A Plague In Custer

Broken Bow — Somebody is still "swinging a wide loop" in Custer County.

Area cattlemen, plagued by cattle rustlers for the past few years, have banded together and are currently offering $500 reward for conviction of cattle rustlers in the county.

Cattlemen noted that in the past two or three years at least 70 head of cattle have been stolen.

The reward is being offered by about 50 cattlemen and businessmen of Custer County.

Anselmo rancher M. M. Forrester noted that Custer County had a shady reputation concerning rustlers in the 1880-1900 period.

"Rustling of cattle in the past few years has again become big business and these cattlemen and businessmen are determined to do something about it," he said.

NU Registers 4,000 Freshmen, Sets Record

More than 4,000 incoming freshmen have already enrolled in what will be the biggest freshmen class in University of Nebraska history.

Dean Lee W. Chatfield, director of the NU junior division, said more than 14,000 students will attend the University this year judging by the number of pre-registrations by Saturday's deadline.

He said nearly 5,000 freshmen applications had been received but quite a few of these usually drop before entering

He said Saturday was the last day a student's $25 deposit could be returned to him and also the end of registration by mail

"If they want to come here in person after that and take potluck on courses, they're welcome," he said.

He said some adjustments had to be made in some students' pre-registration scheduling of classes but most got what they registered for.

Does Size or Complexity Slow Legislative Wheels?

By DEL SNODGRASS

Have the biennial sessions of the Nebraska Legislature become too long?

Observers of the Cornhusker state's lawmaking process have asked that question repeatedly in recent years as each Legislature set a new length-of-session record.

The question has become more persistent now that the 1965 session shows little promise of wrapping up its business before at least the middle of this month.

The session length also prompted a brief discussion on the floor of the Unicameral last week.

Several senators, including Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont and veteran Sam Klaver of Omaha, argued the sessions are lasting too long.

Rasmussen contended the increase in the Unicameral's membership from 43 to 49 members actually increased rather than decreased the Legislature's workload.

Further boosting the size to 65 members as proposed in a constitutional amendment proposal still before the body, he said, would only add to the workload and drag out the sessions further.

But Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff argued it is inevitable each session probably will last longer than the previous one.

This, he said, is because society has become more complex and the problems of government more pressing and major.

Carpenter drew a parallel between the Nebraska Legislature and the U.S. Congress, noting the federal lawmaking body remained in session most of the year.

"We're living in a modern age," declared Carpenter, who served one term in Congress himself. "We're not living in the horse and buggy days."

Several other suggestions have been made in an effort to shorten the sessions.

One proposal is that public hearings on all bills no longer are required in a day of rapid communications and full coverage of the Legislature by the press.

Another is that the senators should be more choosy about introducing bills for special interests, and that they should be more willing to kill bills other than those of major importance.

A third suggestion, which never meets with any support among the senators themselves, is to return to a partisan Legislature.

Another is to give the lawmakers additional research staffs and facilities

Barring any major changes in the legislative procedure, however, it appears the state's citizens might as well resign themselves to longer and longer sessions

The length of the present session, some observers believe, reflects what they consider the willingness of the 1965 lawmakers to face up to long standing state problems

A drawback, however, is that longer sessions could deter some people from running for the Legislature because they cannot take the time to spend eight or nine months away from their jobs.

The 1957 session lasted 115 legislative days and adjourned June 19. The 1959 session took 120 days and finished its business June 27.

The 1961 session lasted 126 days and adjourned July 8, while the 1963 session lasted 132 legislative days and finished July 18.

City's Mill Levy Unlikely to Drop

By LEO SCHERER

There doesn't look like any hope of any reduction in the city's mill levy for fiscal 1965-66.

The City Council has concluded its first review of the mayor's proposed $45.6 million budget and Council members added $123,160.

Meeting Monday

The possible 2.29 mills increase occurred when the Council made additions representing a .59 mill increase over the mayor's original proposed levy of 1.7 mills.

However, the Council has called a Monday morning meeting to give aspects of the budget further study, especially in the areas of street construction.

The public hearing on the proposed new city budget is now scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 12 at City Hall.

City officials noted that changes can still be made to the budget after the hearing and this was the time for persons with anything to say to appear.

A few of the key items still in the proposed budget are

Belmont—An $87,000 swimming pool for Belmont and also a $45,000 instructional pool at Woods Park

Policemen—Provisions for adding seven additional men to the force. Cost estimated yearly at close to $40,000

Parks—Additions of $106,000 to the parks budget including tennis court lights for Woods Park and $10,000 in salaries for additional employes.

Mayor—Provisions totaling $6,500 in the mayor's budget so that the mayor can hire an administrative assistant and also put out a yearly annual report.

Some of the large deletions so far made include proposed paving of 56th, A to Sumner St. ($14,000); land acquisition fund for purchase of parts of Lagoon Park ($50,000) and reduction from 15 to 7 in the number of new policemen ($39,000).

Recreational Bldg.

Council members also added $5,000 in the recreational budget for planning on the multi-purpose city recreational building now getting consideration for the future

The Council so far has held seven sessions on the budget and Councilman John Comstock has been critical of the time provided by city officials for the Council to do the budget review.

There are indications that the Council will not include any funds in next year's budget for acquisition of off-street parking land near the auditorium

Council members seem to favor asking the voters to approve a charter revision so that the city could issue revenue bonds for the construction of necessary off-street parking facilities at the auditorium, or elsewhere in the city.

The proposed $279,503 city-county health budget also has brought comments from the Council, which wasn't allowed to review it before this budget became operative in July.

Council members have called Dr. George Underwood, city-county health director, to appear and explain the budget.

Conklin Dies at 75

Served in State Senate

Former State Sen. J. E. Conklin, a Hubbell community leader and for two years a Lincoln resident, died Saturday. He was 75.

Conklin

Mr. Conklin, president of the Hubbell State Bank, was also past president of the Native Sons and Daughters of Nebraska

Born in Hubbell, he was a member of St. Paul and Hubbell Methodist Churches, the Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite, Sesostris Shrine, Hubbell American Legion, Nebraska Boy Scout Council, the Hebron Rotary Club and the University Club

Survivors include his wife, Wilhelmina; a son, William J., of New York City, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Denney, of Fairbury.

Art Is Stolen

Rome (AP) — Two men broke into the apartment of noted art collector Francesco Ingrao, tied him to a bed and stole 23 paintings of Italian painter Giorgio Morandi worth $192,000, according to Ingrao.

Hospital Costs Here Below U.S. Mean

Both city and state average daily hospital patient costs are still below the national daily average of $41.58 for 1964 announced this weekend by the American Hospital Assn.

Without radiology services, average daily costs in Lincoln's accredited hospitals were $38.82 in 1964.

State hospital division officials estimate the average daily hospital patient cost at $39.78.

This takes into account much lower costs in smaller community hospitals and higher ones in metropolitan cities.

Don Duncan, St. Elizabeth administrator and president-elect of the Midwest (states) Hospital Council, says the varying rates within Nebraska reflect modern diagnostic and treatment services provided by larger city hospitals and cost of more trained personnel.

"For this reason, it's almost useless to try to compare today's hospital costs with those 15 years ago when, as the AHA points out, the average was $15.62," Duncan said.

A day in Lincoln hospitals this year will cost another dollar more as this increase across the board went into 1965 budgets.

The American Hospital Assn report said average daily patient costs ranged from an average of $34.31 in the east south central region (Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky and Tennessee) to $54.28 in the Pacific Coast Region.

Other 1964 association statistics according to Associated Press:

Total expenses of all hospitals rose almost 10% above 1963 to $12 billion. Most increase came from payroll expense, taking about two-thirds of each hospital dollar.

Hospitals decreased some to 7,127 but personnel increased from 1,840,000 to 1,887,000. This is a ratio of 133 hospital personnel for each 100 patients, compared with 1946 ratios of 73 persons employed for every 100 patients.

Hospital births continued to decline in 1964 with 3,729,382 compared with 3,784,666 in 1963. This decline started in 1960 after reaching a high of 3,963,121.

Outpatient services increased in 1964 to 121 million visits or 7 million more than in 1963.

Interim Study Funds Asked

The executive board of the Legislative Council has voted to recommend a $15,000 appropriation to finance legislative studies between the 1965 and 1967 sessions.

The board recommends approval of proposed interim studies on greater coordination in higher education, public power refinancing and motor vehicle law recodification.

The board recommended rejection of resolutions calling for interim studies on state retirement systems and electronic indexing of the Nebraska statutes.

The full Legislature will act on the board's recommendations.

Policeman Impersonated

A man reportedly climbed out of a car at 9th and A, walked over to another, stopped for the traffic signal and attempted to get in.

The woman driving the vehicle locked the door. She said the man told her he was a police officer. She refused to believe him and drove off.

He shouted to her as she left that she had "better stop" because he had her license number.

Susie Kunc Chosen Wilber Queen In Warm-Up for Czech Festival

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber — The "Czech Capital" of Nebraska warmed up Saturday night by naming its queen to help host next weekends fourth annual Czech festival.

Susie Kunc, 18-year-old blonde baton twirler from Wilber, was chosen to succeed Barbara Fisher, last year's Miss Wilber Czech. She competed against Marla Jean Novak of Dorchester, first runner-up, and second runner-up Betty Massahos of Wilber.

Although one contestant played "Norwegian Concerto" on the piano and another twirled to "Hawaiian War Chant" their backgrounds were authentically as Czech as their costumes. The color, brightened even more by entertaining Beseda dancers, was a forerunner of the coming festivities Aug. 7-8.

Miss Kunc will compete next Saturday night against entries from other Czech towns for the title of Miss Nebraska Czech. Bonita Krula of Schuyler now has the crown.

The Saturday-Sunday celebration will also have a new prince and princess, chosen just prior to the Wilber queen's coronation. Ricky Apfelbeck, 10, and Susan Zajicek, 11, were selected from 14 candidates.

Douglas Oliva and Kem Apfelbeck were runners-up for the juvenile titles.

Chairman Mrs. E. J. Mundil headed the contest. Keith Roper of Lincoln serving as master of ceremonies. Judges, all from Lincoln, were Mrs. Orian Harris, Helen Hospodsky and Harry Ware.

Susie Kunc . . . ready for next week's contest

Ninety-four Cars Fail Inspection

Ninety-four of 499 cars going through Jaycee-Goodyear sponsored safety checks in six Lincoln locations did not pass inspection.

Most common faults as listed in the report sent to the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee in Washington, D.C. were defective lights, exhaust systems and tires.

Architectural Firm Names L. J. Henderson

The Lincoln architectural and enginering firm of Alter and Speece has announced the appointment of Lester J. Henderson as executive engineer.

A Fairbury native, and civil engineering graduate of Kansas State University, Henderson is a 20-year veteran of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

He was in charge of construction of Nike-Hercules and Atlas missile sites in the Lincoln area prior to his recent Army retirement.

A specialist in low rent housing, Henderson will be in charge of constructing more than 20 such projects currently under way in Nebraska and Iowa.

Press Meeting

31 Join Ed Group

The Omicron chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, an international honorary professional education fraternity at the University of Nebraska, initiated 31 new members.

Dr. Harry Bard of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., discussed the work of the professional fraternity and its role in the educational programs of today and tomorrow.

Lincolnites initiated into the fraternity include:

Allan Hansen, Wayne T. Kunel, Rey V. Loudon, John Van Osdale, Roland L. Peterson, Harry C. Reile, Lester F. Russell, Gerald Skogg, and L. Carroll Unland.

Others included Paul Basler, Papillion; Fred H. Bauermeister, Central City; Bryce C. Chalquist, Stanton, Galen B. Cheuvront, Humboldt, Freddie A. Dreyer, Fairbury, William F. Henecke, Seward, Glenn E. Hinkle, Loomis, Vaughn M. Jaenike, Englewood, Colo., Gene L. Lavender, Plainview, Willis Luedke, Crete, Robert W. McCormick, Villisca, Iowa, Paul W. Major, Mountain View, Calif.; Raymond L. Miller, Atlantic, Iowa, Dennis E. Murvin, Central City, Dennis J. Nosal, Stanton, Sharon D. Oeler, Diller, Harvey L. Penning, Doniphan, Donald R. Sandy, York, George L. Stephens, Wichita, Kan., Vernon A. J. Thomsen, Hershey, Russell N. Ward, Central City, and Albert W. Winseman Jr., Milford.

Most Conspicuous New Nebraska Law Is One About Purple Flags

men at $350 monthly in cities of more than 10,000.

—Focus national and even world attention on Nebraska in 1968 and every four years thereafter because of an "open" presidential primary election.

—Make it possible for the state's post-high school institutions of higher education to accommodate greater enrolment at higher tuition rates; for the mental hospitals to upgrade the character of their service; for the state's Centennial Commission to sponsor a many-sided state birthday party in 1967, and for the Safety Patrol to put 30 more troopers on the highways.

—Liberalize the Kerr-Mills program for Medical Assistance for the Aged.

—Provide larger payments for persons on Old Age Assistance.

—Raise the maximum unemployment compensation rate from $38 to $40 per week.

—Make it legal for drivers to go 60 miles per hour after dark, as against the current 55 miles per hour speed limit.

5 Mills Boost

—Give all cities but Omaha and Lincoln authority to boost municipal property tax ceilings 5 mills; allow all more money for street construction; permit all but Omaha to pledge future gas tax refunds as a security for street-improvement revenue bonds.

—Require registration of voters in counties of 20,000 or more population.

—Hand the state tax commissioner broadened powers to enforce revenue laws.

—Put revolving red lights on Safety Patrol cars, and remove the white stripe from state-owned machines.

—Permit Lincoln to annex the village of West Lincoln without a vote.

—See Nebraskans have reflectorized motor vehicle licenses for the next three years.

—Okay the unexpected entrance of policemen into private quarters if officers are armed with a search warrant.

—Direct the flow of requests for new trials from convicted men and women to state courts, instead of federal courts.

Exemption Eliminated

—Eliminate the $200 exemption granted all taxpayers on their household goods.

—Permit state employes to get compensatory time off or extra hourly pay and okay on-business commercial airline flights.

—Exempt World War I veterans from buying state hunting and fishing licenses.

—Put the burden of outright discrimination in real estate sales on the property owner, not the realtor.

—Raise salaries of a host of major state officials.

—End a number of departmental cash funds streamlining the state's accounting system.

—Cause foreign meat to be labeled, live hog cholera vaccine to be banned, brucellosis in cattle to be eradicated, noxious weeds to be vigorously attacked.

—Provide for the state's first true scholarship system, with needy youngsters from rural areas being beneficiaries.

—End the present mission of the Curtis School of Agriculture.

Flag to Fly

To Thedford rancher Chester Paxton goes the award for authoring the most conspicuous new law—the one requiring Nebraska's purple state flag to be flown from certain public buildings.

And to Lincoln Sen. Fern Orme went the distinction of leading a successful charge against Gov. Frank Morrison's lone veto to date—that against the Kennard House Statehood Memorial bill.

If the list of new laws is impressive, observers also believe the Legislature was not distinguished in several other areas — civil rights and civil liberties.

Negro Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha was blocked out in his major effort to enact a fair housing statute. A parade of boosters for the bill, marching about the Statehouse on a subfreezing morning, only angered lawmakers.

Solons did pass a Fair Employment Practices Commission act. But it was, in the view of most senators, forced upon them by the federal Civil Rights Act.

Danner first called the bill "a disgrace," then halfway recanted.

Gov. Morrison refused to sign a bill establishing a teen-age level as the basis for enforcing the state's obscene literature law.

Court Test

Court tests of it — as well as the laws against below-cost sales of cigarets and dairy products are expected.

But no legal fight is expected on the law permitting involuntary pooling of oil and gas fields for conservation purposes. This is an act hopefully written to help uphold Nebraska's declining oil production.

Once again state aid to public schools and junior colleges was rejected.

But only a handful of votes stood in the way this year, as against a majority opposed in past sessions.

Over and above the platoons of laws, the Legislature established a record in pegging constitutional amendments on the next general election ballot.

Up to now, 13 issues are assured for voter consideration.

Perhaps the hottest of the lot would let public school funds be used to transport parochial school children to their schools.

Way back in January, only some of all this was vaguely anticipated.

What has come to pass already marks the 1965 Nebraska Legislature as one of vintage character, like it or not.

Interest Conflict May Be Suit Basis of Legislature Okays School Land Sale Bill

By DICK HERMAN

Reportedly hidden in the legal weeds is a conflict-of-interest suit, should a majority of Nebraska lawmakers this week pass the school land sale bill.

The land-disposal measure would be challenged on the grounds its passage was made possible by senators who either hold or have kinfolks holding 12-year leases on the school lands.

About a half-dozen legislators are in this position. All have supported the sale bill, LB234, to date.

One, Genoa Sen. Herb Nore even made it a point of public declaration he didn't intend to transfer his lease into his wife's name, as other senators have done in years past.

Assumed basis of a last-ditch challenge would be Section 16, Article III of the Nebraska Constitution:

"No person elected or appointed to the Legislature shall . . . be interested, either directly or indirectly, in any contract with the state . . . authorized by any law enacted during the term for which he shall have been elected or appointed or within one year after the expiration of such term."

Teachers Fume?

Spies pass along the information Omaha teachers are really fuming over their smallest pay raise in the last 10 years—a $50 salary boost.

The scuttlebutt has it the Omaha Board of Education felt it was really pushing taxpayers as it was with a 3 mill property tax increase. This levy climb would have been even steeper had the teachers received their standard annual pay hike of several hundred dollars.

The pot was boiling as the new Omaha Education Assn. executive secretary, Franklin Williams, had the bad luck to chance upon the scene.

His debut statement to the press was to the effect a teachers strike is never justified.

Net Costs Up?

Joseph Maresh of Dodge, member of the State Educational Television Commission, suggests costs of putting together the hardware of a statewide network will be more than first talked about.

Maresh reports auxiliary power generation units are in the mill for the seven stations. These units would backstop possible power outages from regular commercial sources.

Districts Sign

Not a single Nebraska public school district has refused, on the grounds of principle, to sign the federal anti-discrimination pledge.

That's what State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller says.

Some districts which aren't users of federal cash did not respond to requests for pledge signatures. Until they get interested in seeking some of the cash, the issue is a moot one, however.

Green Pasture

Bellevue's popular superintendent Edwin Cramer has been lured to greener (dollar bill greener) fields at Grand Forks, N.D.

The story making the rounds is that Cramer—whose present salary of $18,000 equals Gov. Frank Morrison's—is in line for a pay raise of nearly 50%.

More Green

Kearney Notes Increase for Fall

Kearney—An expected increase of 1,000 students is anticipated by Kearney State College this fall.

To meet the 33% increase in enrolment, college administrators have employed 54 new teaching faculty members and several other non-teaching staff.

Housing for the increase in enrolment will be adequate, the college housing director reports. A 400-bed men's residence hall will be completed in mid-August to help ease the need for rooms.

Tuition will be raised to $125 per semester for resident under graduate students.

55 Marines Say 'Ready If Called'

Lincoln Group Ends Training

Fifty-five Lincoln Marines returned Saturday, "qualified to do a job if we had been called up."

The training duty group of the Third Engineers Maintenance Squadron was returning from two week's summer camp in Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The Marine reserves, said Maj. Donald Holst, met President Johnson's double-the-draft message "with mixed emotions."

"The whole thing is," he said, "if we're called we're ready to go."

At Camp Pendleton, the reserves "worked side by side with the regulars," he said. "We were doing things that the regular Marine Corps would do."

This included equipment operation and maintenance work, metal and machine shop and field electronics work.

A second training duty group of 49 Marines was to leave the Lincoln Municipal Airport at 8:05 this morning.

Earth Scientists To Meet

More than 100 outstanding authorities on earth sciences from Europe, the Americas and the Far East will hold a symposium at the University of Nebraska Center beginning 9 a m. Saturday.

The meetings at Lincoln comprise two pre-congress conferences of the Seventh Congress of the International Association for Quaternary Research (INQUA) headquartered at Boulder, Colo.

The scientists, attending the sessions, have primary interests in the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Central Great Plains.

Dr. Arthur Ward, head of conferences and institutes, said this would be the second major, international meeting of scientists to be held at the Nebraska Center since its opening.

The INQUA scientists are primarily specialists in the Ice Age (Quaternary geologic period) and are experts in such disciplines as anthropology, geology, soils, climatology, paleontology (the study of prehistoric life), paleobotany and geophysics, among others.

Homemakers Meeting Set

Six Nebraskans will attend the National Extension Homemakers Council meeting at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 9-13.

Mrs. Bernard Richter of Kearney, president of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs, is the official state delegate. Others planning to attend are Mrs. Elmer Barnhill of Lincoln, Mrs. Charles Fairley of Fairbury, Mrs. Walter Schellpeper of Stanton, Mrs. Elmer Christopherson of Omaha and Mrs. John B. Iverson of Omaha.

Four Ordinances Face Last Reading Monday

Four ordinances are scheduled Monday for final reading and public hearing before the City Council.

One of the measures would give the city additional powers to remove or abate obstructions on corner lots that are possible hazards to safety.

In other business, the Council has:

Liquor Hearing—Public hearing at 1:30 p.m on application of Arthur Kluge for an on-and-off sale beer license at 1035 M.

Claim—Notice of a $2,000 claim by Kenneth Kimmel of 3030 Wendover for alleged personal injuries caused by stepping in a sidewalk hole.

First Reading—Nine ordinances scheduled for first reading including one which would make changes in 12 classifications in the city pay schedule

The mayor's office said there is no Monday morning meeting scheduled. But there is a meeting Thursday of councilmen, county commissioners and architects on details of the proposed city-county building.

The Council has the following ordinances scheduled Monday for action:

Meyer Considers Death Penalty Crime Deterrent

Hastings (AP)— Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer said Saturday he considers the death penalty a deterrent to crime, especially in the case of kidnaping.

Meyer said the death penalty tends to protect the victim of kidnapers and that it would be 10 to 20 years before the penalty is abolished in Nebraska unless another answer is found for handling persons committing serious crimes.

Appearing on the interview program, "Press Conference," over KHAS-TV at Hastings, the attorney general said the cost of providing assigned counsel for indigent persons will lead more counties to adopt the public defender system.

Northeast Diagonal Levy Eyed

Plan Offered By Mason

Should the proposed Northeast Diagonal be built by tax funds from the city budget, by a general obligation bond issue or through some other method?

City Council members are considering the answer in the wake of a proposal by Councilman John Mason that one mill to raise $207,000 be added to this year's city budget for preliminary work toward construction of the much discussed diagonal.

"The tax-levy fits into a proposed 10-year city engineering street plan and I feel that we are going to have to build it one way or another," said Mason.

The mayor said he hadn't put any funds in the budget for the diagonal because he wanted to first see what the upcoming origin-destination traffic study said about the posssible diagonal, location and related items.

Mason said he would like to start this fiscal year with the one mill and then add at least another mill each year for the proposed diagonal from northeast Lincoln to the downtown business district.

Mason also said that consideration should be given to a bond issue for the diagonal and said he wanted further Council discussion on the matter before the budget is finalized.

Council members also say they want to give further study to the proposed $492,500 Leighton Street spur, a non-tax project, scheduled for construction next fiscal year from 33rd to 48th.

Acting Public Works Director Robert Obering has been requested to appear before the Council to give estimates on simply making Leighton a 44-foot street from 44th to 48th during fiscal 1965-66.

13 Hill-Burton Hopefuls Have Hearing Priority

By BESS JENKINS

Facing the reality of limited resources the State Hospital Advisory Council has asked only 13 of 23 applicants for 1965-66 federal aid to appear Friday at the annual Hill-Burton allocation hearing in the Statehouse

The remaining applicants filing for funds with the State Health Department's hospital division have the option of making presentations.

The 13 on the priority A list inludes six hospital replacements seeking general construction federal aid and seven reqesting long term care funds for units attached to community hospitals.

The hospital replacement list, in order of appearance commencing at 9:30 a.m. in the East Senate Chamber, includes Humboldt, Holdrege, Lincoln General, Ainsworth, Plainview and Omaha-Lutheran Medical Center.

Lincoln General's six-year-old application this year is the priority item in a community unit plan adopted by the three accredited hospitals through the Lincoln Hospital Council.

In this Lincoln plan is subsequent federal construction aid for St. Elizabeth's $5.4 million replacement and a $1 million expansion at Bryan Memorial. Lincoln General is building a $6 million replacement.

Long term care unit applicants asked to appear commencing at 1:30 p.m., are Burwell, Cambridge, Mennonite Deaconess of Beatrice, Chappell, Loup City, Immanuel Deaconess of Omaha and Tecumseh.

This year's preliminary separation of priority A and B applications has been made on the basis of individual project rating against state hospital plan priority points.

Two major factors prompted this action: limitations of anticipated federal allocation (about $2 million compared with the $36 million represented in the 23 applications), and a desire to eliminate disappointment expressed previously by delegations when their projects had little chance of making past priority lists.

"Anyone on the priority B list is invited to speak after the public priority A hearings," said hospital division chief Verne Pangborn.

B rated applicants are Crawford, Mary Lanning of Hastings, St. Catherine's of McCook, Ogallala, Bishop Clarkson and Immanuel Deaconess, both of Omaha, all seeking hospital additions, and Tabitha Home of Lincoln, requesting aid for a new nursing home care unit.

The advisory council's recommendations of projects for 1965-66 federal aid must go to the State Health Board for final action.

This will be done by mail since there is no health board meeting until late September.

"This mail vote will eliminate allocation delay, once funds are available," explained Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director and chairman of the advisory council.

Pangborn said the council may elect to review the 40-bed addition request from Jefferson County Memorial Hospital at Fairbury.

LAFB Unit Wins Again

The 98th Strategic Aerospace Wing at the Lincoln Air Force Base has won the SAC Air Command management control system medium bomber trophy for the second straight year.

The award was presented for outstanding performance from Jan. 1 through June 30 of this year.

Computers To Store State Laws

Advantages Significant

Nebraska's statutes will become the fifth major body of statutes in the United States to be reduced to a storage system of modern computers less than two months from now

A University of Nebraska computer's memory bank is scheduled to be stored with every word of the entire nine volumes of Nebraska's codified laws, the reissued revised statutes plus all supplements.

The project is a cooperative venture of the University's College of Law, computing center and research council. The Nebraska Legislature endorsed the project in a special resolution.

John Gradwohl, professor of law at the University and project director, explained that while the full impact of the storage and retrieval system on the process of legislative revision of present Nebraska law cannot yet be envisioned, the immediate advantages will be significant.

"Essentially, the greatest immediate value to the legislator, bill drafter, and ultimately the taxpaying citizen, will be the ease, speed and economy with which the computer can almost instantly isolate and print out every statute which bears upon a particular issue in question," he said.

Gradwohl cited two examples of what the computer might do in a few minutes that would now take months:

—The scanning of the statutes to determine how existing Nebraska law would be affected should the proposed uniform vehicle code be adopted.

—Updating the law automatically by changing all statute references from the words "penitentiary" and "reformatory" to "Nebraska penal and correctional complex," or "registered mail" to "certified mail," items which may appear in thousands of places in the code.

"We are programming the computer in such a way that in the future it will be possible to show just how statutes on any subject have changed through time, and just what the statute law was at any point in time," he explained.

The method used to ready the computer for the project involves the typing of all statutes on standard data processing punch cards. The computer then prepares a code on tape with which the system can be operated.

Dr. Don Nelson, director of the University's computing center, said the magnetic memory storage of the statutues will ultimately be in the form of a cell about the size of a small breadbox which has the capacity of storing 400 million characters or letters.

Plenty of Bees

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said there were 95,000 bee colonies in Nebraska as of July 1, unchanged from a year earlier.

Dino the dinosaur drew some awed looks as Job Corps enrolees from the Omaha center toured the Morrill Hall museum during a day in Lincoln sponsored by Lincoln members of Women in Community Service. After touring the NU campus and the State Historical Society, the enrolees were guests at a picnic in Pioneers Park.

State Youth Conference Opens Here Thursday

The 1965 Nebraska Conference of Youth opening Thursday at the Nebraska Center is seeding time for youth action throughout the state for the ensuing year

Challenge to the 500 or more youth expected here is grass roots development designed to "Let Youth Help Nebraska Grow" — the current conference theme and goal

A series of workshops will permit young folks from all parts of the state to exchange ideas on projects born of these subjects: education, economic opportunities, recreation, and youth values and standards of behavior.

Additionally, general session speakers providing food for thought include Amos Neyhart, director emeritus of the Institute of Public Safety at Penn State University, known as the "Father of Driver Education", William Galbraith, Nebraska Centennial commission chairman Velma Linford, Office of Economic Opportunities; the Rev Adrian Edgar of Omaha, and Dr Robert Manley, NU history professor

Lonnquist Miss Plum

Youth leaders will be Susanne Plum, chairman of the Nebraska Council of Youth and Goerge Lonnquist, conference chairman.

In the conference background will be 100 Nebraska adults as sponsors, school representatives, dormitory supervisors and adult observers.

Recreational opportunities will be provided. However, lest the lighter side of the three-day session deceive an onlooker, a look back at action within Nebraska communities by these youth groups might be in order.

In the years since the first conference here in 1960, on-the-spot checks would show these typical examples:

Sidney — A survey of contemporary high school graduates to determine future preparation for adult citizenship; interior painting of the Fort Sidney Museum; a physical fitness program topped by a bicycle trip.

Ogallala — Youth support in a swimming pool bond issue; sponsorship of extension classes in Latin, speech and debate (with Latin subsequently added to high school curriculum); participation in an industrial-civic betterment conference

Arapahoe — Helping expand an existing Teen Town program; Career Day sponsorship with school and chamber aid; writing a teen-agers-parents code; establishment of an awards program saluting adult community leaders.

North Platte — Organization of YEA (Youth Employment Agency); active promotion of Buffalo Bill Rodeo financing; sponsorship of foreign exchange students

Minden — Establishment and staffing of a tourist information booth on the Highway 6 city route; Centennial promotion projects; county fair and NEBRASKAland parade participation.

Lincoln — Organization of the Lincoln-Lancaster Council of Youth to launch a continuing series of projects: voluntary health organization campaigns; tree planting; voting guide deliveries; volunteer work at Lincoln State Hospital; and a future safety program

Ravenna's status typifies that of many other Nebraska communities in recent years. Organization in 1964 of its youth council, was followed quickly by a splash into projects heavy on manpower rather than financing.

Boys Seeking Nudes Quizzed

Police said they were questioning several youths regarding a reported attempt to persuade several girls to pose for nude photographs

Officers said several boys about 10 and 11 years old, approached at least two girls and asked them to pose. When apprehended, the boys told officers they were "working" for several other youths, about 15 years old, who were to take the pictures.

Tax Petition Drive Support Said Growing

Omaha (AP) — A co-chairman of the drive to put the income tax issue on the 1966 election ballot said Saturday support for the drive is growing all over the state.

Said Marvin Werve: "We're getting excellent co-operation all over Nebraska. A lot of people are doing a good job."

Werve said the original 5,800 petitions ready for distribution at the first of the week weren't enough to fill the demand

Werve said that at least one person in each of the 93 counties had agreed to circulate the petitions.

He added that several completed petitions have been returned to the office but these have not yet been checked or counted. About 29,000 signatures are needed to put the issue on the election ballot

Where You Gotta Get Glowing . . .

. . . Courthouse 'Green Room'

BY GWEN DRAKE

The secret of what lies behind the green door at the Courthouse is out.

The door located on third floor of the Courthouse, is not green but a strange green. Now surrounds the door, giving it a mysterious forbidden appearance

Nothing could be furthner from the truth. Behind the door is a friendly room, a useful machine and a friendly man

The man is Donald Hanenkamp of Hickman, the room holds the Courthouse copying machines.

Business is good for Hanenkamp who does the copying work for all Courthouse offices. "Of course," he said, "my biggest customer is the register of deeds office, but I do a little work for everybody."

The machine used is a special type that allows an article to be copied on both sides at the same time, according to Hanenkamp.

Courthouse Call

The Courthouse needs this type of machine because deeds, mortgages, leases and plats that must be copied.

According to Hanenkamp the Courthouse has had this machine for 12 years, and when the new Courthouse is built, the machine will move to the new quarters with Hanenkamp.

"There just isn't anything better on the market today to do the type of work we need," he said.

Although Hanenkamp says it takes no special talent to run any of the machines he works with, experience is indicated. He has been working with photography since he was 12 years old "The only thing you have to be to handle these machines," he said, "is one part chemist, one part electrician, one part mechanic and two parts patience.

No Move Planned

When everyone packs up and moves into the proposed new Courthouse, after the dust settles, a familiar face will be missing.

The face belongs to Kathryn Kuhner who runs the little lunch counter in the first floor hall of the Courthouse.

Kathryn says she will not run the lunch counter in the new building," "I've been here for 13 years, and I've decided I need a rest," she said.

"By the time the new Courthouse is ready, I should be ready to retire," Kathryn said.

Insurance Fund Goes to Widow Under VA Plan

A Nebraska widow whose GI husband had allowed his life insurance policy to lapse has become the first widow to receive insurance money under a new Veterans Administration program.

The Nebraska widow's husband applied for the new program May 24 and died July 12. Rufus H. Wilson, VA regional office manager here said. The widow's application for payment was approved a week later.

Wilson urged other veterans who have allowed their insurance to lapse to take advantage of the new program. He said the insurance may be purchased until May 2, 1966.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Few senators have ever questioned the effectiveness of Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance, a legislator who works diligently behind-the-scenes but rarely speaks on the floor. But the Gerdes effectiveness was never better demonstrated than last week on the legislative redistricting problem.

On Tuesday afternoon, it appeared the lawmakers were still poles apart in reaching any kind of agreement. But on Wednesday morning, Gerdes passed out a map showing an alternate plan. By the afternoon session, senators on all sides of the issue rallied behind the Gerdes plan, made some minor alterations and advanced a reapportionment bill off general file.

Mind Changed

In Gov. Frank Morrison's 1961 inaugural address to the Legislature, he recommended the enactment of a records managements act to apply to both state and local governments.

In 1965, his recommended budget turned down a request by the secretary of state's office for $40,000 to fund the program.

In a message to the Legislature last week, he told the lawmakers one reason he vetoed a bill calling for restoration of the 96-year-old Kennard House in Lincoln was because the Legislature did not appropriate funds for the project.

Issues Record

The record setting 1965 legislative session has set another record for the number of issues it has voted to submit to the voters at the November, 1966, general election. With the session not yet over, the senators have placed 13 constitutional amendment proposals before the voters. Five other measures are still pending. The previous record was set in 1896 when 12 amendments were on the ballot.

Middle Name

Although Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff probably is the best known state legislator, few people know his middle name because he rarely uses it. But he signed his full name, Terry McGovern Carpenter, when he became the first Nebraskan to file a petition calling for a referendum vote on the income tax law.

A popular statehouse employe and tourist spot again this summer is a balcony cafe overlooking one of the capitol's inner courtyards. The cafe is operated by Robert Logsdon, operator of the first floor cafeteria.

City's Salary Plan Has Critics Among Employes

By LEO SCHERER

Don't let anyone tell you all is quiet among city personnel about the pay plan set-up by the City Council last year.

Around City Hall

However, City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell feels the plan is all right and so does the majority of the Council.

Reorganization of the city personnel department also caught some city employes by surprise since things didn't go at such a fast pace under the former director.

One report is the personnel board also is coming up soon with some key recommendations.

Planning Pays Off

This quickly was brought out during talks with mayors, city officials and others at the recent Congress of Cities session in Detroit.

Many cities aren't properly equipped with the financial resources or manpower to handle such pressing governmental problems as slum clearance, expensive expressway construction, airport improvements and downtown parking facilities.

It was quite obvious Lincoln's advanced city planning so far has played an important role to keeping possible problem areas from becoming serious trouble spots.

The mayor, a tireless worker, served on one important committee that included mayors from leading cities of the country.

Mayor Petersen, though assigned a Detroit police officer and official car for his personal use, didn't use either to any extent.

The mayor feels proper city representation at a few major conventions each year is highly important and would like to see a Council delegation also attend.

Budget Slower

Council budget hearings didn't go as fast this year as compared with past years.

One of the reasons is Council members are spending more time on individual items and asking more questions.

"ALL GOOD BUYS"

SHE'S ENTITLED to the best, show your wife this home that is truly a home, carpeted living room—dining room & bedrooms, 2½ ceramic tiled baths, you have yet to see a family room as nice (it's on the 1st floor) fireplace, open beamed ceiling, 2 car garage 200x100 treed lot.

SO YOU DON'T need a 5 bedroom home, this one has 2 spacious bed rooms, carpeted living room with fireplace, beautiful woodwork throughout, central air for your summer comfort, the nicest STONE home you'll find, surrounded by expensive homes.

BEEN LOOKING for a nice 2 bedroom brick home, this one is close to Bethany school, plenty of room in the basement if need for extra rooms, 1½ stall garage $14,750.

CAREFUL if your wife sees this home she'll want it, solid stone 3 bedroom home close to Holmes school, carpeted 20.6 x 13.6 living room, it's sharp.

MOVING OUT OF TOWN the owners are anxious to sell their clean 2 bedroom brick home in Havelock, could be bought with $500 down, or nothing down VA, well priced at $12,950.

THIS HOME is across the street from 2 commercially zoned lots, presently zoned single family with proper zoning would be worth much more than $11,250.

WHERE COULD you find a better buy for $9,950? This is the best yet, 2 bedroom, 18 year old, just 4 blocks to Pershing School, vacant.

BEAVER CROSSING is close to Lincoln. Call to see this 2 bedroom on 1 acre of ground for $5,000.

NEED SPACE this home offers big bedrooms, could be bought for $300 down on contract, just reduced to $7,950.

ONE THOUSAND dollars down will buy this family home close to Hartley & 1 block to Sacred Heart schools, 4 bedrooms on 2nd.

Ron Has Big Day At Oval

By JACK ANDERSEN

Veteran rider Ron Alexander joined a select group of jockeys Saturday when he rode five winners on the nine-race Fairgrounds card in Lincoln

And that's not all. Alexander had another place horse and two thoroughbreds which ran third to give him eight mounts in the money.

It was a great day of thrills all the way around at the Capital City oval. The attendance of 7,561 set an all-time record and a late scratch in the ninth race prevented a new betting record.

Honor Spirit was declared from the final race and the money wagered on this favorite returned. This was enough that betting would have hit a new peak with this included As it was the total hit $325 301

Alexander got things off to a rousing start when he rode both ends of the $289 double. He scored with Melanies Shoes ($31 40) and Alary ($20.80)

He made it a triple with Emancipation in the third and then got Dusty G. on top in the fifth and closed out the card with Sun Joker in the ninth

Jerry Rettele shared in the limelight as he put Admiral Roy under the wire first at a tidy $106.60 price, tops for the season.

Lincoln owner R W. White saw his Twilight Zone score her third win in as many starts in the seventh race Nebraskaland purse

And Aquanotte, from the M H Van Berg stable. tied the Fairgrounds mile record of 1 39 2-5 in posting a win in the $2,000 Cornhusker Hotel handicap

Saturday's Results

Senior Swimmers Star; Bryan Wins Two

By LARRY DENNIS

The seniors fairly tore apart the record book in the finale to Saturday's opening day of wimming at the fifth annual Great Plains meet at the Woods Park pool.

Nine records fell in the 12 senior division events which took over the spotlight Saturday evening. In order, they were:

A 4 40 8 effort by Jim Jones of the Kansas City Athletic Club in the men's 400-meter freestyle.

A time of 5:25.9 in the women's 400-meter freestyle by Janet Thorp of the Wichita, Kan., Swim Club.

A 2:26 8 effort by Marty Knight of Minneapolis, Minn., in the men's 200-meter individual medley

A time of 1 05 9 by Ann Coyne of the KCAC in the 100-meter freestyle

A 2 50 5 time by Miss Alley of Wichita in the women's 200-meter backstroke

A runaway victory in 2 25 5 in the men's 200-meter butterfly by Charles Sakomoto of the Hawaii Swim Club

Miss Thorp's 2 53.2 time in the women's 200-meter butterfly

Miss Alley and Miss Thorp, the Wichita teammates, thus were the only double winners among the seniors, although Miss Coyne also won the girls 13-14 100-meter and 200-meter freestyle events earlier in the day.

Challenge Expected

Mills, Breitfelder Tied in Sweepstakes

By HAL BROWN

Two Lincoln golfers, Phil Breitfelder and Buck Mills, will take a one-stroke lead into the final round of the Governor's Sweepstakes Golf Tournament at Holmes Park today, but a Kansas City, Kan., entrant feels he's ready for the challenge.

Breitfelder and Mills shot one-under-par 71s in the first round Saturday at Pioneers, but Kansas amateur champion Jim Colbert is only one shot back at 72

"I didnt' play well on the early holes, Colbert pointed out, "but I finally started hitting the ball on about the last four holes today (Saturday).

"I had a 77 yesterday (Friday) in the final round of the Kansas City Amateur, but I feel that I have corrected the problems now"

Colbert, the Missouri amateur champion a year ago and a former runner-up in the NCAA meet while a student at Kansas State, was one over par on the front side at Pioneers, but came in with a one-under 35 on the final nine despite a north wind that hampered the golfers on the par-3 13th, par-5 15th and par-4 16th

Nebraska state amateur champion Bob Astleford failed to make the championship flight when he bogeyed eight of the final nine holes for a nine-over-par 81 after making the turn at one-over par.

While Colbert felt that he had finally found his game on the closing holes, Breitfelder went the other way

"I was hitting it fairly good at the start," Breitfelder said, "but then it kept getting worse"

Breitfelder, who won the York Open earlier this summer with a final round 65, opened with a birdie when he reached the 533-yard first hole with a 4-wood second shot and two putted.

Buck Mills

He went two under par with a 12-foot birdie putt at the 341-yard, par-4 fifth hole before bogeying the eighth to make the turn in 35

He played the back side even with bogeys at Nos 13 and 16 sandwiching birdies in between with a 15-foot putt on No. 14 and a 12-footer at No 15.

Mills used a deft putting and chipping touch to tie for the lead as the action moves to the long and testing Holmes Park course today.

The Lincoln fireman used only 23 putts, 10 on the back side, to carve out his 71. He made the turn in two-over 38 with four bogeys and two birdies on the front, but came on strong on the second nine with a three-under-par 33 on three birdies

Mills sank a five-foot birdie putt on No 11 and added a two-footer for a birdie at No 14 He chipped in from the

U.S.S.R. Leading 'Limping' Yanks

Kiev, U.S.S R (AP) — The injury-plagued US men's track and field team suffered its darkest hour Saturday when the powerful Russians beat America's sky-scraping pole-vaulters and proud sprint relay team for a 58-57 lead after the first day of the dual meet between the two top track and field powers.

With the Sunday program loaded with events in which the Soviet athletes excel, it appeared possible that the American men might absorb their first setback in the seven-year history of the competition.

A magnificent performance by the women, particularly the fleet and plucky Wyomia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., kept the day from being a complete disappointment

Miss Tyus sped to a world record-tying triumph in the women's 100-meter dash with an 11 1 seconds clocking and staged a great come-from-behind spurt to save the women's 400-meter relay.

The Russians, who normally dominate the series, led the U S. girls by only 29½ to 22½.

The men were not so lucky Using a patch-work line-up after 100-meter winner Darel Newman of Visalia, Calif, pulled up lame in that race, the Yank speedsters fell behind the redclad Russians and never recovered

Bad baton passing was largely responsible. Then George Anderson of Baton Rouge, La., who was second in the 100, ran out of his lane and disqualified the team. This meant the Americans were denied the three points that goes to the loser.

It was the first time in the series, dating back to 1958, that the sprint relay team had been beaten, and the same unhappy circumstances fell upon the stratosphere pole vaulters Jeff Chase and John Pennel, losing to Russia's surprising Gennady Bliznetsov who won with 16-3.

Hastings Ousts Roberts

York—Lincoln Roberts was ousted from the State American Legion Midget Baseball Tourney Saturday as Hastings scored two runs in the top of the eigth inning for an 8-6 decision.

Roberts had rallied from an early 4-0 deficit with a four-run outburst in the bottom of the second, highlighted by losing pitcher Dave McEwen's three-run double

The Lincoln club took the lead in the third when Ron Nelson reached base on an error and scored on Leland Sasse's triple. Hastings went back in front, 6-5, with two runs in the fourth before Roberts evened the count at 6-6 with a tally in the fifth.

Roberts scored when Harold Connick grounded to third baseman George Souders with the bases loaded and two out. Souders went to third in an attempt to force Roger Severin but dropped the ball and had to get him coming back to the base This allowed Leland Sasse to score.

Dick Pease, who came on in relief of Hasting's starter Jerry Nicolarsen in the third inning, gave up only two hits and a single run in his relief stint. He struck out nine in his 5 2-3 innings at work.

Hastings pounded 15 hits against McEwen and had four in the winning eighth inning rally. Catcher Gary Erickson drove in the winning run with a one-out single.

Highlight of the opening round action was Pepsi's 11-inning 1-0 victory over Norfolk Grand Island followed suit with a 1-0 victory over Omaha Philipstores and North Platte advanced with a 7-2 triumph over Lincoln Gerry's

Gerry's and Norfolk were each held to just one hit and Philipstores could manage just four in dropping into the losers' bracket of the double elimination tournament

Sharing the spotlight with sparkling mound performances were Pepsi's Ken Fila Norfolk's Keith Winter, Grand Island's Allen Furby and the North Platte duo of John Mahaffey and Sam Jones

North Platte 7, Gerry's 2

North Platte exploded for six runs in the last two innings in support of the combined one-hit effort by pitchers John Mahaffey and Sam Jones

Gerry's had a 2-to-1 lead after seven innings as the result of a pair of errors and Mike Bouman's double in the fifth inning Jack Galusha scored from second base when North Platte's second baseman Steve Sanders failed to come up with Bill Bauer's ground ball and Bouman clouted a double to the right-centerfield fence to score Bauer.

The two-run rally wiped out the 1-0 lead North Platte had taken on an unearned run in the top of the fifth

North Platte finally got to Bouman in the eighth inning, however, as Larry Vlasin, Bill Cotton, and Glenn Chase doubled and Terry Konruff singled.

Bouman was chased in the ninth on a pair of singles and a walk. Reliever Mike Delaney was greeted by singles from the bats of Cotton and Konruff as George Lebedz's club posted its 26th win in 31 games.

Jones, who like Cotton is from McCook, came in with runners on second and third and one out in the eighth inning and got Del Smith to fly out Pinch runner Bill Strain was thrown out trying to score after the catch

Vlasin, Madrid's fine all-around athlete, led the North Platte attack with four hits in five trips Cotton had three hits

Pepsi 1, Norfolk 0

Omaha Pepsi's Ken Fila and Norfolk's Keith Winter staged a spectacular 12-inning pitching duel before both had to leave the mound because of the 12-inning limit imposed in Legion play.

Fila allowed just a fourth-inning single by the Norfolk pitcher, walked none and struck out 28 before giving way to George Stilen.

Winter was touched for six hits but pitched his way out of trouble with the help of good defense and 13 strikeouts

Pepsi got its winning run in the top of the 14th on the only error of the contest. Frank Stanek led off with a single and was sacrificed to second Tom Gordon struck out before Adrian Fiala drew a walk Then Terry Naustar slapped a ground ball to second baseman Rod Nathan but Nathan couldn't make connection with shortstop Rick Retzlaff as they tried to force Fiala at second Stanek

Huskers Tough To Match

Opposing Big Eight football coaches have found Nebraska coach Bob Devaney a tough fellow to match in the selection and development of football talent.

And now, other Big Eight publicists may find it a tough job to top the football brochure produced this year by NU Sports Information Director Don Bryant, chronicling the past, present and future of Cornhusker football.

The 106-page guide for use by writers and broadcasters has just come off the press with bright red, yellow, black and white colors jumping at you from the cover.

The colorful cover shows Devaney with the Huskers' four pre-season All-American candidates Freeman White, Tony Jeter, John Strohmyer and Walt Barnes

Outlook 'Good—Quite Good'

But it is on the inside pages where Husker fans can feel their enthusiasm building and Page 2 is the one that could send NU fans rushing to the nearest telephone to make post-season arrangements

In the 1965 preview section, Bryant poses the question, "After two consecutive Big Eight championships, two consecutive 9-1 seasons and three consecutive bowl trips, the question quite naturally arises What kind of a team will Nebraska have in 1965?"

He then answers it tersely, "Good—quite good, in fact, if all goes well!

"That may sound a bit strange to the uninitiated, but the Nebraska Cornhuskers aren't in the habit of dodging exciting challenges The form chart indicates the Huskers will be a pretty fair country football team, and the coaches and players have vetoed wholesale crying and nail-biting because they've been put on the spot.

"Coach Bob Devaney, whose Huskers have won 28 of 33 games in three seasons and a like number of bowl games, hasn't let enthusiasm get the better of his common sense, to be sure. But like always, he's willing to call a spade a spade."

Bryant quotes Devaney "We should be better, both offensively and defensively," but points out that the Husker coach "isn't talking about victories when he indicates improvement He's talking about quality and experienced personnel."

No Surrender Planned

Devaney, who pointed out a year ago that the Huskers would not surrender their title without a fight despite being the underdogs in pre-season polls, warns the Big Eight again that they are in for a fight with the Cornhuskers whether they are favored or not.

"Maybe we will be favored to win the Big Eight again," he says. "We certainly plan to diligently pursue another title, and we don't intend to surrender our championship without offering any resistance.

"But it is wishful thinking to predict Nebraska will run away with the title. We can be a good team, but we won't be super-human by any means."

The Nebraska brochure from the colorful cover to the picture of the N-Club Sweetheart Georgia Merriam will rank among the best. But fortunately for us writers, the games must be played on the field, not in brochures.

KU Poll Forecasts Title For Huskers

By Associated Press

The University of Nebraska football Cornhuskers will win a third straight Big Eight Conference title this year

This is the consensus of a majority of 100 Mid-west sports writers and broadcasters who took part in the annual pre-season poll conducted by Phil Dynan, sports information director of the University of Kansas

The veteran Cornhuskers received 70 first place votes 24 for second, 3 for third, 2 for fourth and one picked the Husker to finish last.

The Huskers received more than twice as many first place votes as the predicted second place finisher, Missouri, which received 25 first place votes

The order of predicted finish of the other clubs was Oklahoma, Kansas, Oklahoma State, Colorado, Kansas State and Iowa State

Grand Island 1, Philipstores 0

Grand Island made an unearned run in the first inning stand up as it moved into the Sunday showdown with Omaha Pepsi.

Chuck Rombach scored from second base as Dick Johnson singled with one out. Rombach had stayed alive on the base paths when he beat out a throw on Doug Townsend's fielders choice.

Furby, the hero of the Grand Island title drive last year, pitched out of several tightspots to record his 11th victory. Philipstores' Mike Churchich led off the second with a triple, but Furby struck out two of the next three hitters, retiring the side.

The Omaha club threatened again in the fifth when loser Gene Ritter doubled and Rich Schicker singled after one was out, but Furby again proved masterful in the clutch situation.

The southpaw struck out 14 and walked just two in notching the victory.

Mottice Takes Second Title in Two Days

Linda Mottice of Akron, Ohio, established herself as the No. 1 precision women's roller skater in the country Saturday by taking the senior ladies' figures championships for the second straight year at the North American Amateur Roller Skating Championships at Pershing Auditorium.

Miss Mottice, 20-year old secretary at an alloy casting firm, Friday won the senior pairs title with Adolph Wacker, also of Akron. It was the fourth consecutive time the duo has won, which ties a national record.

For the day, the last of competition, Akron was outstanding

Defending champion Joe Bark won the senior men's figures as Akron swept all three places. Keith Runnels finished second and Wacker ended up third.

Linda Mace of Akron won the intermediate ladies' figures

In senior men's speed Ted Attebury of Long Beach, Calif., upset defending champion George Grudza of Riverside, N.J. for the title.

It was Attebury's first national championship. He is the skater who slipped on a pencil in the opening night of competition while in the lead of the five-mile event. Officials later ruled him the winner.

In intermediate ladies' figures Susan Tate of Lincoln finished 17th. In juvenile girls singles, Lincoln's Patty Kelly was 10th, Patty Hile 14th and Yvonne Mazzola 17th.

Last Thursday and Wednesday's night's finals of the championships will be telecast Saturday at 4 p.m. on ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports."

Yale Holds Best Modern Grid Mark

By BOB HOOBING
Written for The Associated Press
One of a Series

What college has the winningest football record of all time? "Think moderns" likely will answer Notre Dame, Michigan or Alabama — all wrong. Yale is No. 1.

The Elis head four ancient powers which continue to dominate football's 400 club long after their national prestige, poll-wise, has waned.

Twenty schools have won over 400 games, with Yale's 604 heading the list. Princeton is next with 567. Penn has 555 and Harvard 547.

Michigan, Notre Dame, California, Texas, Army and Dartmouth complete the top 10 column.

The Big Three and the Quakers got a tremendous jump on the rest of the field. By the end of 1888—the year the Elis outscored the opposition 694-0—Yale had won 92 games, Princeton 91, Harvard 79 and Penn 51. In comparison, Minnesota claimed four triumphs. Penn State two and that brash newcomer, Notre Dame, one.

The following October, Yale defeated Penn, 22-10, for its 30th consecutive victory and 100th over-all

There were 20 men per team operating on a field 133 yards long Nov. 16, 1872, when the Elis downed Columbia three goals to none in New Haven. Chroniclers report Yale men had no uniforms Columbia sported blue caps but displayed "more precision." That's where it all began.

A 54-0 trouncing of Lehigh last fall provided victory No 600 Yale has averaged 21.4 points through 819 games.

The Elis have the most unbeaten seasons to their credit, 29, but Princeton has taken the lead in perfect campaigns with 18 after All-America Cosmo Iacavazzi led a sweep over nine rivals in 1964

Although total victories, rather than percentage, determine the ratings, Yale also boasts the best winning average of 785. Princeton and Notre Dame are the only other schools that have managed 750 through the years. Both are tied at .780.

Nebraska's two-time Big Eight defending champions with 398 victories and Pitt with 397 have a good chance to crack the elite '400' this fall.

Johnson's Bat Lifts Cincy Past Houston

By Associated Press

Deron Johnson drove in four more runs Saturday, giving him seven in two days as Cincinnati battered Houston, 11-4, Saturday.

Johnson, leading the major leagues in runs batted in with 84, walloped his 18th and 19th home runs and also singled, leading an 18-hit Red attack that included Gordy Coleman's eighth home run.

The Reds sent 11 batters up and scored six runs in the fourth inning, breaking it open and making Jim Maloney's 12th victory easy.

Pinch hitter Johnny Stephenson of the New York Mets beat Philadelphia for the second time in eight days, delivering an 11th inning double that gave the Mets a 4-3 victory over the Phillies. Stephenson's two-out double tagged relief ace Jack Baldschun with the loss.

Charlie Smith had a three-run homer for the Mets and Dick Stuart connected for the Phillies.

Juan Marichal pitched a three-hitter for his 16th victory of the season as San Francisco topped Milwaukee, 3-1. Jim Ray Hart drove in two runs for the Giants, one of them with his 10th homer of the year.

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell drove in five runs — four of them on a ninth inning grand slam but Chicago outlasted the Pirates, 7-6. Stargell's homer knocked out Bob Buhl, who had driven in two runs with a single earlier in the game. Ron Santo homered for the Cubs.

Johnny Buzhardt pitched four innings of perfect relief as Chicago edged Detroit, 4-3. Buzhardt, coming out of the bullpen for only the second time this season, rescued Frank Lary from a sixth inning jam and blanked the Tigers the rest of the way.

Lary, making his first start for the White Sox, drove in two runs with a key single in the fourth when Chicago scored all of its runs.

Ray Barker's two-out double in the bottom of the ninth scored Elston Howard from first as New York came from behind to nip Cleveland, 7-6. Joe Pepitone hammered two home runs for the Yankees and Fred Whitfield connected for the Indians.

Tony Oliva scored all the way from second on an infield grounder in the 11th inning as the American League-leading Minnesota Twins edged Baltimore, 2-1. With two on and one out, Joe Nossek grounded to Oriole third baseman Brooks Robinson who went to second for one out Oliva, running on the play, rounded third and continued home as Nossek beat the relay at first base.

Boston edged Los Angeles 4-3, scoring the winning run in the ninth inning when Dick Green tripled and came home on Aubrey Gatewood's wild pitch.

St. Louis cut Los Angeles' National League lead to one game, edging the Dodgers, 4-3, on Lou Brock's two-run single in the ninth inning. Bob Gibson pitched a six-hitter for his 13th victory against eight defeats

The Kansas City Athletics, held hitless by Buster Narum for five innings, nipped Washington 5-4 as Mike Hershberger singled across Pert Campaneris in the ninth.

Nine-Race Cards Set

Three nine-race programs have been scheduled for the final five days of the State Fairgrounds race meet in Lincoln.

They will be run on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, according to manager Henry Brandt. Eight races will be run on Wednesday and Friday.

The extra races were added to the Tuesday and Thursday programs (Saturday has been a nine-race day throughout the meet) in order to accommodate the large number of thoroughbreds stabled at the Fairgrounds, Brandt said.

Among the feature races scheduled for the final week are the $3,000-added money Futurity for Nebraska-bred two-year-olds on Wednesday and the Farewell Handicap on Saturday.

Post times will remain at 3 p.m. on weekdays and 2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

"I played well on the back side," he observed. "I started out playing like I was going to shoot 80 and I told myself that I was going to have to stop that."

The strong winds that came up just as the leading contenders began teeing off held down scores in the first venture at the Governor's Sweepstakes by the sponsoring Lincoln Municipal Golf Association.

Golfers will begin teeing off with the sixth flight at 6:27 a.m., this morning followed by the fifth at 7:21, fourth at 8:15, third at 9:09, second at 10:03, first at 10:48, seniors at 11:24, championship at 11:51, and seventh at 1:12 p.m.

Golfers who requested special tee times may obtain their times by calling Holmes Park.

Three Teams Set Pace

Skyline in the AAA city softball league and the Bombers and Chubbyville in AA-1 dominated the selections for the teams to represent each league in the second annual All-Star Game.

Game time is 8 p.m. Saturday at Many's main diamond.

Skyline placed five on the AAA squad — second baseman Rich Lutt, shortstop Jack Partington, center fielder Doug Wells, catcher Ron Walker and pitcher Lefty Searcy.

The Bombers and Chubbyville fled with three apiece for AA-1.

Frank Sheridan of Grenemeier's Drive-In (AAA) and Marvin Edson of The Clipper (AA-1) were elected by fellow coaches to head the two teams.

The game will be a benefit contest.

B. C Ranks Give North Squad Boost

Provide Plenty Of Beef

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Representatives from the Class B and C ranks add considerable heft to the North Shrine Bowl squad's line.

Seniors Max Brummer, David City Aquinas, Dan Kosmo, Burwell, Carl Ashman, Wisner's Russ Stigge and Valentine's Orville Turgeon each bring solid football backgrounds into the Aug. 21 charity contest.

Kobza

Brichacek

Turgeon

Ashman

Stigge

The 6-0, 190-pound athlete served as president of his high school class as a freshman and senior.

The Burwell youngster was runnerup in the Class B shot put, a three-year all-conference football choice and an all-conference basketball selection.

Ashman is planning a career as a teacher.

Stigge, a 6-2, 218-pound athlete, saw duty as both a fullback and tackle for his Class C Wisner team and is expected to be used at tackle in the Shrine Bowl contest.

A football, basketball and track letterman Russell was a Boys State representative and served as president of his sophomore, junior and senior classes.

A farm worker in the summer, Stigge is contemplating a career in engineering.

The 5-11, 205-pound youngster lists science as his favorite school subject

Jean Hyland

Jean Hyland To Make Bid For 8th City Title

By HAL BROWN

Jean Hyland, who passed up the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Tournament because of putting woes, will attempt to become only the second lady to win eight Lincoln City Tournaments when the women begin competition Tuesday at the Lincoln Country Club.

Mrs. Hyland, who has won seven city crowns, needs a win this year to tie Mrs. Earl Anderson who won seven straight from 1935 to 1941 and came back for an eighth title in 1949.

"I'm not playing much better now than I was at the time of the state tournament," Mrs. Hyland notes. "And I'm still having trouble with my putter, but I'm going to give it a try anyway."

Mrs. Hyland and state champion Dorothy Schwartzkopf have dominated the Lincoln gals golf scene most of the past 15 years. They have won 11 of the past 15 tournaments starting with Mrs. Hyland's win in 1950.

The only breaks in the Hyland-Schwartzkopf domination came in 1952 when Mrs. Carl Fisher won and in 1954-55-56 when Sara Lehman captured three straight city championships.

Dorothy won in 1963 and 1964 after Jean had won three in a row in 1960-61-62.

Dorothy, who has now won three straight state championships, defeated Mrs. Hyland by two strokes a year ago when Jean took a 46 on the front side of the final round after trailing by only one stroke going into the final day's play.

After opening at the Lincoln Country Club Tuesday, the golfers will move to Hillcrest Wednesday, Pioneers Thursday and back to Hillcrest for the final round Friday. This is second year that the women will be playing medal play.

Tucker Provides Leadership

Addition Of Former Husker Brightens Comets' Outlook

By LARRY DENNIS

The appearance of ex-Nebraska reserve quarterback Doug Tucker has brightened the outlook in the camp of the Lincoln Comets' professional football team.

"Since we got Tucker with us, I think things have really been popping out there," coach Don Erway reports. "We have someone to lead us now, and quarterback had been a big dark spot for us."

The Comets originally had counted on former Nebraska Wesleyan star Mike Slatinsky to fill the field general shoes, but Slatinsky apparently has decided not to play.

Tucker originally had been slated to report for Air Force duty Oct. 1, but it now looks like he won't have to go until Nov. 1, thus insuring his presence with the Comets the entire season.

"Tucker has looked real good," Erway says. "He'll be a real fine one for us."

The Comet coach also has been encouraged by the running of Byron (Hurricane) McCane, ex-Boys Town great, and former State College of Iowa gridder Rod Franz from Sioux City, in the offensive line. Ron Nannen, Ron Michka and Clarence Osentowski have sparkled, while Vernon Thompson, Bob Antulov and Mike Draper have shone in the defensive line.

Tucker

"Things have really jelled the last couple of days" Erway declared. "We've started to find some positons for some people whom we didn't have placed on paper. That helps from an organizational standpoint. Once you find places, you can start working with people."

Erway does profess disappointment in the defensive secondary.

"We don't have any people there yet, so this is where we're trying to beef up right now," he says.

Erway indicates his squad is about a week away from full strength. Four or five key players are expected to join by then.

The Comets have been practicing five times a week, and will follow that schedule through next week, although they may run into difficulty finding a place to drill.

The club has been tentatively denied the use of Sherman Field as a practice site, although it is still negotiating. No other lighted field suitable for night workouts is available.

The team's first game, an exhibition contest in Fairbury against the Kansas City Buffaloes, is scheduled for Aug. 14.

Parliament words were up but Lincoln's Ed Hammond and his guests set out from Hammond's Point Lake Narrows 80 miles from the Arctic Circle, camp for lake trout fishing grounds about 20 miles away without apprehension.

Hammond, Steven Watkins of Lincoln and George Sian of Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, manned one boat. Kenneth Schweitzer, Lee Franks and Fry Peterson, all of Lincoln, had the other.

This third day was to be exciting.

Watkins landed a "Lunker" for the first catch of the day and his boat set out for the live box some 300 yards away.

As the Watkins' catch was being transferred to the live box, Sian looked to the other boat and said

"They've been swamped!" And mind you that's icy water up there.

Hammond, Watkins and Sian scurried to the overturned boat and sighted two of the three original occupants but not the other. To their relief, the other was clinging to the far side of the boat and wasn't in the rapids.

Peterson and Schweitzer quickly bounded into Hammond's boat but Franks had to be towed by a rope connecting himself and Hammond to shallower waters to avoid tipping over yet another boat.

Hammond's boats are capable of carrying 1600 pounds and have styrofoam under the seats to prevent sinking.

Schweitzer, Franks, Peterson were left to dry on a near-by shore with Watkins while Sian and Hammond set out to retreive the capsized craft. And that took some doing.

No part of the boat was above water to permit hooking up a rope so Hammond clipped a three-ounce sinker to his "gangnook" lure and secured it to the shank of the outboard motor.

They towed it to a spot where Sian lifted the boat over, a difficult task considering the 14' x 5' size of the boat and the vacuum created underneath.

Schweitzer, Peterson and Franks lost their tackle, tackle boxes and cameras in the spill. But that's not all the Arctic anglers lost that day.

Waves broke one side of a live box, freeing 400 pounds of fish, which ranged in individual size from 16 to 28 pounds.

Other than that the fishermen reeled in 1400 pounds and smoked 700 pounds into fillets during their week's stay. Smoking reduces the live weight of fish, approximately 40%.

Hammond has been going North to fish for 32 straight years and five years ago constructed a 16'x26' steel-structured, concrete-based cabin at a cost of $10,000 at Point Lake Narrows.

Crazy 8 Featured Tonight

One of the most popular racing invitations to hit the midwest in recent years will be presented again tonight at Midwest Speedway.

It is the 'Crazy Figure 8' race and features stock cars traveling on the path that has only one intersection.

The drivers in this race have formed an association and some 18 to 20 cars are expected to enter. In one race early this year three cars were on their top at the same time and in another two came to rest on their sides.

This race will be presented as a closing feature after the super modifieds roar into action on the 8 p.m. card.

But Wilkinson can expect plenty of competition from top drivers such as Lloyd Beckman, Roy McCain, Bob Coulter, Racer Brown, George Odvody, Wayne Rutland and others.

Easy Win

Dubuque, Iowa (AP) — Red-haired Sharon Miller captured the Women's Trans-Mississippi Amateur golf title Saturday with a runaway 9 and 8 victory over her erratic Michigan rival, Joyce Kazmierski.

Little Safety on Links

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

A guy never knows when or where he'll pick up material for this outdoor column.

We switched rods for golf tools a few days ago and chopped around the Lincoln Country Club at the Iron Derby Stag.

We hacked around with Gus Swanson and Glen Wagner, two avid sportsmen who would rather tote guns and rods afield once a week than play golf every day—even if they could hit drives downhill with the wind.

Anyway, during our afternoon with the dandelion killers, we spotted one chap bagging squirrels on the sixth and seventh holes.

Bet this will bring out the Game Commission gendarmes, as they will no doubt think: "Got a guy potting bushytails out of season."

But before Carl Gettmann, Chief of Enforcement Division, sends out his prize enforcers, I'd better tell now the squirrels were taken

The Limit?

On the sixth tee, this burly-muscled chap wound up and let fly a screaming drive right into the trees lining the left side of the fairway.

When the ball got through rattling around and bouncing among the limbs, a couple of squirrels bit the dust and fell down with the ball.

Not wanting to get caught with the game out of season, the polite golfer let the critters lay and proceeded to par the hole.

On the tough seventh, a dog-leg to the right, he belted a ball into the woods again . . . yep, you guessed it . . . two more squirrels bit the dust.

Now we wonder if bagging squirrels with a golf ball is illegal. There's nothing in the Game Law Regulations on this.

Since the chap who nabbed these squirrels made me promise not to reveal his name—he held my head under the shower—this will be considered privilged information and we won't squeal to Gettmann. But we would like to ask him if he would tell us what the limit on squirrels is with golf balls.

Fishing

We overheard snatches of conversation between Bernie Wendt and Bill Mowbray and would you believe it, they weren't talking about their golf score but about fishing.

Seems like both men like to wet a line quite frequently during the summer and will go almost anywhere to do it.

We didn't hear all of the talk but one of them claimed the trout was the best fighting fish; the other maintained the bass was.

We don't know who won that argument as they both walked off, arm in arm.

Still a Tiger

Watching Bill Rolfsmeyer play reminded me of the times I watched him at the informal shoots put on by Jack Grainger.

Bill would toe the line, like a tiger, and sometimes would become so intent on busting rocks that he would shoot at every rock coming out—even if it wasn't his shot.

Tiger Bill charged in with a neat 73—that's gross—and I would have tied him but I quit on the 10th hole.

Let's Get 'Em

And there's the conversation I overheard at the LCC which is worth telling.

One guy says: "Boy you should see the quail on my place. Got scads of them!

The guy next to him shouts out: "Why wait till fall? Let's get some now, just to tune up the shooting eye!"

United Brethren Camp Near Milford 50th Anniversary Observance Today

By MIKE BAXTER

Milford—A few years ago the Big Blue had nearly convinced Evangelical United Brethren churchmen it was time to write off Riverside Park, a mile north of here.

Periodic floods of its muddy waters had made rubber boots an essential part of camping gear.

But they'll celebrate the 80-acre camp's half-century anniversary today, and its future in the EUB never looked brighter.

When things looked low for the camp, the denomination literally raised the prospects—a full foot and a half.

"We moved 50,000 cubic feet of dirt," said the Rev. Lowell Johnson of the Milford EUB Church, camp superintendent for three years.

The soil was bulldozed from one of the site's hills to provide 12 acres a safe 18 inches above flood level.

Here, within the next few years, will rise a new dining hall, dormitories, office and caretaker's home.

"The dining hall," first to come, "will feed about 300, and with partitions we can also use it for classrooms," the Rev. Mr. Johnson said.

Besides building, camp activities also point to a busy future for Riverside Park.

"In terms of the number of weeks the camp is used, this may well be one of our busiest seasons," the mustachioed minister said.

Both programmed and past growth will be noted at 7 Tuesday night when EUB leaders meet at the camp for the anniversary tribute.

Top program billing will go to Rev. Orville Matzke of Murdock and 90-year-old Frank Ficke of Milford, both longtime supporters of the camp.

The Rev. Mr. Matzke will ask Ficke, who has been active in camp work since the first meeting there on Aug. 17, 1915, about Riverside Park history.

The Rev. Mr. Matzke spoke of some points they will cover together:

—Moving the old Lincoln Air Force Base bowling alley to the camp in 1948, reassembling the five sections into the present dining hall.

—Erection of the barn-sized tabernacle in 1915, where up to 2,000 have worshipped, most sitting on the grass around the tabernacle, others inside sitting on sawdust or grass cuttings.

—The park management supplying straw to tent campers for their straw ticks, and renting bedsprings for a tick foundation for 50c: "We had all the conveniences."

—The now-shallow, muddy Blue River being 20 feet deep, rock-bottomed, clear and far more considerate in flood season.

—Installation in 1931 of the hot showers. Campers, charged 15c for a 15-minute shower, reserved time for the daily cleanup.

—Transportation to the park by bus and motorboat.

—The 1944 speech there by Prof. H. August Dean Smith of Boston University, at the time a noted national figure, who also presented a crucifixion pageant.

After all these 50 years, the Rev. Mr. Johnson said, the camp remains "a vital part of our church program."

"Campers are getting experience here they wouldn't get in a church. There's no contact with the outside world.

This adds up to a "Christian living experience," he said, "learning to live with one another in a Christian relationship."

Methodists Plan Missions Work

The Rev. Warren Danskin of Norfolk and Valjean Warman of Cook will begin three years of overseas missionary work this fall for the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Danskin will work with youths in Brazil and Warman will work with Rhodesian farmers. They will join 30 other young Methodists for the special term service.

The Rev. Danskin is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University. He received his master's degree from the University of Nebraska and a divinity degree from Drew University Theological Seminary in Madison, N.J.

Brethren Church Names Advisor

Mrs. Warren Sisler of 2760 California has been named an advisor in Christian education to the Church of the Brethren.

Mrs. Sisler is district director of children's work for the denomination.

Parole Officer Dennis Martin Seeks Priesthood, Chaplain Role

First ambition for tall, heavily-built Dennis Martin, a self-described "gun nut", was on the underside of the law.

"In Chicago," he grinned, "I might have made a good torpedo (killer)."

Today Martin, 28, is in the Nebraska State Penitentiary—but on the sunny side of the law.

And tomorrow—for him four years away—the self-effacing parole officer hopes to be back in penitentiary work, this time as a Roman Catholic priest.

"The first thing I wanted to be was a criminal," Martin said, "but I knew my parents wouldn't approve so I told my father I wanted to be a cop."

At that time, he added, he was five years old

He will leave the penitentiary Aug. 31. He has been accepted and will start theological studies at the St. Paul Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., for four years.

After ordination, Martin wants to return to prison work as a chaplain. A clerical collar, he said, would be a "tool to help people in social work.

"Some people have a way of wearing their religion on their sleeves or just for two hours on a Sunday, and the rest of the time they don't care about their neighbor.

"The type of person I like is one who tries to help the next guy when he's down and out, instead of kicking him on down, trying to bring him out of it.

"I'd like to do this under the authority of a priest rather than as a layman. People place more trust in a priest, carrying a vow of silence.

"I would have even more tools as a priest—a way of reaching people faster, achieving more, and more quickly."

Martin is fond of quoting a famed St. Paul saying: "I hate the sin but love the sinner."

This, in essence, is his drive—to live his religion.

"Dennis . . . has the attitude and interests that make an exceptional parole officer," one prison observer said. "Also, no doubt, an exceptional priest."

Two of many who would agree are the parolee with $55 in bad checks—Martin paid them—and the one who had his first month's rent out of pris n paid by Martin

"This is my reward" he said, "seeing this guy make it

"I like to see people who want to throw them in the pen and forget about them, and say to them: 'Here's a guy who made it.'"

Born in Omaha, Martin lived in Genoa, then Geneva and Hastings, graduating from Conception, Mo., Seminary

After Navy duty, he earned a bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of Nebraska and studied philosophy for two years at St. Meinrad Seminary in St. Meinrad, Ind. He has completed a third of the required work for a master's degree in sociology at NU

He worked at the penitentiary reception center during the summer of 1960 while studying for his bachelor's degree, then returned in September, 1963 as a full-time parole officer.

Lincolnite To Receive Wayne State 'First'

Wayne—Eleven seniors will receive academic honors at Wayne State's summer commencement Aug. 5, and one other will receive the first bachelor of science degree granted by Wayne

Heading the bachelor's degree candidates in over-all grade average through his college career is James F. Rasmussen of Allen, 3.747. A straight A average is 4.0.

Janet Dreysen Carlson, formerly of Hoskins and now of Wayne, ranks second at 3.719, and her husband, Kendall Carlson, formerly of Norfolk, is fourth at 3.425. Third ranking graduate among those graduating "with distinction" is Thomas E. Morrison, Coleridge, 3.455.

To graduate with distinction, a senior must have compiled a grade average of at least 3.2. Others receiving this honor:

Arlene Ruth Asch, Pilger; Anna Sorensen Wingett, Rosalie; Juanita Johnson, Wayne; Joyce Nelson Dohmen, Columbus; Rezelia Hurt Scranton, Plainview; and Thomas W. Patras, Clearwater.

One of the 11 graduating seniors, Charlotte Waggoner of Wayne, went through the college's honors program, earning the ranking of magna cum laude, with an overall average of 3.616, and highest honors in German, her major study.

Candidates for bachelor's degrees number 118, for master's degrees, 12.

James Lessman of Lincoln has the distinction of receiving the new degree, bachelor of science, offered for the first time this summer as a result of the Legislature's passing LB111, authorizing this addition to the approved degrees.

Speaker for the commencement ceremony is Mrs Margaret Hasebroock of West Point, president of the General Federation of Women's Club.

Franciscan Services to Mark Date

St. Patrick's Catholic Church, 6126 Morrill, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of Franciscan service to the church today.

This will include a 4 p.m. outdoor mass in Havelock Park, 6300 Morrill, followed by a 5 p.m. dinner.

The provincial of the Franciscan order, the Rev. Dominic Limacher of St. Louis, Mo., and former pastors will participate.

Pastors include the Revs. Paschal Rollman of Westmont, Ill., Norbert Schmalz of St. Louis, Benno Tushaus of Chicago and Kenneth Schlesser, the current priest. Fr. Rollman will deliver the sermon.

Only former pastor unable to attend will be the Rev. Godfrey Piontkowski of Lac du Flambeau, Wis.

Frater Maur Schmitt, a student at Eutopolis, Ill., and a son of the congregation, will also attend.

St. Patrick's church was organized in January, 1893 as a mission church by the Franciscan friars. Organized into a parish, St. Patrick's was later turned over to Lincoln Diocese clergy.

When the depression of the 1930's closed the Burlington Shops, cutting membership, the Franciscans again staffed and supported the church.

Two Baptist Ministers Set Goals for Selves

[illegible] Baptist pastors have assigned themselves big jobs reaching the unchurched and building a congregation

The first task is the Rev. Jim Allen's, along with his new duties as associate pastor of First Baptist Church

His own credentials for this assignment are good—he didn't go to church until he was 18 and wasn't baptized until October 1954

'Helped People'

"I felt church was good and helped people" he said "It was all right for some, but didn't mean anything to me. I thought it was a waste of time to go"

Later feelings toward the church did an about-face as he felt a strong personal involvement in its work

He then found this "the only place where people can square with you. There's a sense of destiny, friendship and fulfillment in the church."

The Air Force capitalized on his decision

In Korea from 1955 to 1956, he worked with a missionary and was elected president of the Christian Service Fellowship at his base

While stationed in Kingman, Ariz. he pastored a mission church for a year, served as interim pastor for several months and was de facto base chaplain.

His ideas for reaching the non-church member include sponsoring a "skeptics' night to provide an opportunity for discussion on both sides" and frank talks over coffee between the members and non-members.

"Having made the decision fairly late in life, I'm quite sensitive to the needs of non-Christians and can sympathize with them"

The Rev. Mr. Allen attended the University of Redland in Redlands, Calif., finishing degree work at Westmont College in Santa Barbra, Calif.

Graduate work was at California Baptist Theological Seminary in Covina, Calif.

During college he was also an interim and youth pastor to several churches.

The Rev. Mr. Allen, an [illegible] Baptist Convention [illegible] married He and Mrs. Allen have two sons Jeffrey, 8 and Jami, 5 They live at 340 So. 52nd.

New Church

Building a new Baptist General Conference church is the Rev. Fred Miller of Faith Baptist Church 4701 So. 40th

"[illegible] hope it will be to develop the Sunday school," he said It's been proven that 80 [illegible] of church growth come from the Sunday school"

Also scheduled is more construction work to place a new sanctuary and other buildings alongside the small chapel on the 6½-acre site.

The Rev. Mr. Miller will be Lincoln's only minister of the General Conference.

Born in Ireland, he was an Episcopalian until he left at 19 because of economic depression at home "At that time I was an electrician."

At 20 he began school, planning on entering the mission field in India. "That didn't materialize, so I elected to go into the pastoral ministry."

He is a graduate of Sterling College in Sterling, Kan., with a bachelor's, and received his divinity degree from Bethel Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. Graduate work was at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Ill.

He has served pastorates in Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Iowa, moving to Lincoln from Cedar Rapids

This will be his second major building assignment, having been charter pastor of Edgewood Baptist Church in Cedar Rapids, where he served nine years

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Miller of 2727 So. 34th have one son, Lawrence L., 23, of Cedar Rapids

Overall Home Building Declines in Lincoln But Real Estate Sales Advance

By BESS JENKINS

Maybe the man on the street who kept saying Lincoln [illegible] knocked down economically by an air base closing is right.

One of these, for instance, points to $9,5[illegible] in home real estate sales in the past six months as the piece of evidence.

"That's more than 6% above the $8,949,816 sold in homes for the same period in 1964," adds Jack Hoyt, past Lincoln and Nebraska Board of Realtors president.

The homebuilding report is another story, depending upon whom you talk to — the contractor who specializes in the more expensive custom product or the home that takes less than $20,000 to own.

The former say they're as busy as ever, maybe a little more in some cases. Many of their customers are second and third home buyers, ready for a custom-designed job.

Building Down

But overall home building is down as those like contractor Ervin Peterson predicted it would be to ride through the air base transition.

Where 520 housing unit building permits were issued for the first six months in 1964, the total for the first half of 1965 on file in the building inspector's office is 328. This includes all types of housing.

Dollarwise, it amounts to $5.5 million of construction this year against 1964's $8 million for the six months.

This deliberate cutback may prevail for another year, taking the community past the final air base phaseout next July 1.

By then, the 4,213 military and civilians currently at the base will be down to a caretaker squadron of some 600 men. Population last year at this time was 6,708.

1,285 'on Base'

Of those needing housing, 1,285 still live on the base and another 1,948 in off-base housing.

As the base's 1,600 home units are vacated, personnel living in town and never before eligible for base housing are moving into the government units. A total 990 of the thousand are occupied today.

The ultimate fate of this 1,000-home village adjacent to the base could influence the pace of homebuilding, home selling and home renting in Lincoln in the immediate years ahead.

So may a decision on Huskerville's several hundred units which more officials and private citizens are beginning to believe have served beyond the call of duty and should be abandoned.

"We've absorbed and sold 125 to 150 of these homes already, so the remainder of the estimated 400 coming up should be no problem," says Don Harrington, Lincoln Board of Realtors president.

Also to be remembered are the Air Base owners who will keep their homes in town, renting them as investments or retiring here, says Harrington.

He, Hoyt and other realtors see no immediate over-supply of rental property if considered in terms of "good rentals."

"So far a demand exceeding the supply seems to be the average realtor's experience," remarks Harrington.

"If any one is going to be hurt by empty property now and after the base closedown next July, it will be the owners of the less desirable or substandard housing," Harrington said.

He suggests this may be a blessing in disguise to the community, prompting owners to eliminate poor property if it stands idle long enough.

'Less-Desirable'

Hoyt compares this less-desirable housing to the same difficulties encountered by owners of some office building space today.

"It may be here but hard to rent because of its inadequacies in a competing modern market," he added.

Air base spokesmen report departure of military personnel and their families will be gradual through October, then stabilize until the final phase-out starts late next March.

Neither realtors nor builders seem to be sitting up nights worrying about this, however.

"There might have been some reason for the earlier pessimism if we were back in the 30s when Lincoln's population was 60 or 70,000," said Hoyt.

But today, in his opinion, the metropolitan community's economy is far from being an exclusive locally-based one.

He points to at least 20 big life insurance companies headquartering here and industries with products going to national and world markets to prove his point that the base closure will not have any allover effect.

This, he and others note, are major economical contributions above and beyond the city's two mammoth local "industries" — state government and the University of Nebraska.

'Boom' and 'Zoom' Auto Market Tenor

New York (UPI)—The booming strength of the automobile industry was illustrated last week when General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. reported record sales and profits.

The industry is the major factor in the state of the nation's economy.

With car sales continuing to zoom, it is virtually certain that this will be another record year.

General Motors, the world's largest manufacturing concern, earned $1,274,843,649, or $4.45 a share, in the first six months of this year. This was a gain of 12% over a year earlier.

The first half profit was greater than the full-year profit of any year in GM's history except 1952, 1963 and 1964.

GM's sales of $11,215,456,369 represented a gain of 14% over the 1964 first half.

Chrysler, the No. 3 automaker, earned $118.4 million, or $2.91 a share, in the 1965 first half against $114.4 million, or $2.95 a share, a year earlier. More shares were outstanding in the 1965 period than in 1964.

To $2.6 Billion

First half sales climbed to $2.6 billion, an increase of 28% over a year earlier.

The industry's new car sales in the middle third of July set a record. Dealers delivered 215,429 cars in the July 11-20 period, up 20% from 180,167 in the like 1964 period.

Automakers built an estimated 147,700 passenger cars last week, down 13% from the previous week, as most assembly plants began closing down for the changeover to 1966 models.

Ford Motor Co. closed all but 3 of its 16 plants. Chrysler wound up 1965 model production at its six plants. General Motors closed one plant and will close more next week, but it is expected to keep some 1965 output running for another two weeks.

Two other industrial giants, U.S. Steel Corp. and Bethlehem Steel Corp., reported increased earnings for the first half of 1965. Steel users' stepped-up buying during the period to build stockpiles as a hedge against a possible strike Sept. 1 was a major factor in increased sales.

Lowest Level

Steel production fell to the lowest level of the year last week, when 2,603,000 tons were turned out. This was 1.4% below the 2,640,000 tons poured the previous week.

Some of the apprehension of a recession in 1966 may have been alleviated by President Johnson's call for a moderate step-up of U.S. participation in the Vietnam war.

The increased activity means that there will be more defense spending which will help the economy. Businessmen breathed sighs of relief that for the time being there is no threat of government control of wages and prices nor of higher taxes.

The Labor Dept. reported that the cost of living went up five-tenths of one per cent in June to a record level.

Prices of food, principally meat and poultry, increased 2% and were the principal factor in boosting the government's consumer price index to 110.1. That means that you paid $11.01 in June for items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Securities Gain Attributed to Vietnam Talk

New York (UPI)—The stock market pulled out of its lethargy last week and scored its best weekly gain since breaking out of the June slide. Trading was moderately active.

Brokers attributed the major share of the upswing to President Johnson's statement on the Vietnam conflict. The experts said there had been expectations of a much larger increase in the U.S. commitment.

The uptrend, accompanied by a good increase in volume, has led a number of brokers to believe that perhaps the long-awaited "summer rally" has begun at last.

The influx of good economic and business news, particularly second quarter earnings statements, is expected to fuel the advance.

Strength In Wheat

Chicago (UPI) — Soybeans closed mixed, wheat strong, corn steady to firm, oats weak, rye firm to strong on the Board of Trade this week.

Soybeans opened and closed the week strong, were mixed Tuesday and Thursday, but the bottom fell out Wednesday, following President Johnson's announcement on Vietnam.

Wheat was mixed Monday and Thursday, steady to firm Tuesday, weak Wednesday, and firm to strong on Friday.

Corn was mixed Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, weak Tuesday and steady to firm Friday.

Oats were mixed Monday, easy to weak Tuesday and Wednesday, easy Thursday and steady to firm on Friday.

Advance In Cattle 25-75c

Omaha (UPI) — Livestock prices scored substantial gains on all species at Omaha last week with limited receipts and an improving dressed meat trade major factors in the advance.

The week's cattle and hog run was slightly heavier than the previous week but lighter than a year ago. Sheep numbers were below both the previous week and last year.

Fat cattle sold 25-75c higher with best buyer interest and most price increase to steers over 1100 pounds and heifers above the 850-pound mark.

Steer top moved up to $28.25, paid for weights from 1201-1319. There were numerous sales at $27-$28. The majority of choice steers sold for $26-$27, with mixed good and choice bringing $25-$25.75 and plainer kinds $24.75 down.

Heifers weighing 1001 scored $26.50. Choice heifers realized $24.50-$25.75, mixed good and choice $23.75-$24.75.

$25.64 Average

Average price of slaughter steers figured $25.64, against $25.63 the previous week and $22.02 a year ago. The heifer price average was $24.46, against $24.55 the previous week and $21.34 a year ago.

At the close beef cows ranged from $14-$15, with canners and cutters bringing $12-$14.25. Bologna bulls were weak at $16-$18, odd head to $18.50. Veal calves sold steady at $18-$22.

Replacement cattle and calves numbered 3,000 head and prices were steady.

Butcher hogs scored substantial gains to regain much of the loss suffered in the previous session. Butchers finished the week mostly 75c higher with weights from 200-300 pounds selling from $23.25-$25.25.

Sows were $1-$1.25 higher with 280-600-pounders bringing $20.50-$23.50.

Fat lambs closed mostly 25c higher for the week. The supply was made up mainly of spring lambs. Bulk of the springers cleared at $22.50-$23.75 with a few old crop shorn lambs going for $21.50.

Farm Payment Switch Will Hit Consumers

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington (AP) — The Johnson administration is moving toward greater use of payments to supplement returns farmers receive for their products. But the question of who is to pay the bill is raising difficulties.

President Johnson is insisting that costs of government farm programs be reduced. But his administation is finding there is a limit to the reduction if greater use of payments is to be made to boost agricultural income.

Until last year, most government payments to farmers came out of the pockets of taxpayers by way of the Federal Treasury.

But for some time administration leaders have been trying to convince the public that consumers have been getting food cheaply — perhaps too cheaply when food prices are compared with living costs and with farm production expenses.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has put out many statistics designed to show how food has taken a smaller and smaller portion of consumer income over the years, while at the same time costs of rent, utilities, automobiles, entertainment, medical care and the like have been rising.

The statistics show also that farm prices have fallen far below a parity or "equality" standard set for farm products by agricultural legislation. These prices have been running about 25% below that standard, with a consequent inadequacy, administration officials say, of returns to farmers.

Naturally, the ideal way of correcting such a situation of disparity would be to raise food prices to a level that would bring farmers a desired level of income.

But many things stand in the way of this. Perhaps the most important is the fact that resulting increases in farm prices would make many products non-competitive in essential world markets. In other words, low farm prices are needed for most farm products if they are to find buyers abroad. Examples of this include cotton, wheat, dairy products, and rice.

Thus from the administration standpoint, there is only one other way of putting more money into farm pockets and that's through the use of payments supplementing money the farmer gets from sale of his crops.

Beginning with the 1964 crop, the administration moved to shift the cost of these payments on wheat from the government to the consumer.

It did this by lowering its support price on the grain to make it more competitive abroad, and by adding a levy on millers and processors to raise funds for the payments to wheat growers. Millers had to buy certificates at 75 cents a bushel on every bushel of wheat processed for domestic food use. Millers naturally passed the cost of the certificates along in the price of flour and bakers added it to the cost of bread and bakery products. Hence, the farm payment was shifted to the consumer. Naturally, the families which used the most of these wheat products paid the most toward the farm payments. A rich taxpayer who consumed little or no wheat products paid little or nothing toward the payments.

This shift has brought much criticism that the cost of the wheat payments were in fact shifted from able taxpayers to the poor.

Collections Over State Fund Call

$1.5 Million Gain Made

Nebraska state government's general fund had net receipts of $1,574,624 more than was needed to meet full legislative appropriations for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

State Auditor Ray C. Johnson reported 12-month general fund collections, exclusive of property taxes, totaled a record $25,006,096.

One year ago the State Board of Equalization calculated these miscellaneous receipts would provide $24,767,844—only $238,252 less than was actually banked.

On the basis of the anticipated $24.7 million, the Board levied a property tax to meet the remaining $21,234,554 in appropriations.

Taxes rolled in to the tune of $22,570,926, or $1,336,372 in excess of appropriation requirements.

Prime cause of the overcollection is Nebraska's peculiar property tax collection year. It runs for several months into the succeeding fiscal year.

Thus, thousands of dollars of property taxes raised under the 1963 state levy of 9.795 mills were recorded as income after the 1964 levy of 9.14 mills had been invoked.

This kind of situation points to a less-than-required collection of state property taxes for the 1965 fiscal year, especially if the new state levy goes over 9.14 mills.

A new levy of 12 mills is being freely predicted, presuming no startling increase in tangible property valuations.

Creighton Plans European Tour

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University this fall will sponsor a 21-day European tour for alumni and friends of the university.

The trip, which starts Oct. 12 from Omaha, will include Ireland, France, England, Italy, Spain and Portugal. Leading it will be the Rev. Raymond J. Bishop, S.J., professor of education and psychology, and Bernard J. Conway, director of alumni activities.

Conway said arrangements have been made to accommodate 75 persons. The tour will set a new distance mark for Creighton alumni activities, but it will be the third university-sponsored trip outside the continental U.S. Creighton conducted tours to Hawaii the past two years.

In Rome, arrangements will be made for an audience with the Pope.

Historians, Take Note: 1965 Is Year of the Socks

Back-to-school classics with new vitality include this skirt and sweater ensemble by Newport Mills in off-beat blues and greens and an updated sailor dress by Sylvia White with red accents on palest blue.

By JAN BURNS

Most important in back-to-school fashions for college and high school girls this fall is the Total Look.

The idea is to be dressed head-to-toe in a perfect blend of colors. Most outfits add to the ever-popular skirt and sweater combination, matching socks, caps and even boots.

If the top is patterned (argyles and paisleys are especially popular), the long socks match it. Caps match skirts and boots may also be fashioned from the skirt fabric.

Bright plaids and patterns are favored by the high school set, while college girls may prefer a more sophisticated look.

Season of Socks

Socks—fantastically important this year—are over-the-knee length to go with kilts and A-line skirts, knee-length for the standby slim skirts.

High school girls like the Mod Look, with Empire styling, unusual color combinations and short skirts. Also good in dresses for high-schoolers is the Granny Look featuring ecru lace trim.

Coming on strong with both college coeds and their younger sisters is the Courreges Look, which features severe welt seaming, short sleeves and straight, short skirts.

And in contrast, many dresses have a very feminine look. Crocheted detail is found everywhere and there's a feeling of fullness in skirts.

Flip, Swing Skirts

The trend toward skirt interest in this fall's dress collections shows up mostly in flip and swing skirts for college girls. These frocks have a one-piece, skinny look to about fingertip length where godets or trumpet flares provide a flippy look when the wearer walks.

Knits, black crepes and colorful wools remain popular in the college wardrobe and flannels are gaining new importance.

Making color news are gray and camel combinations and the dahlia tones of purple, cranberry and the warm deep reds.

Heather tones are among the newest colors in men's as well as coeds' back-to-school fashions.

For college men, the heathers are mixtures of greens, browns, golds and some blues and are seen in suits, sports coats and sweaters.

In sports coats, navy remains the basic color. Herringbones—in the heather tones—are gaining favor and bold Glen plaids are good.

Dress trousers are fairly trim—16 inches at the cuffline—and belt-looped. In casual slacks, wrinkle resistance is of prime importance and practically any style that requires no ironing is acceptable.

High school boys also favor jeans, in wheat or light green tones.

Shirts are strictly button-down collared and mainly solid-colored. Good back-to-school colors include light green and blue (or a mixture of these), yellow and rosy pink.

CPO Shirt

Sport shirts come in big, bold plaids. And the surfer look in short-sleeved knit shirts will remain "in" for early fall, while the weather is warm.

Big news for fall is the CPO—for the Navy's chief petty officer—shirt, an all-wool garment in navy or burgundy to be worn over a turtle-necked knit long-sleeved shirt.

News in accessories for the well-dressed college or high school man includes pocket squares—colored pocket handkerchiefs—and solid color stretch socks with a wool look.

Paisleys, foulards and wool challis are good in ties. Design ties, conservative or bold, are picking up popularity and standard regimental stripes will also be worn.

Full-length double-breasted red coat can be casual or dressy, according to the wearer's choice of accessories. The long-hair pile jacket goes equally well with ski pants or swingy above-the-knee skirts.

One variation of the Total Look calls for chicken-wire over-the-knee stockings to match the cardigan sweater's sleeves and coordinate with a plaid kilt. With the red Bermudas, striped stadium stockings match the long-sleeved pullover.

LINCOLN DIARY

Monday: Tiny Two arrived for a visit at grandmother's house after a two-day and two-night train journey.

She carefully inspected the playroom, gave her doll a tea party, then went upstairs to inspect her bedroom.

Proper Timing

Tuesday: Husbands take note.

Two women were discussing the handyman aptitudes of their spouses.

"The last time I took a short trip without my mate, I discovered he is quite a handyman. The drier, which I had complained of as being completely out of whack, got repaired while I was gone—and as for the refrigerator, which I knew was NOT doing a proper refrigeration job, wasn't repaired until he discovered that food wasn't keeping properly cold."

"Something similar happened to me. I knew the oven wasn't heating properly, but until I left several frozen things for my husband to prepare for himself, he ignored my pleas.

"However, when he discovered the oven wouldn't heat to 450 degrees and he would be reduced to a diet of tomato soup and scrambled eggs (the only things he can prepare for himself), the oven was mended."

Fine Fishing

Wednesday: The family had picked a remote spot for fishing—at least they felt it was remote.

Milady's fishing line had been carefully prepared by spouse, who used special knots and flies. All of a sudden the feminine member of the fishing duo discovered the fly had broken from the line. Spouse doffed all clothing and dashed into stream to rescue his precious fly, when on a road, previously unnoticed by the fishermen, a car appeared. Spouse stayed under water until automobile had passed from view.

About 30 minutes later, after two fine trout had been caught, the game warden appeared.

"See our $25-apiece trout," purred Milady.

Dollars fairly glistened in the warden's eyes as he asked to see their fishing licenses.

Fortunately, Milady was talking about the amount spent on fishing gear, camping equipment and such, rather than fines. The licenses were in order.

Culinary Clue

Thursday: Wives of Nebraska state senators have a very special cookbook to remind them of the Legislature's 1965 session.

Sen. Fern Orme has collected favorite recipes from the senators' ladies and from Mrs. Frank Morrison, and compiled them into a book.

Sen. Orme has been doing this each of the four sessions she has served.

Friday: Highlight of one vacation trip for an eight-year-old came after the family had arrived home.

"We didn't even have a flat tire!"

Missing College

Saturday: Mrs. F. B. Baylor is wondering if anyone has the answer to this one. Mrs. Herbert Horgan of Brookline, Mass., and a Radcliffe College classmate of Mrs. Baylor has written asking for information:

"Do you know anything about an 'International College' in your part of the country? Several people from here have been trying to break in."

Efforts to locate such a college have so far proved futile.

Still Draws Attention

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. C. R. Lynn has been playing dolls for more than 30 years—and her 300-doll-populated scenes are a popular attraction at the Jacksonville Public Library.

Dolls are still favorite gifts from her relatives on her birthday or other special occasions. She has used these in scenes representing nursery rhymes, fairy tales, holidays, poems, songs and fables.

Her hobby sometimes places her in amusing situations. Once she overheard an amateur psychologist comment on the collection, "Here is a perfect example of thwarted motherhood. How this woman must have longed for live children on whom she could lavish her love and care."

This has become a long-standing joke between Mrs. Lynn and her three children as well as her four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Grades Take Precedence in Family Positions

Auburn, Ala. (AP)—It wasn't age before beauty, but grades before age, that placed Mrs. Otto Kramer ahead of her daughter, Evelyn, in the graduation line at Auburn University.

The mother preceded the daughter because her grade-point average of 2.0 topped her daughter's 1.8 average. Mrs. Kramer smilingly said that she returned to college after 25 years to help disprove the belief that learning ability decreases with years.

All-in-One Day Celebrated

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Osceola — Wedding anniversaries are no big problem for the August Ienn family.

They just pick a day or weekend in July, have one big celebration and then don't worry about it for the rest of the year.

Parents August and Hulda and their four children all commemorate the event during the month, three of them on the same day.

For the parents, Wednesday was No. 50. The same day marked 20 for son Morris of Osceola and 10 for a daughter, Mrs. Robert Weber (Helen), of Ralston.

Deviating from the pattern, Mrs. Don McKenzie (Mary Louise) of Chicago noted 15 years of marriage July 1 and the Francis Ienns of Ralston, five years on the ninth.

'No Different'

"We had our children five years apart, and they married, at 27, five years apart," Mrs. Ienn explained.

For the retired farm couple, "it doesn't seem like 50 years — except when all 15 grandchildren are home."

After the test of time, noted August, marriage is "no different. We're still in love — and we still have our ups and downs."

The whole family is together this weekend for the multiple anniversary, marked by a mass at St. Vincent's Church and an open house in the church hall Saturday.

Jovial and witty at 73, Ienn is an immigrant from Germany who discovered his life's partner in the farm lands near Shelby.

Born in the contested Alsace-Lorraine region, Ienn is French but had to serve in the German army.

Mr. and Mrs. August Ienn.

Newspaper Story

"I was picked to be one of the Kaiser's (Wilhelm) bodyguards," he related. "That was quite an honor. It's like the Secret Service; we had to be with him all the time."

That occupied him for two years before World War I and before he took notice of a newspaper article about farming in the U.S., not far from Shelby, Nebr.

With the purpose of learning American farming methods to take back to Europe, the enterprising Frenchman and a companion journeyed to Shelby and got jobs on farms in the area.

Outbreak of the war brought an urgent call for the $25-per-month farm hand to report back to the German army, but, "I liked it here and had taken out my first citizenship papers, so I told them to forget it."

Twenty years ago he retired from the farm near Osceola that Morris now runs, but "I still go out about every day and help. I have to stick my nose in and tell them how to do things," he quipped.

Woodworking and refinishing old furniture fill out Ienn's summer days and oil painting the winter ones. The 15 grandchildren often "keep grandma busy," but there's still time to collect old China and cultivate her magnificant flower garden.

DON'T LET AUGUST HEAT SPOIL YOUR PLEASURE.

August is a good month for vacations, picnics, boat rides and bathing. But if you don't take certain precautions, the sun can burn your skin and tire your eyes. Flies, mosquitoes, fleas and sand bugs will bite away your fun. At the end of what should have been a day of pleasure you wind up with pains, aches and a sleepless night.

There are so many fine products to insure a perfect day. From our summer health-aids displays you can select sunburn preventives and sun-glasses. We have skin lotions which keep insects away. There are creams to prevent a dry skin, anti-perspirants to stop excessive perspiration and deodorants to prevent embarrassment. Come in and see them.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Symbols In Cookie?

Chicago UPI — Cookies are symbols of reward, an industry survey shows, and mothers buy them as an expression of love of their children.

The survey, sponsored by major manufacturer of cellophane, was a nation-wide sampling of 2,000 families. The families' annual income was $7,000 plus yearly and 31% of the wives were employed full or part time.

The report found that when the housewife bought a special treat, such as a cookie or cracker, she was acting out her own affection rather than making such a purchase because of nutritional or economic considerations.

"You want to give the children something nice like cookies to make them happy because you love them so much and you're so glad to see them," one grandmother said.

"You want to win their affection and cookies are a good way," one housewife said.

That cookies are symbols of reward stems from natural associations of childhood, the report quoted Dr. Ernest Dichter as saying.

"Cookies are feminine in their psychology and are identified with a loving and generous mother," said the motivation expert.

Couples Exchange Mid Summer Nuptial Vows

Miss Barbara Kay Bieger became the bride of Aldon Jay Macdonald of Brooklyn, Mich., in a 4 p.m. Saturday ceremony at Temple Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Clare P. Bieger of Sarasota, Fla., and Mrs. Lucille Bieger. Mr. Macdonald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Macdonald of Brooklyn.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta. Pearl-beared lace appeared between the Florentine neckline and Empire waist. English net and lace mantled the bell skirt. A lace-edged sash accented the cotillion train.

A pearl-edged rose held the bride's veil. She carried pink roses.

Mrs. Aldon Macdonald
(Miss Barbara Bieger)

Mrs. Fred Sweet
(Miss Susan Ihle)

Mrs. Glenn Shepard of Tampa, Fla., was matron of honor. Mrs. David Walborn of Lexington, Ky., was bridesmatron. Bridesmaids were the Misses Jennifer New and Susan Reinhardt, both of Russell, Kan.

David Navorska of Cleveland, Ohio, was best man. Ushers were Donald Ehnis and Dennis Whitehead, both of Brooklyn: and Warren Lyon.

Ihle-Sweet

Sioux Falls, S.D.—Miss Susan Ihle became the bride of Fred Sweet of Mitchell in a 4 p.m. Saturday ceremony at First Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ihle. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sweet of Mitchell.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory silk faced peau de soie. The Empire bodice featured re-embroidered lace trim. The controlled bell skirt extended into a chapel length train also lace trimmed.

She wore a lace edged mantilla and carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Ihle of Denver. Bridesmaids were the Misses Susan Cole of Lincoln, Neb., and Susan Mellor of Millard, Neb., and Gail Ihle. Bridesmatron was Mrs. John Anstey of Omaha, Neb.

Best man was Sidney Sweet of Lincoln. Groomsman were Dave Duey of Sabetha, Kan., John Houtchens of Greeley, Colo., Jerry Miller of Davenport, Neb., and Tom McGinnis of Dawson, Neb.

Ushers were Kent Higgins of Ainsworth, Neb., Denny Bargen of Hardy, Neb., Tom Brewster of Stuart, Neb., Bruce Cutshall and Dick Beck.

Male Modes: Summer Clothes Argument, Six or Half Dozen

It's that time of year once again when editorial writers and broadcasters will be [illegible] that men must [illegible] more and heavier clothes that the opposite sex is reported to wear. When [illegible] stop! [illegible] and men are [illegible] bare arms and shoulders, with a backless suit with a low-cut neckline and without socks — you'll agree they have a point!"

But before you fellows start feeling too sorry for yourselves — stop to consider the advantages you have over the ladies. You are not required to wear tight constricting undergarments! You are not forced to carry around a handbag which feels like it weighs 10 pounds — and, by the end of the day, seems to weigh a ton! Things — in the long run — seem to even up!

Care of Clothes: Add a [illegible] cup of vinegar to the last rinse when washing socks. It removes the last bit of soap, helps to remove lint and makes socks softer. Leather belts can be cleaned by rubbing with egg whites beaten to stiffness. Light-colored articles such as belts and shoes can be darkened by rubbing them with a cloth dampened in ammonia. Apply uniformly to avoid spots.

Trends: According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, the double-breasted suit just might be coming back — even through the back door. Double-breasted blazers, trench coats, short warm overcoats and outerwear have all grown in popularity. If men like the model that much can suits be far behind? . . . Floral prints in sport shirts and swimtrunks, reminiscent of the Hawaiian patterns, are growing in popularity.

Dress Tips: An absorbent mercerized cotton undershirt will keep you cooler in humid weather, and the V-neck style will look better with an open-neck shirt . . . A good way to rinse a wash-and-wear garment thoroughly is to take it under the shower when you bathe . . . The "secret ingredient" that many bootblacks use to give your shoes a high sheen is— a drop or two of lemon juice.

In the Mail: "You once told how to get those little balls of fuzz off a shirt collar. Will you repeat this advice?" It's called "pilling" and can be removed by (a) rubbing the surface with a sponge or (b) going over the collar with a clean electric shaver. It will harm neither the collar nor the shaver.

Odd Items: Well-Groomed—Possibly the best-dressed sportsman of the year is Lord Geoffrey Langford, who came to the U.S. to drive the British entry in the International Trotting Championship at Roosevelt Field. Lord Langford arrived here with four trunkloads of clothes! . . . Strange Nomenclature—In your next visit to a men's store, you may be offered a "Monkey's Uncle," a "Go-Go Bear" or a "Shaggy Tiger." But don't get alarmed—these are just the names being given to the rough and ready fabrics being shown in fur-like outerwear . . . Smart Ensemble — Arnold Palmer wearing a handsome pure white flannel blazer with navy-blue turtleneck shirt after his opening round in the British Open.

Quote-Unquote — John Stephens, youthful owner of 22 men's shops in England: "The old saying, 'to be well-dressed is to be quietly-dressed' doesn't go anymore with the young fellows. It doesn't suit them, and this change of attitude is changing the older people too." . . . . Style Item—More Bermuda shorts are being worn by N.Y.C. taxi drivers than by any other group They claim it's the — coolest! . . .

Forecast From a newspaper of June, 1923: "In some of the first families . . . Manhattan, the young dandies have long hair almost down to their backs, affording a contrast to their mothers who are bobbed or shingled." (1923—that was!)

Sea Map For Walls

Houston, Tex. (AP)—When a woman purchases a chart of the seas and heavens, she may use it for sailing—but it's more likely that the chart will become a part of the interior decoration of her home.

At least that's the opinion of Sam Sproull, a former sailor who is vice-president and manager of Texas Nautical, Inc., agent for the Navy Oceanographic and Commerce Department Charts.

He explains that many of these charts are framed and hung as pictures. Sometimes a den wall is covered with them—or a whole powder room may be papered with them. This type of decoration, Sproull says, is more often done in homes than on boats.

He admits, however, that some charts may be purchased for honest-to-goodness sailing, for some women are downright good sailors.

Starting Fad?

Independence, Kan. (AP) — Harvey Pearce of Independence told police he saw a teen-age girl ransacking the car of his son-in-law, Eddie O'Brien, while the vehicle was parked in the Mercy hospital parking lot. When the car was checked, the only things missing were—a pipe and some smoking tobacco.

Dream of College Degree Is Near

By CAROL HONEY

August 6 will bring to fulfillment another goal of Mrs. Ursula Guszak of Columbus — that of obtaining a college degree.

Before setting her academic course for the bachelor of science in education degree which she will receive, Mrs. Guszak had the careers of a housewife and the mother of six children.

When her youngest daughter, Genevieve, now Mrs. D. James Zingg of Inglewood, Calif., was in the fourth grade in 1951, Mrs. Guszak started college courses at at McCook Junior College.

College hours have been earned at McCook, off-campus study, correspondence courses and night classes at the University of Nebraska.

Setbacks

Attending a night course at NU necessitated a drive from Columbus to Lincoln and return each Tuesday evening.

While doing her course work, Mrs. Guszak also taught. She taught at Venango from 1954 to 1960 and since 1960 she has taught in Columbus.

Mrs. Guszak suffered two setbacks in her college education. In 1963 she lost her husband in a drowning accident. "That was my hardest year," says Mrs. Guszak. Following the accident, she suffered a heart attack.

This is the fifth summer she has attended summer session at NU. For the experience of it, she is living at Pound Hall this summer, rather than with her daughter, Mrs. Greg (Rosalie) DeWitt, with whom she lived the other summers.

"The closer I came to getting my degree, the more I dreamed about getting it," said Mrs. Guszak.

Mrs. Guszak . . . setbacks behind her.

Over the Limit

The University made special provisions for Mrs. Guszak to attend this summer, as she cannot walk great distances. She also is being allowed to carry 11 credit hours which is over the usual limit.

Her attentions are being devoted to geography, physical education in elementary schools and two education courses this summer.

Mrs. Guszak's other children are Paul of Elwood AFB, S.D., Mmes. Roger Fritzel of Oahu, Hawaii, Raymond Kosiba of Columbus and Miss Mary Lou Guszak of Columbus.

Counter Is Party Aid

For a successful party, nothing beats having your own refreshment counter.

Time was when the host would spend much of the evening in the kitchen fixing for a crowd assembled in another room. Now more hosts are finding they can fill their guests' orders more quickly and efficiently with a strategically located mixing and serving counter.

An appropriate counter can be purchased at various prices. Or it can be constructed by a do-it-yourselfer. Either way, it probably should be large enough to accommodate at least three stools. It should also include a hidden shelf on which the host can stock glasses, ice, stirrers and an attractive cloth for cleaning up.

It's a good idea to locate the counter near an electrical outlet so equipment such as a coffee pot or milk-shake mixer can be plugged in.

Special attention should be given to the counter top. Rings left by glasses will leave a permanent impression on many surfacing materials. The way to avoid this is to cover your bar top with a material which is stain-proof and also burnproof, in case you're planning to serve hot dishes.

Easy Mounting

Use papier mache (soaked-up newspapers) as a base for driftwood arrangements. The papier mache may be made tougher by adding a little flour to it.

Pickling Tips Help Quality

"Are you one of the many persons who like a slice of dill pickle with your hamburger?" asks Kathryn Cooley, Extension foods specialist at the University of Nebraska.

"If you are, now is a good time to start thinking about making your own pickles and relishes at home," she advises.

During the summer, when garden vegetables and fresh fruits are abundant, you can select produce for pickling. Follow these guides, Miss Cooley suggests:

Select tender vegetables and firm fruit. Pears and peaches may be slightly under-ripe for pickling.

Use unwaxed cucumbers for pickling whole. The brine cannot penetrate waxed cucumbers. Stored cucumbers must be kept cool and well ventilated. They deteriorate rapidly when stored at room temperature.

Do not use fruits or vegetables that show even slight evidence of mold. Proper processing kills potential spoilage organisms, but does not destroy off-flavor produced by mold growth in the tissue.

High Number

Mrs. Leonard Nixon Jr.
(Miss Cynthia Siemering)

Evening Vows Told

Miss Cynthia Siemering became the bride of Leonard L. Nixon Jr. in a 7 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Mark's Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Corbin C. Siemering and Leonard L. Nixon.

The bride's gown of organza over taffeta was styled with a slightly-lifted bodice and round neckline framed in lace. The A-line skirt featured two vertical bands of lace. The softly-pleated back extended to a full chapel train.

Organza roses on a lace clip fashioned the bride's headpiece. She carried golden wave roses and white tea roses.

Mrs. Glade Hier of Malcolm was matron of honor. Miss Penny Siemering was maid of honor.

Robert Goeschal was best man, and Robert Smith was groomsman. Ushers were Glade Hier of Malcolm, Rick Shenkel, and Lynn Meyer.

A Beauty Hint

Give your skin a delightful bloom to last through the driest and hottest of summers. Damp a cloth in the cold water from your refrigerator and smooth it over your face and neck, or better still, cool and use your bottle of lemon Jelven instead. Feel the skin respond to the refreshing Jelven toning action. Now, to hold the bloom, smooth on your oil of Olay and use it always under your make-up to protect against the weather and to give the skin that young dewy look.

Mrs. James S. Harper
(Miss Jenise Burmood)
of Santa Ana, Calif.

Vows Said In Evening

Wood River — Miss Jenise Ann Burmood became the bride of James S. Harper of Lincoln in a 7:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony at First United Presbyterian Church.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Arlie B. Harper of Hastings and Harley G. Burmood.

The bride appeared in an organza sheath gown with fitted bodice. The bell sleeves and skirt were banded with lace. A chapel-length train was held with a self-fabric bow at the back.

The bride's circular veil was trimmed with lace and applique. She carried pink and white roses and carnations.

Mrs. John Warrick of Lincoln was matron of honor. Bridesmatrons were Mmes. Bert Schultz of Lincoln and Donald Dietrich of Dallas, Tex. Miss Bethine Spohnheimer of Dallas was bridesmaid.

Merle Harper of Rochester, Minn. was best man. Groomsmen were Bert Schultz of Lincoln, Robert Knefelkamp of Grand Island, and Jerry Bunting of Hastings. Seating the guests were Gary Kruse and Lamoine Knefelkamp, both of Grand Island; and James Kulberg of Lincoln.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado and a short stay in Lincoln, the couple will live in Santa Ana, Calif.

House of The Week Obvious Space Gain

By Associated Press

Families who select split-level house plans usually have a number of reasons for their choice Often the deciding factor is the size and slope of the property they own or plan to acquire

For there is no doubt you can get more living area by adapting several levels to the existing contour of the lot—and more economically than with a house in which all the rooms are on one floor.

Entirely aside from the practicality of a split level is the matter of appearance There are some persons who feel that this type of house satisfies their wish to own a home that is neither too high nor too wide

In the newest House of the Week, architect Lester Cohen has turned out a split level which fulfills the normal requirements but adds a touch of character to the exterior By using a double roof over the main living areas, he has produced a "pagoda" effect

This is neither unique nor rare in split-level designs, but in this particular case it adds a feeling of spaciousness to what basically is a house of modest proportions: 1588 square feet on the living and bedroom levels, with over-all dimensions of 52' by 31' 6".

In addition to the double roof, the exterior of stone and shingle is highlighted by well-spaced windows including a sweeping bow a wide stone planter at the front, another planter delineating the entry porch, and a distinctive front door

You couldn't want a better or more attractive area to act as an introduction to your home than the foyer of Design H-94 A curved staircase rises gracefully from the foyer to the living room level and then in a continuing curve to the balcony above The rail is delicate and light, with planters on the two lower levels contributing to the picture of charm

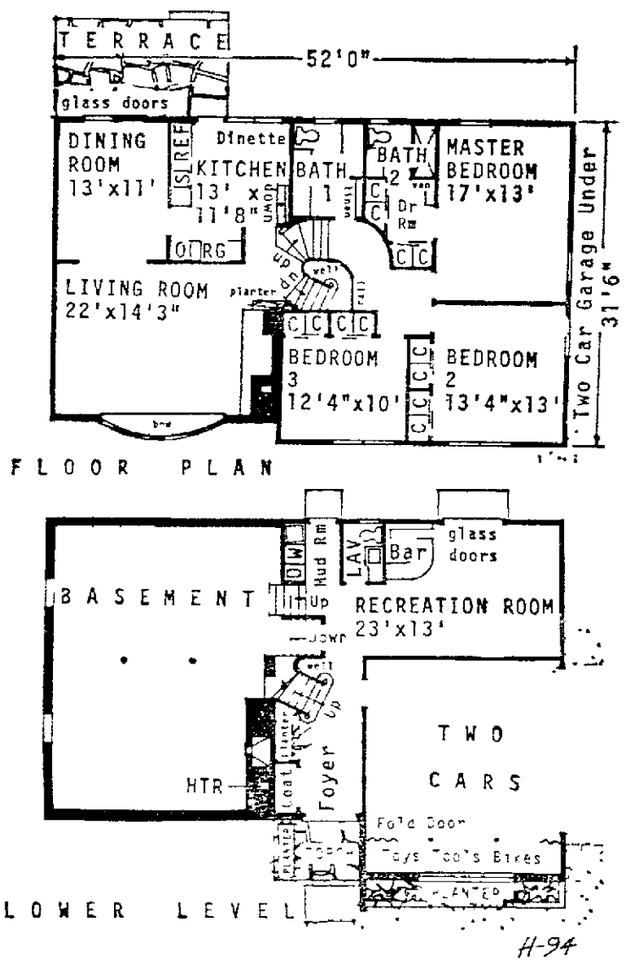
The previously mentioned bow window in the living room combines with a striking fireplace wall to give emphasis to any type of furniture arrangement.

The adjoining dining room can be visible as an ell of the living room or shut off by folding doors or screens. However this room is handled, it's a good addition to the indoor-outdoor living plan. Sliding glass doors form a window wall opening out to a raised terrace. With a door from the kitchen, this outdoor space can be used for a lot of good-weather meals, adding another practical housekeeping note.

The kitchen appliances are nicely arranged, and there's enough space in that area for a dinette overlooking the backyard

On the bedroom level the three rooms are equipped with double sliding door closets plus a linen closet outside the hall bathroom The master lavatory has a stall shower reached through a sizable dressing room The other bathroom has double sinks in a vanitory counter There is an opening in the balcony hall that leads to attic storage space, although it is unlikely that there would be any necessity for using it, since this house has more room for storage than most homes considerably larger

On the lower level, you can go from the two-car garage into the foyer and upstairs to the kitchen with groceries and gear and not disturb either the living or recreation rooms.



Plenty of living area is packed into this house

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Best Yard Seeding Time Approaching

The best time to establish a permanent lawn by seeding is approaching From Aug. 25 to Sept 15 is the only period when seeding of lawns is truly worth the effort

Yet, despite the fact that they know this, many persons will never get the job done. In the holiday atmosphere of Labor Day weekend, the seeding project will be forgotten. The seed will be applied late and, with the expansion and contraction of the earth during winter, the young grass will "heave" from the ground and die.

An obvious answer to this possibility is to begin the preparatory work earlier. In the next couple of weeks, plow or rototill the area to be seeded Rake out the clods and hand grade so the plot will drain properly

Hardest Over

Since the organic fertilizers which are preferred for seeding take longer to be converted into plant nutrients, these can be applied as soon as the raking is completed Having completed these steps the hardest part of the work is finished.

If the heavy rains which we have had this year continue, many persons who wait until the last moment to seed will never get the job done

Under no circumstances should ground be plowed, roto-tilled or spaded when it is too wet. This compacts the soil and turns it into one large clod.

Moreover, if the rains should continue, it would not be advisable to try seeding slopes. This involves staking burlap or using chicken wire and straw. If your time is worth anything, it will be cheaper and much more satisfactory to sod those spots.

Good seed (high germination, low weed count) is the best investment you can make in starting a new lawn. Apply at the rate of one pound to every 300 or 400 square feet

Avoids Missing

Method of application is every bit as important as rate of application Divide the amount of seed required and put on one half going north and south and the other half going east and west. This will preclude the possibility of missed spots that will need reseeding

Roll the area well and then apply peat moss or straw. Oat straw is preferred. Then sprinkle three or four times a day. If blue grass seed completely dries while it is germinating, it dies.

If a gully washer is forecast while the seed is germinating, sprinkle the lawn right before the deluge hits.

Grain Is Wood Key

The knowledge of wood, known as dendrology, is an entrancing study for those interested in furniture The dendrologist can use his knowledge to distinguish the different species by the grain of the wood

According to Magdalene Pfister, University of Nebraska Extension home furnishing specialist, the grain is determined by the size and arrangement of the wood's "pores" and "rays."

The pores are the tubes bearing moisture from the roots upward during the tree's life. On finished lumber they appear as irregular grooves broken at intervals by the rays.

The rays, called pith or medullary rays, run in a thin layer from the bark toward the center. They lie horizontal to the tree and at right angles to the pores

"Woods are divided into two classifications—the non-porous woods and the porous," the home furnishing specialist explains.

The non-porous woods, commonly called softwoods, come from the cone-bearing trees, (evergreens such as pine, fir, spruce, and cedar).

Garden Gossip

Algae Scum Possible

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

Some lawns have a green to blackish scum forming on the bare soil and in the thin grass This is caused by an algae which dries to form this thin black crust As the algae dries, it begins to crack and peel.

Algae is most common in low, wet, shaded places in the lawn. Sometimes it will grow in heavily used and compacted locations Other times, when conditions are right, it will grow in sunny exposed places.

Algae in the lawn is controlled by applying copper sulfate. Copper sulfate can kill the grass, but it takes less of it to kill algae and moss. Therefore, by using the right amount, the algae is killed without damaging the lawn.

The amount of copper sulfate to use is five ounces in four gallons of water This amount is applied evenly on 1,000 square feet of lawn area. After applying the compound, do not water. Let the chemical remain on the surface of the soil for several days.

Soaking Beans Not Necessary

"It is no longer necessary to soak dry beans overnight before making them into your favorite baked-bean recipe," says Kathryn Cooley, University of Nebraska Extension foods specialist.

Best results can be obtained by simply boiling the beans for two minutes; then soaking them for about one hour. Next, add your favorite sauce and flavorings and they are ready for the oven.

Second Use

Nuptial Vows Recited Saturday

Gresham — Miss Rita Parks of Lincoln became the bride of James I. Trimble of Indiana, Pa., in a 7:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Parks of Ulysses and Mrs. Evelyn Trimble of Indiana, Pa.

The bride's gown of bridal peau featured a dome skirt with jeweled re-embroidered lace. The lace pattern also edged the neckline. The cathedral-length petal train featured lace inserts and a Dior bow at the waist.

Allen Reese was best man. Ushers were Tom Parks of York and Dennis Malick of Lincoln.

The couple will live in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Black-Dempsey

Miss Linda Kay Black became the bride of Jerry L. Dempsey in a 3 p.m. Saturday ceremony at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. O. C. Black and C. J. Dempsey.

The bride chose a sheath gown of embroidered eyelet. A bolero jacket of silk organza extended into a court train at the back. The dress and train were trimmed with white velvet bows.

Gwenith Knee was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Krista Wiedeman, and junior bridesmaid was Miss Debora Batten of Sioux City, Iowa.

Carter Martin was best man. Ushers were Bruce Dempsey and Bill Muggy.

The couple will live at 3010 Orchard.

Select Melons By Sight Test

It's sight—not sound—that should be your guide when selecting watermelons, say University of Nebraska Extension food specialists.

Rapping on a melon to see whether it sounds empty or hollow is not the best way to judge quality. Even experts ask to have a "plug" cut in a whole melon to see the inside.

What you should see, is firm, succlent "meat" of a bright red color; seeds should be dark brown or black.

Light-colored flesh and white seeds indicate immaturity while dry, stringy flesh showing darkening or softening next to the seeds indicates overmaturity. Crispness and flavor will not be up to par in such melons, the specialists point out.

For the School

The Chicago public school system is preparing to use a computer to keep tabs on its 550,000 pupils. The system goes into full use in September, 1965.

Miss Barbara Donner of Pensacola, Fla.

Pensacola, Fla. — Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Donner announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Glen to Ens. Dennis Dale Smith of Glynco, Ga., son of Mrs. W. G. Smith of Lincoln, Neb. and the late Mr. Smith.

Miss Donner is a graduate of Pensacola Junior College where she is a member of Phi Lambda Nu Sorority.

Ens. Smith is a graduate of the University of Nebraska in Lincoln where he is a member of Theta Chi Fraternity. He is presently serving with the U.S. Navy.

The couple plans a Sept. 5 wedding.

Miss Marlene Kiser

Central City — Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Kiser announce the engagement of their daughter, Marlene of Lincoln, to Dwight Splitt of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Splitt of Murray.

Miss Kiser is a graduate of the National Business Institute in Lincoln.

Littles For the Littles

Dominating the style scene for grade school girls are the London and Courreges looks. Long sleeves are in much evidence and few waistline dresses are seen.

Shirts may be plaid, solid color or striped, and most have long sleeves and button-down collars. Long-sleeved knits also will be worn this fall.

Extension Meet Set

Six Nebraskans will attend the National Extension Homemakers Council Meeting at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 9-13.

Mrs. Bernard Richter of Kearney, president of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs, is the official state delegate. Nebraska Council officers accompanying her are Mmes. Elmer Barnhill of Lincoln, president-elect; and Charles Fairley of Fairbury, treasurer.

Other Nebraskans journeying to Purdue are Mrs. Walter Schellpeper of Stanton, Mmes. Elmer Christopherson and John B. Iverson, both of Omaha.

An expected 5,000 homemakers from 42 states will attend the national meeting which is held in conjunction with the Indiana Home Demonstration Assn.'s annual meeting.

Following the theme, the homemaker's role in community development, Mrs. Peterson will discuss the problems of women in a mobile society — the need for knowledge, decision making techniques, use of human resources for satisfactory living.

Sunday Journal and Star
LINCOLN, NEBRASKA
August

Winter Scene Winner

The storm which dumped 22 inches of snow on Lincoln back on Feb. 22 paid a hot-weather dividend to Ralph W. Edwards of 3776 C Street, the first winner in the Sunday Journal and Star Photo Contest.

For his photograph titled "Snowbound," Edwards wins a $35 cash prize. The picture was judged tops in the black and white division, scenes and still life category.

"A neighbor asked me what shutter speed I used to take the picture," Edwards said. "I don't have any shutter speeds. I just saw what looked like a good picture and shot."

Edwards said he wasn't going to enter the contest but friends urged him to submit the picture, so he did.

An employe of the First National Bank, Edwards has been an amateur photographer for several years but "let up on it after World War II."

The prize won by Edwards is the first of four to be given in the contest. Winners of the other three categories will be announced in subsequent editions of The Sunday Journal and Star.

Edwards' picture nosed out entires by Janiece E. Kaufman of 1338 Otoe; Alan P. Bates of 4011 So. 40th, who had two contenders; and Mrs. Jeff Broady of 5831 Randolph.

Still to be announced are winners in the other black and white category, people and activities, and in two color categories: scenes and still life, and people and activities.

New Western

Far-Out Night Club Special Place for Gomer

After dinner Gomer, or rather Jim, invited the bunch to drop by The Horn, a far-out night club on Wilshire Blvd. The place, which mixes grand opera with corny comedy, is somewhat hallowed for him.

"Can you imagine?" he commented between numbers by a comic-banjoist and an operatic duet. "It was just three years ago that I was up there on the stage the night Andy Griffith came in. He said to me afterward, 'You know somethin', boy—you're good; I'm going to bring my manager around to see you.'

"I thought that was the usual Hollywood routine, but sure enough, he brought his manager, Dick Link, in to see me the next week, and they signed me."

After warming up on Andy's show, Jim spread his wings as "Gomer Pyle" and he's been flying ever since

Still a bachelor, Jim lives in the same two-room house he had as an assistant cutter at NBC. "And I'm going to stay there," he insisted "All I need is a place to lay my head at night."

His Alabama accent seems less pronounced offscreen than it used to, but otherwise he appears little changed by his burst of fame. Only one thing bothers him, the inelasticity of time.

"Almost every hour of my time is taken up with something, except when I get an occasional night out like this one," he remarked. "What with doing the show and making a few appearances at fairs and things and doing a special with Andy and Don Knotts, I don't have any time to spare.

"People ask me to do things and they just can't believe that I don't have a day off until next December. I can hardly believe it myself."

Hello, Hello, Hello, Dolly!

A tally by the show management lists 72 versions put on discs by American companies, since the production opened a year ago; and 12 recordings in Belgium; 11 in France; 7 in Spain and Germany; 3 in England and Italy; and 2 in the Netherlands.

First Blitzstein Award Given

New York (AP) — The first Marc Blitzstein Award for musical theater work has been won by William Bolcom, compose of a short-lived off-Broadway exhibit "Dynamite Tonight."

Bolcom, 37, also wrote incidental music for "The Red Eye of Love," another off-Broadway show, and for Brendan Behan's "The Hostage." The award was established by friends of Blitzstein, who died last year in Martinique.

Planetarium Plans Sky Show Of Star and Constellation Lore

"Star Lore for All Ages" is the title of the new sky show at the Mueller Planetarium at the University's Morrill Hall. This show will begin on Aug. 2 and will run through Oct. 4

This show stimulates the imagination of the viewer to enjoy the re-creation of ancient myths, traditional legends and modern fallacies about the constellations and other heavenly bodies. Man's imagination from past and present has provided a rich store of information from which to draw for this educational and entertaining sky show.

Visualization of the lore of the stars is aided by special effects which outline the mythical figures on the planetarium dome as the tales are told.

Summer hours will continue at the museum and the planetarium until Sept. 16 with sky shows offered at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, daily weekday shows at 2:45 p.m., and 2:30 and 3:45 p.m shows on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

As of Sept. 16, the winter schedule goes into effect with public shows at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, 2:45 p.m. on Saturday, and 2:30 and 3:45 p.m. on Sunday.

Amateur astronomers can test their observation ability the last of July by watching for the Aquarid meteor shower. It will probably be at its height on July 29. Approximately 20-25 meteors per hour will radiate from Aquarius and will be especially visible from midnight to sunrise.

Night Skies for August

Wednesday 4 The Moon is in its first quarter phase.

Sunday 8 Mars is 1.8 degrees N. of the star Spica.

Thursday 12 The Perseid Meteor Shower. Moon is full.

Thursday 19 The Moon is in its last quarter phase.

Planets

Mercury is poorly placed for observation most of the month. However, during the last few days of the month Mercury can be seen as a morning star low on the eastern horizon just before sunrise.

Venus is an evening star visible near the western horizon for about two hours after sunset.

Beautiful Cozad Orphan Still Looking (at 100) for a Home

Furthermore, she was once seen with William Howard Taft, the 27th President of the United States

The orphan property of the city of Cozad, is a stagecoach. She was built by the famous Abbott-Downey Co. of Concord, NH, in post-Civil War days, and is one of the few remaining perfect original models.

In 1907 William Howard Taft, then Secretary of War for the United States, used her to tour Yellowstone National Park.

Cost $150

Although her history is somewhat obscure, it is known that Mrs Bird Fuqua owned this and one other coach on her dude ranch in Salida, Colo. It was 1938 when the Cozad Chamber of Commerce purchased the stagecoach from Mrs Fuqua for $150

And for the past 27 years, the graceful lady has never had a permanent home.

Although she has been used on many occasions during Hay Days and for special events such as the Nebraska Heart Fund Drive, she has not been given proper attention A few years ago the Cozad Chamber had to spend considerable money on repairs.

$3,000-$3,500

Now, finally, someone wants to adopt the intriguing orphan. The Cozad Local, the newspaper, has launched a fund drive to raise money for a modern storage and display building. An estimated $3 000-$3,500 will be needed for the structure, which will be erected in Cozad City Park, along with the historical Pony Express Log Cabin and Pony Express Monument.

Dave Stevens, publisher of the newspaper, optimistically hopes that the plea for preservation will be met in one or two months.

NU Summer Production

Phyllis Knipping of Beatrice and Ross Graham of Lincoln have the lead roles in "The Rainmaker." The University of Nebraska Summer Theater will present the popular Broadway hit at 8 p m. Monday and Tuesday at Howell Memorial Theater.

Lincoln Children Contest Winners

Jody Ducker of 4229 Washington won a Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary.

11 Honorary Degrees Given

'Singing Nun'

Harrison Directs

London (AP) — Actor Rex Harrison is reported preparing for his first stint at directing a movie. The stars, according to film industry sources, will be Brigitte Bardot and Britain's Albert Finney. The movie will be based on the Julian More novel, "Don't Go Away I Might Fall Down."

Our Little Town

Summer Sounds Reach Peak Early in August

By GERTRUDE SKINNER
Ruskin

The sounds of summer are at their zenith in early August

Irrigation pumps chug life-giving water to the fields Lush green corn sings a whispered symphony of growth and prosperity to the farmer The whirring of mowers cutting the lavender blossomed alfalfa accompanies the flurried rising of birds, routed from their nest

The rooster sends his early morning call across the countryside to be answered by a distant and braggart call from an adjoining farm. In the evening the distant hills give up the mournful howl of the coyote or the bawl of a cow seeking her calf.

The wind, carrying a nameless loneliness, adds its eerie voice to the patter of rain. Paradoxically it scolds and comforts us, seeking out our very souls The noise of fast gathering summer storms adds a touch of drama to the tranquility of summer.

Locust, cicadas, crickets and grasshoppers set up their incessant busy hum. Frogs croak, caught in the bottomless mud of the stock ponds Century-old cottonwood trees rustle their leaves, imitating the rush of water on far distant shores. Now and then an occasional bird call breaks the hanging summer heat

The laughter of happy children mingled with the barking of a playful puppy, neighbors calling to each other, the rush of tires on the distant highway, a porchswing rhythmically squeaking—the church choir practicing a new anthem for Sunday — these are the sounds of summer. These are moments to remember.

June Has Maternal Role Again

Hollywood (UPI)—June Lockhart, Lassie's "Mother" for six years, returns to television this fall in another maternal role in a new series titled "Lost in Space."

Unencumbered by tacky farmwife dresses, and aprons, the sprightly Miss Lockhart happily reveals a dazzling figure in 1997 space suits.

"It's a real boost for my morale," she said "I play the wife of Guy Williams, and we're the parents of Marta Kristen, 19, Angela Cartwright, 11; and Billy Mumy, 9. We're selected as the ideal family to colonize a new planet because all of us are scientists—even Billy—and because we are supposed to be emotionally stable. There's even a villain aboard the rocket ship

"But our mission is aborted and we become lost in space, stopping at various planets for fun and games"

Movie a Breeze for Patty Duke

As Helen Keller in the film that won her the Oscar as best supporting actress of 1962, she had some battles with her fellow Oscar winner, Anne Bancroft.

Now young Patty is here for her first Hollywood film —"The Miracle Worker" was a New York product. Adapted from the play "Time Out for Ginger," it is now called plain "Billie." In it Patty runs the 100-yard dash and hurdles, pole vaults, dances the frug and sings four numbers.

For two seasons she has been playing a double role on a television series entitled "The Patty Duke Show."

All Three

"In fact," she said, "this year I played a third role: the girls' southern cousin. That was real fun. I put on a platinum wig and used a southern accent and played her entirely different from the other two girls. We even had a split-screen scene with all three of us at the same time. That was something. The scene was so tight that I couldn't move my elbows."

Billie is much different from all three of the TV roles, she said. She'll look different, too; her hair is now in a very blonde Beatle-bob.

Best-Laid Plans Can Go Awry

He was explaining why he is leaving on a long, expensive journey into frustration.

Stewart did his explaining on the set of "The Flight of the Phoenix," in which he plays the commander of a military aircraft downed in the African desert. He gave his utmost concentration to a tense scene with British actor Richard Attenborough. But afterward his mind wandered to the green hills of Africa.

"At this very moment," he sighed, "my wife, twin daughters and two sons are on a safari 200 miles south of Nairobi. They are having a fantastic time, they write me. One of the twins told me all about how their camp was invaded by an army of ants. The camp had to move or it would have been destroyed."

Jimmy and Gloria Stewart, who had been to Africa twice before, had arranged a year and a half ago for this family outing. Trouble is, best-laid plans of movie stars can go awry.

When Jimmy signed to appear in "The Flight of the Phoenix," the timing was tight but possible. If the film finished on schedule, he could go along on the safari. It didn't, and he won't.

But he is going to make one last gesture for family-unity.

"I will leave Los Angeles airport at 9 a.m., he related. "I arrive in New York at five and get on a plane for Rome at six. I arrive in Rome at 7:30 in the morning and leave at 11 for Nairobi. Then I go 200 miles to where the camp is, arriving just in time to help with the packing and pay off the white hunters.

"Two days later, we all get on the plane for London, where I will leave my family and come back to Hollywood, reporting to the studio a week after I left."

What fouled up Stewart's plans? It was the highly technical Robert Aldrich production which required an arduous location plus weeks of difficult filming at the studio. Since Stewart is merely taking a week's respite from the film, I asked why he couldn't have done so earlier, thus affording a few more days on safari.

The reason, he explained, is that others of the cast which includes international actors, must finish their roles and be released for previous commitments. So Stewart was stuck.

"Oh, well," Jimmy said, "I may have missed the safari, but I did have Yuma. Ah, Yuma, with its cool breezes, its gorgeous scenery, its dancing native girls."

He spoke of the Arizona location, where temperatures reach the 120s.

Tangling With Heavy Not a Great Disaster

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

If you tangle with a heavyweight champion, you always have to worry, but when you are opposed to a bridge champion you don't necessarily have problems. The fact that South's opponents were experts should have made his task easy. Do you see why?

With six-card support for South's major suit, we would vote for an immediate raise to game on North's hand. Such a raise shows distributional strength, not honor cards, and, anyway, after the two heart overcall we'd upgrade North's hand in the expectation that the heart king would yield a trick, though of course we'd be disappointed.

Having reached game via a slower route, declarer ruffed the third heart lead and pulled trumps. He figured that the only chance to avoid losing a diamond was to make the defense open up that suit; he therefore threw the lead by playing ace and another club, and after winning with the jack, West had to return a diamond or give a fatal ruff-and-sluff.

Opening lead: Heart queen

On the return of the diamond deuce from West, do you see why declarer really hasn't any problem—granted that he is playing against competent opposition?

Declarer went into a long trance, wondering whether to put up the queen or to play low and hope that West had led away from the jack.

He eventually took the winning position by ducking in dummy, compelling East to play the king on thin air, but declarer could have saved himself a headache by letting his opponents' expertise work for him: it was a virtual certainty that the diamond king was in East's hand, for when declarer exited with a club, no competent West would have let himself be saddled with the trick if he held the diamond king. And no competent East would have let West be endplayed — East would have overtaken the club and led a diamond himself if he didn't hold the king.

'Moscow' Rises Near Madrid

Chicago Daily News Special

Madrid — A new town, "Moscow, Spain," has risen on the outskirts of Madrid. It's the movie set for David Lean's picture "Doctor Zhivago," a half-mile replica of a Moscow street as it looked 60 years ago.

Built with metriculous attention to detail, it has two- and three-story buildings of the period, shops, a tram line, an equestrian statue of Czar Alexander II, signs in Cyrillic, an onion-top church and the Kremlin in the background.

Some of the "Doctor Zhivago" scenes were filmed in Finland for the deep snow and frosty breaths. But other winter shots were made here, like the "Russian" train puffing across the bleak, snow covered "steppes" of Soria Province, and the Moscow mob scenes of the restless winter of 1905.

No question of making the picture in Russia, of course, if only because Boris Pasternak's novel made the Soviet authorities so angry they wouldn't let him accept the Nobel prize for literature, awarded in 1958.

So it happened that students hired as extras for the night filming of Moscow mobs being trampled by the czar's mounted dragoons had, the same day, battled the Spanish police on the university campus, for real.

Nothing's New Under the Sun— Or Hardly on Fall TV Programs

By GINNY FISHER

In many cases, fall's new television programs, which start premiering next month, use titles of already successful movies or formats of proven popular shows. Many of the stars and co-stars of the new series should also seem very familiar.

Television appears to contain a giant cast which slowly revolves (much like a repertory company), with actors continually switching from one series to another. Over 25 "old" faces in "new" roles can be counted for the coming season.

You may notice Lassie's former TV owner, June Lockhart, galavanting around the universe in "Lost in Space." She will be joined by Guy Williams of "Zorro" fame, Angela Cartwright, who was a regular on the "Danny Thomas Show," and Mark Goddard, previously in both "The Detectives" and "Many Happy Returns."

Ever notice how former co-stars of old series tend to make the try again at the same time? Last season it was the "Real McCoys" family, with Walter Brennan in "Tycoon," Kathleen Nolan in "Broadside" and Richard Crenna in "Slattery's People."

This season stars of the old "77 Sunset Strip" are recast. Efrem Zimbalist Jr. shows up in "The FBI," with Roger Smith in "Mr. Roberts" and Richard Long in "The Big Valley."

Ann Sothern and Don Porter, who were together in "Private Secretary" and "The Ann Sothern Show," reappear separately. Miss Sothern has the unseen role of an antique auto's voice in "My Mother the Car," while Porter performs in "Gidget."

Former Partners

Former partners Bob Cummings and Ann B. Davis returned a season apart. Last fall Cummings starred in and then walked out on "My Living Doll." This fall Ann is featured in "The John Forsythe Show," which stars another familiar star. Forsythe was previously in the series "Bachelor Father," where he portrayed a bachelor caring for a teen-age girl. In this new show, he'll play a bachelor in charge of a girl's school, which houses many teen-age girls. You might say he's typed.

"Wagon Train" alumni, Robert Horton and Frank McGrath have both located new series. Horton was selected for the lead in "A Man Called Shenandoah." McGrath, who sprouted a beard for the role of Charlie Wooster has to keep it for his new spot in "Tammy."

The role of Tammy is portrayed by Debbie Watson, a newcomer last season who headlined in "Karen." Most unusual switch. Next time she'll probably star in the "Debbie" show.

Another regular on TV this past season, Bob Crane, latches onto a new show next month. Crane, who played the second-banana funnyman on the "Donna Reed Show" gets a chance to star in "Hogan's Heroes" this fall.

One of the bewitching new shows, "I Dream of Jeannie" stars Barbara Eden, formerly of "How to Marry a Millionaire" and Larry Hagman of the daytime serial, "The Edge of Night."

Several unusual castings are also noted. One of the regulars in the upcoming fall comedy "F Troop" is James Hampton, who actually served in "F" Troop, Sixth Cavalry during his Army stint.

Hatter Role

Hedda Hopper, known for her flamboyant hats has signed as the voice of the Mad Hatter on the animated color musical special, "Alice in Wonderland," which will be broadcast around Christmas. The perfect case of typecasting.

A current casting is very timely. Vincent Edward's new bride, Kathy Kersh, guest stars as a nurse on his ABC series, "Ben Casey" at 9 p.m. Monday. The couple, who were secretly married on June 13, filmed this episode last winter when they were just dating.

Several other programs of special interest this week. Football begins on network TV with the "College All-Stars Game" on ABC at 8 p.m. Friday and the "NFL Exhibition Game" over CBS on Saturday noon.

Paul Nesselroad narrates a documentary highlighting the archaelogical findings of "The Dead Sea Scrolls," a KETV special at 6 p.m. today.

This afternoon at 4, WOW-TV's "Unicameral '65" features Senators George Gerdes of Alliance, Ross Rasmussen of Hooper and Marvin Stromer of Lincoln on state-federal relations.

The North American Roller Skating Championships, which ended in Lincoln last week-end are highlighted Saturday on ABC's "Wide World of Sports" at 4 p.m.

KUON-TV offers a variety of political programs this week. ETV takes a look at "President Lyndon B. Johnson" at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. Then on Thursday, a round-table discussion "Conversation on China" is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Rains: I Hope I Can Survive

New York (AP)—Veteran star Claude Rains comes back to Broadway next season to enact the role of a reluctant political leader in Henry Denker's adaptation of Ugo Betti's "The Burnt Flower Bed."

Rains, who celebrated his 75th birthday last November, says of the Theater Guild project: "It's a tremendous task. Very emotional. I won't be off the stage very much. I pray that I can survive.

Role of Samson Rugged Work

Rome (AP) — Anton Geesink, Holland's powerfully built judo champion of the Tokyo Olympic Games, is playing the role of the mighty Samson in a movie being filmed here—and he says it's rugged work.

"I must admit," he said, "that the job of being an actor is more exhausting than any training or bout I ever had."

Prime Weekday Time Seen for Sports on TV

Chris Schenkel, who travels about 250,000 miles a year as a sportscaster for ABC-TV, figures he's going to be moving around the country a little more.

All because sports has climbed so high in the rating that sponsors are putting out cash to the tune of $65,000 a minute.

But they're willing to dole it out the way popularity has demanded sports—and more and more of them.

"I think sports will move into prime weekday time," Schenkel said. "The way the ratings have been, the sponsors are going to want to get in on the weekdays besides the weekends."

Schenkel, in Lincoln to do the North American Amateur Roller Skating Championships for "Wide World of Sports" for Aug 7 showing, sees new and old fields where television can improve its sports coverage.

"Like baseball," he said "We've come a long way but when we try some new innovations now, the owners (of the major league teams) cut us off.

"We'd like to get some better camera placements," Schenkel said. "But the owners won't let us take out the seats to put in the cameras."

Bowling, he thinks, will get more air time.

"We did a bowling tournament and the ratings were way up on it," he said. "Bowling itself has expanded. Some of the bowlers are making as much as pro golfers."

Pro football time is likely to be shaved a bit, however, Schenkel said.

"Pro football ratings dropped 11 points last year," he said. "And I think it was because of over-exposure. I like football as well as anything, but by the championship game time I have had enough . . . just because there had been so much."

High in the ratings also have been sports spectaculars like "Wide World of Sports."

Schenkel opined that the reason for it was that people like to sit down and watch different kinds of sports put on in a relaxed manner instead of "the hurry-hurry" way actual contests are televised.

Along with Schenkle for the roller skating championships was a 27-man crew from Chicago, using five cameras at an estimated cost of $40,000.

Resourceful

Hollywood (UPI) — When the French government forbade exportation of French fantail doves in a scene for "Moment to Moment," producer Mervyn LeRoy used American birds with pasted-on plummage.

Rowdy Popular In Europe

Hollywood (AP)— "Who is this man Clint Eastwood?" Sophia Loren asked a friend a few months ago. "He's the biggest male star in Italy and I've never met him."

When the friend told the lanky star of the "Rawhide" television series, he grinned and said:

"That's news to me. But if the lady wants to meet me, I'd sure enjoy meeting her."

Now just back from his second trip to Italy, Clint has found out what Sophia was talking about

"The first time I went to Italy, I just sneaked in," said Clint.

"But this time — I was mobbed. I'd walk down the Via Veneto and people would come up and ask for my autograph."

The difference, says Clint, is a movie he made in Spain for an Italian company. The film, "For a Fistful of Dollars," has been shown in Europe, but hasn't been released yet in the United States.

Clint, who as Rowdy Yates takes over the lead this season in "Rawhide" with Eric Fleming out of the cast, says he's planning to do a sequel to the successful European film.

"That's one of the things we talked about when I was over there," he said. "The first film probably will be released here this fall."

Festus Has to Dress Up A Bit for Protection

By VERNON SCOTT

Hollywood (UPI)—If there was ever a case of not judging a man by the role he plays, it would be applicable to Ken Curtis, who characterizes the scruffy, disreputable Festus Haggen in "Gunsmoke!"

Festus is the great unwashed slob of the Old West, an illiterate bum whose sole purpose in life is to mooch free beer.

The man who plays him studied pre-med at Colorado College for three years and wears a clean shirt every day. He is forced to work overtime living down the image he creates on television.

"I have to wear my best clothes off-stage." Curtis explained, otherwise I'd be rousted by the police for being a bum. It's necessary for me to have a few days' growth of beard for the show, so I have to counterbalance my appearance as much as possible."

Curtis, who will soon be 50 years old, recently was divorced and is reassembling his private life.

He lives alone in a one-bedroom apartment a few blocks from CBS Studio Center where the "Gunsmoke!" series is filmed. He rents the apartment furnished and thus far has only his old shaving mug collection to remind him of home.

Mug Collector

The actor has more than 40 of the antique mugs, many of them elaborately painted.

"I use them for coffee cups," Curtis said, without a trace of the squawky accent that ripples through his dialogue on the series. "They represent a wonderful bygone era for me."

At the moment, Curtis is searching for new quarters and hopes to buy another small house — with swimming pool—in the San Fernando valley. A big reason for finding larger quarters with a back yard is his desire to buy a couple of pets. He and his estranged wife did not have children.

"I did have a couple of dogs," he says . . . 'But my wife got custody of them along with the house in the property settlement."

Curtis, it happens, broke into show business as a singer with the Tommy Dorsey band. He replaced Frank Sinatra with Dorsey shortly before World War II. And it was Dorsey who changed his name, which originally was Curtis Gates.

Curtis limits his vocalizing now to his act with Stone. He has no free time, thanks to the demands of the hour-long show.

Long Day

When the western series is shooting on location Curtis arises at 4 a.m. and leaves the studio by bus in costume and make-up for the badlands in and around California's Mojave desert.

Frequently he doesn't arrive home until after 8 p.m. The schedule is only slightly less demanding when interiors are being shot at the studio.

Born in Colorado and raised on a ranch, Curtis is an old hand at riding horses. But he doesn't enjoy climbing aboard the mule that Festus Haggen rides in the show.

"It doesn't have any reins or anything," he says with a laugh, "and I have to get it going with gees and haws."

Passersby do a double take when they see Curtis, scraggly beard and all, ride by in his new fancy car the actor's only status symbol.

"When the script calls for me to look even worse than usual I wear my sincere black suit off-stage," he says. "But I'd rather just lounge around in sports shirts, sweaters and slacks.

"Even then, I have to be clean as a pin and neatly pressed so I won't be mistaken for one of the local beatniks."

As for the deplorable Festus, the actor says he's grown attached to the character.

"He has a lot of dimensions," Curtis concludes. "Festus may look like the world's biggest mess, but underneath it all lies a heart of pure gold brick."

Cooperation Year Backed by Stamps

It is ironic that the year 1965—prescribed by most nations of the world as the International Cooperation Year—has shown very little cooperation or efforts to do so in every continent throughout the globe. Yet, there must be a ray of hope as long as countries issue stamps honoring the ICY. The latest of these stamps has been issued by India, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The design features a handclasp, the symbol of friendship. The hands are surrounded by laurel wreaths. Above the design is the inscription International Cooperation Year 1965" in English. Below it is also inscribed in Hindi. The color is light brown and olive green.

1st-Day Covers

First day cover collectors will be glad to see the 1965 edition of the "United States Specialized Catalog of First Day Covers" just published by the Washington Press There are almost 200 price changes listed. The edition brings up to date the values of various old covers and the latest ones. Other special sections include a newly revised introduction to first day cover collecting, and a set of detailed instructions for securing covers It sells for 65 cents and is available at your local stamp dealer.

Britain Battle

New Hebrides will issue a set of four new stamps to honor the late Sir Winston Churchill and to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Britain. The values will be 5, 15, 25 and 30 gold centimes. The design will depict a portrait of Sir Winston and St. Paul's Cathedral during the bombings Also to be issued are two stamps for the International Cooperation Year on Oct 24 to coincide with United Nations Day. The design will feature two hands clasped in the laurel wreath emblem as suggested by the United Nations Postal Administration

Telstar Stamp

The French Colonies referred to as the French Community, will be issuing a variety of interesting stamps. The report comes from the French Postal Administration in Paris. The Cameroons will issue a 70 franc airmail stamp showing the Satellite Syncom. The Central African Republic will issue a stamp for electrochemistry. The Congo Republic will issue a stamp illustrating Telstar Gabon will issue a set of four boats

Hungarian Issue

Hungary has issued a new 60 filler stamp to commemorate the First International Renaissance Conference held in Budapest The design shows a reproduction of "The Red Head" by Leonardo da Vinci Reflecting the Soviet influence, a stamp was issued to honor the visit to Hungary of the first woman cosmonaut, V. Tereshkova, and her husband A Nikolayev. The stamp shows the two fliers and a scene in Budapest

Park Stamp

Japan has issued a set of two stamps honoring Aso National Park The 5 yen stamp shows Mount Naka-dake. The 10 yen depicts five mountains seen from Shiroyama. Also issued by that country are stamps commemorating the ITU centenary and International Cooperation Year

Battle Stamp

The Falkland Islands soon will issue four new stamps to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Battle of the Falkland Islands, reports the crown agents representative in Washington Illustrated on the stamps will be HMS Glasgow HMS Kent, HMS Invincible and the Falkland Islands Battle Memorial. Each value also will show a portrait of Queen Elizabeth.

Coin Collectors Plan to Feast On Those U.S. 'Sandwich' Coins

By SYLVIA PORTER

"Dollar bags . . today's best investment. With the price of silver sure to go up in the near future, many silver dollars will be melted thereby making those that remain more valuable."

Porter

This ad, which appeared recently in a major coin collectors' journal, highlights the hoarding problem facing the U.S. on the eve of its first complete overhaul of the nation's currency in 173 years Under the new coinage law, non-silver copper-nickel "sandwich" coins will be produced in place of today's familiar silver dimes and quarters. By yearend, hundreds of millions of new silverless coins will begin to circulate.

While the switch will offer permanent relief from today's chronic coin shortage and will release vitally needed silver for industrial use, it also threatens to bring out coin hoarders and collectors in droves.

Behind the hoarding threat is this simple arithmetic: if today's Treasury-supported silver price of $1.29 an ounce were to rise to $1.38, it would become profitable to melt down coins for their silver content.

Also behind the threat is the 407-year-old "Gresham's Law", production of the new coins with less "intrinsic value" (i.e., silver) will drive the "more valuable" silver coins out of circulation and into the hands of hoarders and speculators.

Money collectors and speculators already have stashed away more than 400 million silver dollars and 250 million new Kennedy half-dollars.

Fact One: The Treasury's present silver supply, just under 1 billion ounces, is enough to last well beyond the three-year changeover—even assuming earmarking of 165 million ounces as a defense reserve Quite possibly the supply could be stretched almost indefinitely

Fact Two: There are now 12.4 billion silver dimes, quarters and 50c pieces in circulation, containing another 1.5 billion ounces of silver "With that much silver as a cushion, why would anybody pay a premium price for ordinary coins?" asks Treasury Assistant Secretary Robert A. Wallace. "The silver coins will be available at their face value at any bank."

Fact Three: Prices of silver futures—the price traders and others commit themselves to pay for silver in the open market at a future date — actually have nosedived since last fall from $1.33 an ounce to today's $1.29 This downtrend reflects the growing realization among experts that the Treasury is determined to hold the price of silver at $1.29 for the foreseeable future.

Fact Four: If hoarding does develop into a major problem, the Treasury has standby authority to prohibit melting and exporting of coins, so that even if the price of silver rose above $1.38 an ounce, hoarders could not make a profit legally.

Fact Five: Unless and until the lid comes off the price of silver, hoarders must forfeit any earnings on funds they put into coins—and you can get well over 4% a year on simple savings accounts in institutions from coast to coast. Moreover, because of the recent rash of coin collection thefts, big holders are being forced to buy costly insurance policies and safes for their collections.

Unquestionably, the long range pressure is for a rise in the price of silver. Under the new law a joint coinage commission will review the whole situation three years from now, decide whether the Treasury should continue to sell silver, at what price and to whom.

But, warns Reno Odlin president of the American Bankers Assn.: "It is going to be a long time before speculators stand a ghost of a chance of turning a profit on hoarding of coins.

Dante Stamp

The Dante commemorative United States stamp went on sale in San Francisco this month The stamp depicts the Italian poet in style similar to early day illustrations of his works

Mexico's Minister of Education made this bold statement of an ambitious program in 1958.

In Mexico, where lumber is scarce and trees are protected with stringent modern forestry programs, the statement has even more meaning.

And Mexico has put that meaning into action. Our modern neighbor spends a quarter of its national budget on education. Mexico is in the middle of a program to build 39,000 new classrooms and train 67,000 new teachers by 1970 . . . and they're well ahead of schedule.

From 3,000 years of civilized traditions, Mexico has built a strong present . . . and they're teaching the youngsters how to build a strong future.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important in today's world. Add to your knowledge . . . send for the free booklet "Know Mexico", Box 1900, New York, 10019.

Presented in the interest of international goodwill by The Advertising Council, USA, the Consejo Nacional de la Publicidad, Mexico and the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

Actress Uses Cane On Wolves

Melodie, a 21-year-old beauty, carries a cane.

She even has a polka-dotted model to match her bikini. In all she has 15 different types of walking sticks to match outfits.

Noticing no limp, a reporter asked her why the other day.

"Well," said the willowy blonde. "I had a horrible experience one day with a man who tried to force me into a car. I fought him off successfully with an umbrella. So I've been carrying canes ever since."

She also admits that it makes her different from other aspiring actresses.

"I know a good gimmick when I see one," she says.

'See U.S.' Drive May Be Extended by Congress

A resolution to extend the "See the United States" drive was introduced in the U.S. House and Senate earlier this month. First launched in 1963, the "See the USA" campaign purpose is to encourage U.S. citizens to discover America with its scenic beauty and rich history.

America offers a wide range of scenery, activities, events and customs. A buffalo round-up is still held in South Dakota, while Kentucky is a source of prehistoric bones. In Arizona the Spanish-attired Dons Club of Phoenix annually conducts a search for the Lost Dutchman gold mine. Minnesota promotes cruises on the Great Lakes, America's Mediterranean Sea.

One Sammy Is Still Running

New York (AP) — With the closing of "What Makes Sammy Run?", which starred Steve Lawrence, Sammy Davis Jr. became concerned that theatergoers might think another Sammy, himself, had left Broadway.

He sent telegrams to theater writers, reminding them that his show, "Golden Boy," is still running:

" 'Golden Boy' and I have every intention of staying together, and around, for quite a spell. Be a pal and pass the word to straighten any confusion that may exist. Sammy Davis."

Dutch-Born Doctor Plays Desert-Rat Role in Conducting Sahara Tours

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — Tourists who think they've seen everything might consider a 13-day drive across the Sahara Desert, with Christmas in Timbuktu.

Those interested should acquire a sleeping bag and camping gear plus a foam rubber cushion for use with camel saddles and then contact Dr. Eugene Thomas.

She is a 52-year-old Dutch-born physician who relishes being called a "desert rat" and has been motoring around the Sahara long enough to have earned the title.

She first visited the desert in 1938. Several years ago hardy tourists began paying for the privilege of accompanying her and her hobby now has been formalized. Her headquarters is in Kano, Nigeria.

Dr. Thomas says the best desert travelers are "those ruffians who have been all over the place. Office types usually don't fit in."

Americans, Britons, Dutch, French, Swiss, Poles, Germans, Belgians, Norwegians and Kenyans have made desert crossings in her Land Rover named "Saharien."

Dr. Thomas is waved across frontiers without red tape.

The Christmas-in-Timbuktu tour leaves Tangier Dec. 16 and makes stops at Fez, Ouzda, Colomb-bechar, Adrar and Bourem before arriving at Timbuktu. Stops are then made at Goa, Niamey and Maradi before journey's end at Kano.

Dr. Thomas doesn't worry about competition.

"I don't think any other fool does what I do. Driving through the desert is relaxation for me. Everything else is strain. Some people like the sea: I hate it. I just like the desert."

Dr. Thomas worked in a clinic at Toulon, France, before World War II, and was in the French underground during the war. Since then most of her time has been spent in or on the fringes of the Sahara.

Motoring through drifting desert sand requires "experience and very fast decision making," she says.

"I unload the passengers and let them walk when the track gets particularly bad. A slow, even speed is usually best because the wheels dig in if you accelerate."

Most maps of Africa show highways twisting across the Sahara. But there is only a vague similarity between what the map shows and what drivers discover.

"The French government kept rock cairn markers and wooden mile poles in good condition in the desert. But these are crumbling since Mali and Niger and Algeria became independent. However, the road to the French atomic test site is excellent."

Ex-Queen Is Attractive Artist

Beirut (UPI)—To other art students at the little walk-up studio in Beirut, the attractive woman in the paint-smeared smock could be just another struggling artist.

She could, that is, if she weren't a former queen of Egypt

Ex-Queen Farida, first wife of Egypt's late Ex-King Farouk and mother of his three daughters, took up painting after moving to Beirut from Cairo more than two years ago.

She has turned out some 15 pictures and at the urging of an American women's group, recently displayed a few of them at a Beirut charity sale. Four were sold for 200 Lebanese pounds ($65) each.

At first she hesitated about showing her work. "I'm still a nothing in painting," she said. She agreed to the sale only for charity, she said, because she didn't want people buying her pictures solely for the name of the artist.

Even without the name of Farida Zulficar, the pictures should be worth the modest price A large charcoal sketch of an Arab peasant woman—looking surprisingly like a self-portrait of the ex-queen herself—has simplicity and feeling not to be found in the gaudy murals of Farouk's former palaces in Cairo and Alexandria.

That Pays for Your Vacation Copies, Too!"

• FIRST time your carrier-boy collects after your vacation, please be sure that he is paid for any newspapers he may have saved for you while you were away, or for any copies that were forwarded to your vacation address.

AS YOU know, he is in business for himself, and when any customers fail to pay him promptly, the cost of their newspapers comes out of his own pocket, until he can collect from them. It may take several extra calls!

THAT'S why he appreciates it so much when you pay him on his very first call. Not only after a vacation trip, but all through the year!

No. 2 Spot No Ticket to Oblivion

American Roulette. By Donald Young; Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

When one sits back and ruminates, there is something almost shamefully remarkable about the speed with which the Nebraska Legislature ratified the proposed 25th Amendment to the federal constitution, 47-0.

From start to roll call report, the whole business spanned less than 10 minutes. There was no judicial study nor reflection of the issue at hand, and only a minimum of explanation.

Understandably, the Legislature was in a sweat to pass the Amendment, making Nebraska the first state to do so.

It is probably as well the matter was not extensively discussed. In the end, the vote would have been approximately the same. Such would seem to be the opinion of historian-journalist Donald Young, author of this anecdotal, well-done review of American vice - presidents and the office they have occupied.

Afterthought To Eminence

In providing a constitutional route guaranteeing presidential and vice-presidential continuity in all situations, Young — like Congress — concludes there is no perfect answer. The 25th Amendment is as good a guideline as may reasonably be shaped.

The development of the vice-presidency from almost afterthought to one of eminence is a story of considerable fascination.

Our first No. 2 man, John Adams, called it "the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived." Franklin Roosevelt's second-in-command for eight years, John Nance Garner of Texas, scornfully observed the "vice-presidency isn't worth a pitcher of warm spit."

This attitude has been largely shared throughout most of American history. We have not been exceptionally particular about the ticket balancers.

Yet eight men — Tyler, Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Coolidge, Truman and Lyndon Johnson — have succeeded to the front office upon the death of the nation's leader.

Nixon's Rise

With perhaps two exceptions, all distinguished the office and served the country well.

Not until Richard Nixon's time has an active vice-president risen to the point where he could win his party's presidential nomination.

Young thinks the Nixon example of 1960 is likely to be a pattern in years ahead. The office has been vastly magnified — and others, like state governor, reduced.

Once ambitious men fled from the prospect of nomination. "In the future," the author concludes, "the second office will be sought most eagerly by relatively young men — many in their forties — who are prepared to travel the slow but possibly surest road to the White House."

Traps Baited For Retirees

The Retirement Trap. By L. F. and L. M. Cooley; Doubleday

Rich? OK! Poor? OK—the government will take care of you. But otherwise? There's always the chance of the senior citizen being lured by extravagant claims, then snared on a fixed income and spiraling living-medical expenses.

Various retirement communities, good and bad, are thoroughly evaluated—and the authors' warnings are as thorough as their evaluations.

The Blast That Changed the World

Atomic Diplomacy: Hiroshima and Potsdam. By Gar Alperowitz; Simon & Schuster.

At dawn on July 16, 1945, the first atomic bomb lit up the New Mexican desert with a light brighter than the sun's to change the course of human history. The bomb has become the central fact in global politics. Moreover, it has multiplied in the world's arsenals until there are enough in existence to provide 10 tons of death for every living human being.

So, at least, we learn in a chilling aside from Lansing Lamont, a Time reporter, in this vivid recapitulation of the events leading up to the detonation of the first A-bomb. It is a story which has never been told in its entirety before. Lamont has woven it together after talking to more than a hundred of the participants.

The result is the verbal equivalent of a good movie. We open with the countdown at the Trinity test site (so named by Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, the senior scientist), and then flash back to the origin of the bomb — its conception, the mobilization of resources for its production, the personalities of the scientists and soldiers involved, and eventually back to the countdown. Given Lamont's taut prose and absence of histrionics, it makes a stirring book.

The men who were at Trinity that morning have never been the same. Klaus Fuchs, David Greenglass, and the Rosenbergs, who gave the secret to the Russians, have paid the price for their acts.

But the men who produced the bomb as an act of patriotism have paid a price too. In a telling afterpiece, Lamont records that individually the scientists are doing their best to "blend into the blandness of middle-class America." Few have succeeded. "The bomb has set them apart from their fellow men and marked them for posterity."

According to Gar Alperowitz, an economist who was 8 when the bomb was tested, it need never have been dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. So he implies in his book, an analysis of American post-bomb foreign policy, in which he arrives at some curious conclusions.

Where Lamont says flatly that estimated casualties for American forces alone in the planned invasion of Japan ranged from half a million up, Alperowitz believes strongly that the Japanese were ready to negotiate peace.

Even after the dropping of the two bombs, he is convinced that what drove them to surrender was less the destruction at Hiroshima and Nagasaki than the belated entry of the Soviet Union into the Pacific war—a highly debatable deduction, to say the least.

Moreover, this young economist argues that it was possession of the bomb which turned President Truman from a policy of conciliation to one designed to keep Russia out of Japan at all costs.

Accepting this premise, it requires no great imagination to visualize Japan as it would be today if the U.S. and the USSR had in fact shared the occupation.

There would be two Japans today, just as there are two Germanies. One wonders which alternative the Japanese people would have chosen had they been given the option.

Critic's Bon Mots Never Belabored

The King of the Cats. By F. W. Dupee; Farrar, Straus Giroux.

The "King of the Cats" is William Butler Yeats, who succeeded to the title upon the death of Algernon Swinburne, and not Jack Kerouac.

But just as the idea of Yeats as Byzantine beatnik is more intriguing than bizarre, so this book, which is quite frankly for well and over-read readers, is packed with much that teases as it teaches, and explodes cliches as it explores truths.

F. W. Dupee, a former editor of Partisan Review is professor of English at Columbia University, an author and editor, and a critic capable of making casual remarks which encapsulate more meaning and genuine cleverness, almost as if accidentally, than the belabored articles, studies, theses and anti-theses of his long-winded but shorter-witted fellows.

The 25 essays and reviews included in "The King of the Cats" are so judiciously edited and economically written that perhaps only the exhortation to read the book can serve as a proper review.

The subjects range from Pickwick to Lolita, from Charlie Chaplin to Gertrude Stein; and although one may occasionally disagree with Dupee's verdict, one is always fascinated by his arguments.

And What Of UFOs?

Anatomy of a Phenomenon. By Jacques Vallee; Regnery

Before Earth wakes up one morning to find a disabled "flying saucer" in somebody's back yard, the author, an astronomer, mathematician and consultant on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's "Mars Map" project, urges a coordinated global processing of all known data on unidentified flying objects (UFOs).

When the physical evidence of UFOs is in our laps, the optimum time for decision making will be past unless we ground ourselves in knowledge and understanding of the phenomenon beforehand. And that time is now, he warns.

"By permitting ridicule to bury the problem and waste our chances of obtaining more accurate, more reliable data from witnesses, we are not acting as scientists," he says.

New Approach

In a book that clutches at both reason and imagination, Vallee traces the history of UFO sightings: They extend from man's earliest records and until recently were generally held as religious omens.

They have been attested to the world over, from the New Guinea jungles to the heart of Europe, from Alaska to New Zealand. UFOs have been reported disappearing into and emerging from the seas. They have been photographed, shot at and chased.

Vallee studs his analysis with details of these unexplained sightings. He examines their effect upon astronomers (devastating — they pull the rug from under the "celestial cemetery" theory of the heavens) and on other witnesses (shocking, exciting, often terrifying).

Mere Onlookers?

He discusses current hypotheses, including the thought that if we are being "visited," all our guests may not be from the same planet; indeed, some may come from other galaxies and may be more than mere onlookers. How's that to chew on?

". . . some of us believe the contours of an amazingly complex intelligent life beyond the earth can already be discerned. Our minds now wander on planets our fathers ignored . . . The sky will never be the same again," he says.
